Provinces Demanding Share Of New Federal Income Tax

'TOO CLOSE' TO PREDICT

By United Press International

The nation's two best-known political pollsters said today a closing rush by Hubert H. Humphrey has made Tuesday's presidential election too close to call.

A variety of other polls, regional and national, also showed Humphrey with increasing strength.

The Nixon camp scoffed. Humphrey backers expressed high hopes.

In a poll taken ending Saturday, the Gallup tabulations showed:

Nixon	42
Humphrey	40
Wallace	14
Undecided	4

When the undecided vote is allocated among Humphrey, Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace, George Gallup said the standings showed:

Nixon	43
Humphrey	42
Wallace	15

Louis Harris' final figures, which he said made the election "too close to call," showed:

Nixon	42
Humphrey	40
Wallace	12
Undecided	6

Harris attributed Humphrey's closing spurt partially to a falloff in support for Wallace's third party candidacy. He also said public approval of the current bombing halt in North Vietnam had given the vice-president a "marginal advantage."

Meanwhile, the smaller Sindlinger survey reports that its findings show Humphrey in front of Nixon for the first time by 0.6 of a percentage point.

The replies by percentage, compared with the two previous Sindlinger polls were:

	Nov. 1-3	Oct. 29-31	Oct. 25-28
Wallace	14.1	11.8	12.3
Nixon	33.8	36.4	36.8
Humphrey	34.4	33.6	33.6
Other	1.2	1.2	1.2
Refused to State	6.6	6.3	3.2
Undecided	9.9	10.7	12.9

Only Nixon Can Win A Majority

By DAVID S. BRODER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — After all the stratagems and spending the heckling and huckstering, the parades, the oratory and the politics, the presidential election of 1968 comes to this:

Richard M. Nixon is the one candidate who can win an electoral college majority. Hubert H. Humphrey and George C. Wallace might—but probably won't—take enough states from him to stalemate the election. Neither can win it for himself.

The final pre-election survey of the Washington Post, based on interviews and reports from staff correspondents with the three candidates and field reports from sources in all 50 states, shows that republican nominee Nixon and his running-mate, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, have lost some ground in the past four weeks but still are leading in enough states to win the election.

Base Remains

Wallace's share of the popular vote has slumped, but he still is favored to carry the six deep south states that have constituted his base of support since the start of his campaign.

The Wallace slump has increased the chance that Humphrey and his Democratic running-mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, will carry some of the major northern industrial states. Unlike a month ago, the Democrats are almost assured of finishing ahead of Wallace and Gen. Curtis E. Lemay in the electoral vote chase. But the same diminution of Wallace's backing has helped Nixon's position in the border states and thus, ironically, given him added insurance of an electoral college majority.

The Washington Post survey shows:

Nixon is leading in 31 states with 295 electoral votes, 25 more than the 270 needed for election.

Humphrey is leading in seven states and the District of Columbia with 67 electoral votes.

Wallace is leading in six

Peace Talks in Doubt After S. Viet Boycott

Tims News Services

PARIS—United States and North Vietnamese peace talks have been thrown into confusion by the refusal of the Saigon regime to attend.

If the meeting is held, it may deal only with procedural matters and then postponed, informants said. No peace pact would be meaningful without Saigon's signature, they said.

Meanwhile the Viet Cong delegation arrived here today led by a woman revolutionary.

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, a member of National Liberation Front's central committee, said on her arrival from Moscow:

"The population of South Vietnam ardently wishes for peace, but this peace cannot be dissassociated from independence and liberty.

"As long as the American government has not renounced its aggressive aims and . . . props up the puppet administration of Saigon . . . the Vietnamese people will continue their struggle until final victory."

Mme. Binh, the chairman of the Women's Liberation Association, heads a team of six members.

The delegation was greeted by flag-waving Vietnamese, Soviet Ambassador Valreian Zorin, and Ambassador Xuan Thuy.

A spokesman said the NLF will be present at the [illegible] ing of the expanded talks Wednesday. They are attending as a result of the agreement between Hanoi and Washington under which President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam last week.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu has announced that his government will not send a delegation to the talks because it will not negotiate with the NLF as a separate entity. He said the boycott would continue until Saigon is assured of direct, serious talks with Hanoi.

For their part, Hanoi and the NLF say their agreement to attend the expanded talks did not mean they recognize "the puppet administration of Saigon."

WON'T HONOR DECISION

On Sunday, Reuters news agency quoted a South Vietnamese government office as saying that Saigon will consider "null and void" any decision made in its absence at the Paris talks.

The Viet Cong's role in the talks is still uncertain. Hanoi said it considers the NLF the truce representative of the South Vietnamese government. Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation, said the United States had agreed that the Viet Cong and the Saigon delegations will have "the right to speak for themselves."

But State Secretary Dean Rusk told a news conference Friday that the United States "doesn ot recognize the NFL as some separate entity." He added, however, that the conference "should get to the substance of making peace" rather than waste time debating such procedural points.

Benson Veto Under Attack

Times News Services

OTTAWA—The federal-provincial conference on finance opened here today with a demand by the provinces for part or all of the new 2 per cent income tax Finance Minister Benson imposed in his October 22 budget.

Quebec said that if they were not given a share, the new tax should not be collected in Quebec.

Mr. Benson told provincial delegations at the outset of the closed meeting they should not expect any part of the new levy which Ottawa calls a social development tax.

He told the provinces bluntly that they have power, if they wish to exercise it, to raise their own personal income and corporation profits taxes.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan now impose such a provincial tax in addition to the federal levy under an agreement through which Ottawa collects the tax. Newfoundland, Quebec and Ontario now impose extra corporation taxes.

It is wrong, Mr. Benson said, for one government to levy taxes for programs operated by another level of government.

"Each government should be accountable to its own electors for its taxing and spending decisions."

Bertrand, Bennett at Sessions

Mr. Benson met premiers Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec and W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia and the finance ministers of the other provinces, while Health Minister John Munro was convening a similar meeting of provincial health ministers in another part of Ottawa.

A joint meeting will be held Tuesday.

Mr. Bertrand restated Quebec's constitutional position in don't-step-on-our toes terms.

He said the social development tax is clearly designed to pay for a program within provincial constitutional jurisdiction and it should not be imposed in Quebec.

Ontario Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said the federal government should turn the new two-per-cent tax over to the provinces "unequivocally" when it starts Jan. 1.

The tax is expected to produce $440,000,000 in a full year.

Mr. MacNaughton said Ontario would use the money either to support its own medical care insurance plan, support public medical insurance now in effect, or divert it to other things Ontario thinks have higher priority.

Mr. Benson said the provinces should have known they would not get any part of additional federal taxation.

But Ottawa was willing, if the provinces would take responsibility, to make room in tax collections for the provinces to pay for hospital insurance, old age pension supplements, and general health grants. The federal government first made this suggestion in 1966.

Mr. Benson said that while he wasn't urging the provinces to levy new provincial taxes, he was reminding them they have the right and power to do so And he offered to renew existing agreements that make Ottawa the collecting agency for some provincial taxes.

Quebec Slams Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec, attacking Ottawa as "arrogant and imperialistic," said today Canada is endangered by "domineering federalism" of Prime Minister Trudeau's government.

The successor to the late Premier Daniel Johnson profited from his first appearance in Ottawa as premier to make two major proposals in a tough, 2,700-word brief to the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers.

He asked that:

—Tax-sharing arrangements between the federal and provincial governments, on the agenda of this conference, he worked out in January, after the constitutional conference here Dec. 16-18.

—The federal government's new two-per-cent increase in personal income taxes, "which goes by the provocative name of 'social development tax," not be applied to Quebec citizens when it comes into enfect Jan. 1, 1969.

The first proposal would enable Quebec to discuss its claims for greater government powers at the December constitutional conference prior to discussion of its claims for a net transfer of fiscal resources from the federal trasury.

DENOUNCES NEW TAX

Mr. Bertrand denounced the social development tax announced in the Trudeau government's first budget by saying the money will be used for Medical care insurance, a social security program within provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. Bertrand said Quebec intends to establish medical care insurance "but at a time and in the manner we will choose for ourselves."

Trudeau Holds Talks With Thant at UN

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced to a surprised Commons today that he went to New York Saturday to exchange views on world problems with U Thant, United Nations secretary-general.

He also said that Nigeria has agreed to daylight relief flights into Biafra from both Lagos, Nigeria's capital, and Fernando Poo.

Mr. Trudeau addressed an appeal to Col. Ojukwu, Biafran leader, to permit the daylight relief flights.

Mr. Trudeau said he is instructing the legislative assistant, Ivan Head, to go to Lagos for talks with Gen. Gowon, head of the Nigerian miltary government.

Mr. Head and the general had discussed the civil war, Canadian relief and the international observer team in Nigeria.

Gen. Gowon had agreed to guarantee the safety of daylight relief flights into Uli airport in Biafra.

Such flights have been made in darkness only because of fear of interference by the Nigerian Air Force.

Bright Note Sounded Despite Slow Response

By W. RALPH THOMAS

United Appeal Progress
TODAY $386,695
NEEDED $655,000

Residential division of the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal has been doorknocking for three weeks and the overall picture is not bright.

Mrs. S. J. Cunliffe, chairman of the Oak Bay-Victoria district, said this morning her division has collected 46 per cent of its $54,000 objective, but 55 per cent of the canvass has been completed.

"The situation is not as good as it should be," she said, "but it might even out when we get into the other areas."

Mrs. V. A. Fuggle, chairman of the Esquimalt-View Royal division, said half of her canvass is complete.

"The returns have been slow coming in, but I hope our canvass will be completed by the end of next week," she added.

A bright note in the residential division was sounded by Mrs. G. H. Breen, co-chairman of the Langford-Colwood division.

She reported that three of her four team captains have completed their canvass "well over their quota."

VERY PLEASED

"I'm very pleased with the job my girls have been doing. I don't think we'll find it difficult to meet our objective," she said.

Co-chairman of the Langrord-Colwood division, Mrs. G. G. Smith said she is confident her section will also reach its target.

"I think the response has been very good. For example, one lady in a low-income area won a $5 cheque from a local radio station and she signed it over to the United Appeal.

RESPONSE IS GOOD

"Another man without a great deal of money gave $50 because he was really concerned about people. The response out here has been very good," she said.

Mrs. Eleanor Sanderson, chairman of the Oak Bay-Saanich division, reported that her section has collected 60 per cent of its quota.

"I don't think we can relax yet," she said, "but we are doing well in some districts. If things continue to go well I hope to be finished with the canvass next week."

The suggested goal of the residential division is $128,000. To date $47,238 of the goal has been collected.

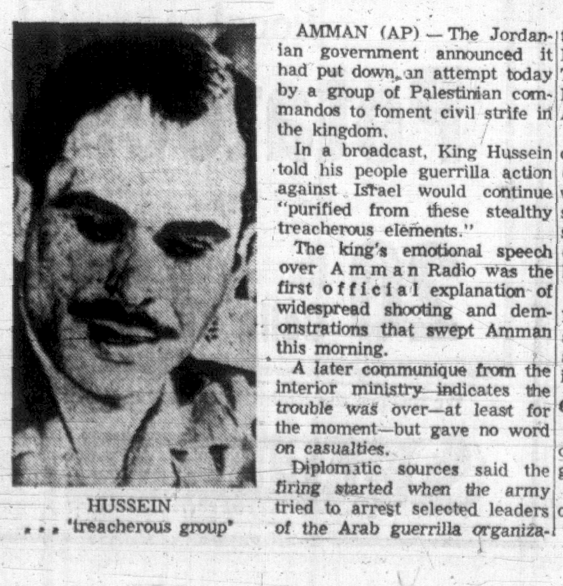
Jordan Puts Down Guerrilla Uprising



HUSSEIN
. . . 'treacherous group'

AMMAN (AP) — The Jordanian government announced it had put down an attempt today by a group of Palestinian commandos to foment civil strife in the kingdom.

In a broadcast, King Hussein told his people guerrilla action against Israel would continue "purified from these stealthy treacherous elements."

The king's emotional speech over Amman Radio was the first official explanation of widespread shooting and demonstrations that swept Amman this morning.

A later communique from the interior ministry indicates the trouble was over—at least for the moment—but gave no word on casualties.

Diplomatic sources said the firing started when the army tried to arrest selected leaders of the Arab guerrilla organizations which have been raiding Israel from bases in Jordan. This set off demonstrations in Palestinian refugee camps at Ashrafiya and Jabal Hussein.

The army surrounded the two camps and moved quickly to quell other demonstrations which developed in scattered sections of Amman. Sources said the demonstrators were dispersed after more than four hours of shooting.

The gunfire died down at 10:30 a.m., and a political officer at the U.S. embassy said the army "appears to be completely in control at this time."

CURFEW DECLARED

A curfew was declared in the city as ambulances and fire engines raced through the streets.

There was no immediate word of casualties or damage.

Unofficial reports said several commando leaders were arrested to forestall an expected attempt by commando forces against the government, which has been trying to curb their activities to forestall retaliatory raids by the Israelis. A source said there had been reports for the last two weeks that the guerrillas were planning a showdown.

Hussein's short speech after the fighting in Amman did not reveal any details of the fighting.

He said the commando group which he accused of being be-

Labor Bracing For B.C. Vote

VANCOUVER—The president of the B.C. Federation of Labor predicted a provincial election in the spring today and called on labor to start work now on ousting the Bennett government.

E. T. Staley of Victoria was delivering the opening address at the federation's 13th annual convention, held this year at the Hotel Vancouver.

"We must take a strong position at this convention and when it is over go back to our local unions and ridings and work, as we have never worked before, to defeat the present government and replace it with one that believes in the welfare of the people, including fair treatment to the trade union movement," he said.

The federation is the provincial arm of the Canadian Labor Congress and represents about 280 local unions with membership over 136,000. The conventions ends Friday.

Mr. Staley hit hard at the provincial government's new labor legislation providing for compulsory arbitration.

"When (Labor Minister Leslie Peterson) appeals to labor for their co-operation in regard to this legislation with its compulsory features, he is asking too much.

NO CO-OPERATION

"I suggest to you we should give (him) the same co-operation he gave to labor when he had the legislation drafted and pushed through the House—none whatsoever."

He suggested delegates "inform the minister of labor to peddle his wares elsewhere when the product he is selling is compulsory arbitration."

Housing was among other subjects drawing criticism of government.

"It is difficult to understand how a country can afford to spend one and one-half billion dollars on an obsolete defence system while at the same time showing a callous disregard for the housing needs of the nation."

Mr. Staley also said Royal Commission reports have become for the most part "a tool of government to establish legislation to suit the monied interests."

Railways to Face More Wage Hikes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) today presented to Canada's railways wage demands calling for a 20-per-cent across-the-board increase for road service employees and a $1-an-hour increase for yard service employees.

The increases would become effective Jan. 1, 1969.

The brotherhood is the largest of the running trades unions and represents 20,000 conductors, brakemen, yardmen and yardmasters engaged in the actual operation of trains.

The union also seeks a reduction in the work day to six from eight hours, improved fringe benefits and a number of changes in work rules.

Last Friday, eight non-operating railway unions, representing 75,000 workers not directly involved in running trains, served notice they are asking for a 32-per-cent wage increase over two years. The major railways said the wage demands of the non-ops would cost $145,000,000.

Loffmark to Propose Health Cost Control

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Ralph Loffmark of British Columbia said today B.C. will propose a means of cost controls and incentives to keep down costs" at the federal-provincial conference of health ministers opening today.

Mr. Loffmark, who heads a four-man B.C. delegation at the talks, said he also will "work for maintaining our present system of $1-a-day co-insurance" in the B.C. Hospital Insurance Plan.

The co-insurance is in effect a deterrent fee applied to all patients in B.C. hospitals.

The health minister said B.C. will also attempt to maintain the present federal-provincial cost-sharing agreement on medical care as it is applied in his province.

He said the conference would be told hospital costs could be cut by transferring patients "into more inexpensive beds" and imroving existing "procedures."

Mr. Loffmark promised a fuller statement on B.C.'s stand following today's talks.

The other three members of the B.C. delegation are Dr. J. A. Taylor, deputy health minister, Dr. F. G. Tucker, deputy minister of mental health services, and D. M. Cox, deputy minister of hospital insurance.

Mr. Loffmark said the B.C. government "is opposed to the principle of increasing deterrent fees for the reason that these usually bear most heavily on the lowest income groups and people least able to bear the increased costs."

'Black Nationalist' Hijacks Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A National Air Lines jetliner was hijacked today by a man described as a "black nationalist freedom fighter," and landed in Cuba with 58 passengers and seven crew members aboard.

Thirteen minutes after the plane with 50 passengers and a crew of seven tok off from New Orleans, La., for Miami, Capt. Antone Hunter radioed the Houston, Tex., control tower that he was being hijacked.

Later, the Federal Aviation Administration said, Hunter made a second call to the FAA control centre at Jacksonville, Fla., to report that the hijacker was a black nationalist.

The incident marked the 13th time this year that a commercial airliner had been forced to fly to Cuba. And it was the third time a National plane had been hijacked to the Caribbean island this year.

...PROVINCES

ble for expenditures must be prepared to exercise their constitutional powers to tax, does not mean in any sense that we need to go off in conflicting directions," he said.

Mr. Bennett, in a comment to reporters as he entered the conferences, called the new social development tax "just a fancy name for another sales tax."

He said the highest priority on tax revenue from all levels must be for health services and education.

"And I'm opposed to the present heavy penalties and deterrent fees that bear heavily on the poor."

Mr. Bertrand, also minister of inter-governmental affairs in his government, came here in place of Paul Dozois, Quebec finance minister who is in hospital.

It is Mr. Bertrand's first appearance in Ottawa since he succeeded the late Daniel Johnson this fall.

Mr. Bennett is here as finance minister of British Columbia as well as premier.

In pre-conference comments last week, provincial representatives clearly established two areas of federal-provincial fiscal relations in which they want changes.

The federal government is expected to hold out staunchly against both demands.

They are, generally, that the provinces be given a bigger slice of the tax pie, and that the equalization grants system be modified.

In cutting the tax pie, Ottawa now automatically hands over up to 28 per cent of its personal income tax collections to the provinces.

Quebec Gets 50 Percent

This figure is 50 per cent in the case of Quebec, to cover federal-provincial programs operated in Quebec solely on provincial responsibility.

The plan enables any province to raise additional money through provincial income taxes. Manitoba and Saskatchewan impose five percentage points of additional tax so that they receive 33 per cent of the federal basic tax. Quebec has an additional three points.

The provinces complained bitterly last week that Mr. Benson's new two-per-cent tax on basic incomes, which he called a social development tax, does not affect provincial revenues.

Some provinces have charged that Ottawa did not play fair in levying the new tax; it did so in such a way that all its $440,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next April 1 will go into the federal treasury.

Equalization payments, which were instituted to bring the per-capita revenues of the poorer provinces up to the level of the richer ones, now hinge on the average provincial receipts from 16 kinds of taxes.

Alberta, in particular, because of its big revenues from oil and natural gas royalties, claims it is unfairly treated. Its provincial revenues from these resources taxes are so great they work against other revenues the province might receive from Ottawa. This conference stems from Prime Minister Trudeau's stand that Ottawa would like to get out of some shared-cost programs.

Mr. Benson pointed in his budget last month to the extent to which these programs—in which Ottawa's outlays are largely pegged to provincial spending—upset the federal government's plans to balance the budget this year.

Punch in Mouth 'Wins' the Debate

VANCOUVER (CP) — Anti-flouridation forces won a debate over the fluoridation fanciers here Sunday night—by punching an opposition spokesman in the mouth and booing down his companion.

The meeting, which drew 45 persons to hear debate on the flouridation plebiscite that goes to Vancouver voters Dec. 11, ended in an uproar.

Meeting organizer Edward Moxey, an anti-flouridationist and president of the Citizens' Democratic Rights Association, set ground rules for the debate when the meeting opened.

The main rule, he said, was that a speaker must have a written gurantee that flouridation is harmless before he could speak in favor of fluoridation.

Then he declared the anti-fluoridation forces had won the debate by default since no one on the other side had such a gurantee.

Allan Patterson, who was speaking in support of fluoridation, questioned the reasoning of Mr. Moxey.

Mr. Moxey, former health food store operator who has campaigned against fluoridiation since 1951, replied:

"You people in favor of fluoridation are spouting the opinions of the godless parasites who are trying to take over this country.

"We must defeat this evil project and force the government to remove all the other poisonous additives from our food. We did not come here to listen to you others."

H. M. Engineer shouted above catcalls to list a score of authorities that support fluoridation and was soon forced to sit down by the shouting audience.

On one occasion, he was punched in the head by a man who shouted: "Sit down, we have had enough of your lies." Mr. Engineer punched him back.

Bellowed Mr. Moxey: "You are a liar. You are a liar and a fool."

The catcalls and screams of the audience continued to drown out the words of Mr. Patterson, who stood by his chair, repeating: "Why can't I speak?"

That ended the debate.

11TH-HOUR RUSH TO BET ON HUMPHREY

LONDON (AP)—A leading British bookmaker today rated Republican Richard Nixon the favorite to win the United States presidential election Tuesday but reported an eleventh-hour rush of bets on Democrat Hubert Humphrey.

Williams Hills listed Nixon at odds of 4 to 7. That means you bet $7 to $4.

Odds against Humphrey, formerly 7 to 4, fell to 5 to 4 as bets poured in. This means you bet $4 to win $5.

states with 53 electoral votes.

Six states with 123 electoral votes are in the toss-up category. Humphrey and Nixon are battling for five of them, Connecticut, New Mexico, New York, Pennslyvania and Texas, and in the sixth state, Florida, the fight is between Nixon and Wallace.

Since the mid-campaign survey published on Oct. 6, correspondents report the following major trends:

- A marked loss of support by Wallace in states outside the South, particularly among blue-collar workers. Much of the shift is attributed to the intensive propaganda campaign against Wallace conducted by trade unions among their members and families.
- A solidifying of support for Humphrey among traditional Democratic voting groups, including Negroes, Mexican-Americans and Jews, as the organizational and ideological divisions so evident at last August's national convention have begun to recede into memory.
- A weakening of support for Nixon in the areas of liberal republicanism, which supported Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the nomination, and where criticism of the style of Nixon's and Agnew's campaign has been most prevalent.

Shifts

All of these shifts have been more marked in the northeast quadrant of the country than elsewhere, and, together, they explain the rather dramatic improvement in the prospects for the Humphrey-Muskie ticket in such states as Massachusetts, Michigan, Connecticut, New York and, perhaps, Pensylvania.

The survey also shows Nixon appears to be staying in front—and generally maintaining his margin—in the midwestern states. Most important, correspondents report little evidence that Humphrey has made a breakthrough in the suburban areas and smaller cities that control such major states as California, Illinois and Ohio. There, the law-and-order issue and general dissatisfaction with the social, fiscal and foreign policies of the Johnson administration, which humphrey symbolizes, present an almost insuperable barrier to his victory.

Whatever Humphrey may have gained from the last-minute presidential decision to halt bombing of North Vietnam, correspondents say, is outweighed by the abiding time-for-a-change sentiment that Nixon has exploited in his campaign.

The difficulty of the task of denying Nixon an electoral majority is shown by this analysis of his support:

His hard-core strength, including California, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and 15 smaller states in the midwest and west, totals 167 electoral votes.

Ohio and New Jersey, the other two major states where he is believed to be leading, would add 43 votes, bringing his total to 210.

Insurance States

The next vital arena is the band of border states—Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri, with 70 electoral votes—where Nixon is believed to be leading against the divided challenge of Wallace and Humphrey. Almost any six of those seven states would put him over the top.

Finally, Nixon has a bit of insurance in three western states—Nevada, Washington and Alaska—where he appears to be leading but is not guaranteed the votes.

When one notes that these states could give him victory even if he were shut out of Michigan, Minnesota, South Carolina, New York, Pennsylvania, Texas, Florida, Connecticut, New Mexico and Maine—in all of which he has a chance—the likelihood of Nixon winning is clear.

'They Didn't Die for Nixon or Wallace'

By LEROY F. AARONS

The Washington Post

PHILADELPHIA — "Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy didn't die for freedom to see Nixon or Wallace end up in the White House," said the message, beamed almost hourly at Philadelphia's 270,000 registered Negro voters on two radio stations.

"So run, don't walk to your nearest polling place on Tuesday . . ."

The radio spots are part of a massive effort underway in the waning days before the national election to bring out Philadelphia's Democratic voters — nearly half of whom are black — and provide a solid plurality cushion for Hubert Humphrey.

Pennslyvania and its 23 electoral votes — once considered in the safe column for the Republicans — has taken on the spirit of a horse race, due to a remarkable late spurt by Humphrey. The question is, is it too late and too little?

Clearly, this is a keystone state for Richard Nixon, whose claim to dominance of the eastern industrial states has rested most solidly in Pennsylvania. If he is in trouble here, then he is in serious danger in the less secure neighboring dominions.

"Should Pennsylvania go down the drain," said Frank C. P. McGlynn, a veteran Philadelphia Republican leader, "then New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan and New York would go with it."

By all the normal standards, Nixon should come out a winner in this state. Pennsylvania Republicans enjoy a slight registration margin. They control the state and more than 50,000 politically powerful patronage jobs. They have a smooth, unified campaign organization, in contrast to divided Democrats.

But the logic of politics ends at the water's edge, and there, Democrats are seeing enough ripples to inspire them to put aside — temporarily — their feudal battles and focus on getting the faithful to the polls.

The ripples encompass a sharp Wallace downturn — sparked by a herculean propaganda effort on the part of organized labor — a development which the Democrats interpret as running to their advantage.

Just as significant, however, are the sudden flow of dollars (Lewis A. Rivlin, a Washington lawyer who is overseeing the Humphrey campaign in this state, claims that a late influx of Democratic money has enabled him to take full-page newspaper ads in several mid-state, WASP-territory newspapers), and the return to the fold of defected Democrats.

The homecoming of McCarthy-ites, the ADA, and reform groups in Philadelphia may now be accelerated by the announced bombing pause.

For Humphrey, Pennsylvania will be won or lost in the heavily Democratic large cities and industrial areas. These are focussed in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh (Allegheny County in western Pennsylvania), Wilkes-Barre-Scranton (Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties in the northeast), and a bank of soft-coal counties outside Pittsburgh.

Of all these, Philadelphia has traditionally served as the bell-wether. Few Democrats — or Republicans — can forget that in 1960 John F. Kennedy came into Philadelphia a loser by a quarter of a million votes and emerged a winner due to a 330,000-vote plurality here.

Avoid False Criteria

A GOOD DEAL OF THE BENEfit of the capital region's costly hospital survey will be wasted if parochial voices are allowed to influence decisions on the location of the proposed hospitals.

Those who urge that beds for both acute care and extended care be built in North Saanich are in some cases basing their argument on the fact that a hospital has been in the area for some years and therefore should be perpetuated on or near the same site. And on this basis it is sought to stir up some municipal partisanship in favor of the proposition. This is entirely the wrong approach.

The hospitals for the region should be placed to the best advantage of the greatest number of people—and the determination of this condition would involve not only the present population but the planning experts' estimates of the size and location of the population of the region within the foreseeable future.

Also to be considered is the ready accessibility of the site to the patients and doctors; and another factor might involve the hospital's possible specialization in a particular type of service, for example surgery, or burns or radiation treatment. To over-ride such important criteria in favor of political or other irrelevant aspects would do serious and lasting harm to the regional hospital system now in prospect.

Public opinion should be expressed to support the hand of the medical and development planning experts in forming their decision on the most advantageous locations for future hospitals. The investment is too heavy to permit choices which would later have to be altered at great expense.

Transistor Democracy

TOMORROW'S UNITED STATES election provides an excellent example of the way in which a traditional social phenomenon has readily been adapted to the new facilities of our modern age. The three presidential candidates, for instance, have been able to campaign in a manner unimaginable in the days of Washington, Adams or Jefferson, of Teddy Roosevelt or even of Coolidge. The electronic medium, first put to major use by Franklin D. Roosevelt in his famous radio "fireside chats," has now become, in television, one of the principal means by which candidates and incumbents can reach national audiences.

With jet plane dashes replacing the old-style railway campaign tours, today's candidate can be seen and heard, in person or in picture, in almost any part of the country at any time he wishes. Through this development, of course, the cost of political campaigns has assumed astronomical proportions—and this itself has become an important factor in the parties' choice of candidates, and hence in the nation's leadership.

But apart from the new mobility and accessibility of the candidates, electronic technology has brought another highly influential element into the election system. The rise of the public opinion polls, whereby frequent samplings of the population throughout the election campaign are used to indicate the trend of public voting intentions, has largely obviated the value of the primaries as weathervanes of the political climate, and the use of the computer has brought trend-measurement out of the field of known fact into the art of prediction during the count of ballots.

By feeding into the equation such facts as the count at any given time, the areas heard from and still to be reported, the trends of other years and such data, extrapolation may foretell with a fair degree of accuracy the probable course of the count.

We need not think that the matter will rest at this stage. Future democratic elections undoubtedly will utilize more and more the aid of electronics in more advanced applications. The growing size of the populations and the complexity of elections and referendums will make such dependence necessary, quite apart from a natural desire to demonstrate the technical virtuosity of our age.

It is not too far-fetched to foresee the end of polling stations as we know them, perhaps with voting by wire from one's home and a consequently greater public participation. The life-size, three-dimensional TV picture of the candidates on the living-room wall screen will contribute to the voter's urge to make use of his franchise.

Checking the Extremists

MODERATE STUDENTS IN Italy, emphasizing the obvious—that student disorders stop students from studying—have formed a committee for democratic action which they hope will forestall the disruption of their educations by violent extremists.

"It isn't easy to talk sense when extremists are waving red flags and burning streetcars," says one of their spokesmen. "But the fact is that most of our fellow students simply want to get on with their studies, in new and better conditions. Why can't we build up from there?"

The sentiment reflects a widespread attitude. The moderates—the majority—have begun to recognize the price demanded of them by a minority which thrives on disorder. Now, says a Turin law student, the majority has determined that unless supported by a majority vote, those who "occupy" various faculties will be thrown out, and he explains the firmness of this decision by explaining "we must defend our right to education."

"We want," he says, "majority decisions. We want student freedom to be interpreted as freedom of dissent, not as a pretext for disorder."

The position makes sense, and not only in Italy. It implies no supine acceptance of traditional practices. The need for change is recognized. But change should be achieved in a democratic manner.

The serious, moderate student can no longer afford to let the extremist minority destroy his learning environment. He must preserve the legitimate right of dissent, he must permit those who wish to question all traditional practices. But he is realizing that if the boat-rockers proceed to smash the boat up, he and his fellows will sink with them.

FROM CALGARY

By JAMES H. GRAY

Medicare and the Doctors in Alberta

WITH the football season now at an end the people of Saskatchewan are settling back into their favorite indoor winter sport — arguing about Medicare. There is little doubt that 90 per cent of the people of the wheat province, like most other people, favor comprehensive health insurance. It is the arithmetic of Medicare that stirs up all the controversy Here's how:

Gray

The president of the Saskatchewan Medical Association, Dr. I. W. Bean, reported last week that a deterrent fee of $1.50 per visit had reduced unnecessary calls on the doctors' time by 18 per cent. The fee was imposed by the government last winter to hold back the spiralling cost of Medicare.

At first glance, Dr. Bean seemed to settle the argument over whether a deterrent fee would cut down trivial use of doctors' services. He estimated that a quarter of the $25 millions a year Medicare cost was for attention people didn't need. Thus when 18 per cent is deducted from 25 per cent the wastage of time is clearly cut to 7 per cent.

Flaws in Logic

Alas for Dr. Bean, even the practitioners of old math spotted the flaw in his logic, even if his arithmetic was passable. How, the critics asked, did Dr. Bean know that the people who turned up missing were the time wasters? Maybe they were people desperately needing attention who didn't have $1.50. That seemed unlikely.

But what if the drop indicated a welcome improvement in the general health of Saskatchewan? Or what if there was a spreading belief that medical attention was not all that important, that people could get over their sickness about as qnickly without attention as with it?

It did not take long for these questions to shoot Dr. Bean's conclusion full of holes. The process seemed clinched by a hospital survey which showed that the deterrent fee imposed on hospital bed use was having no effect. In Saskatoon the City Hospital reported a slightly longer stay this summer than last. So did the University Hospital.

Inconclusive Statistics

Yet these reports served only to underline the danger of drawing any conclusions from any medical statistics. The hospitals emphasized that the patients had little choice about admission or length of hospital stays. Their doctors made both decisions so the $2.50 a day deterrent fee was irrelevant.

That was a point made by the critics last winter when the deterrent was first debated. It was conceded, however, and still is, that a deterrent will cut trivial calls on doctors. The statistics produced by Dr. Bean are simply inconclusive. They, and the deterrent fee itself, have only added to the confusion.

In Alberta, the struggle of the Socred Government to stay out of federal Medicare is about to be lost. The candidates to succeed Hon. E. C. Manning are all edging toward the bandwagon. The doctors, however, are edging toward open revolt against it.

Fear Overwork

What is bugging the doctors most is the fear of the overwork that will result from Medicare. Three general practitioners this week estimated that their average working week is from 60 to 70 hours. They fear both longer hours and a dilution of the quality of their work.

But are these fears justified? In Alberta at least 80 per cent of the people are now in either the doctors' or the government voluntary Medicare scheme. All the people are covered by a free governmental hospital system with a small deterrent fee. Certainly all the sick people who can in any way afford it — which means almost everybody —belong to the government Medicare plan. So presumably are all the hypochondriacs and malingerers.

In plain truth, the solution to the doctors' overload problem is in their own hands — cut down their case loads. In Calagary they are doing just that. Newcomers to the city have been complaining that it is difficult if not impossible to find practitioners who will add them to their clientele.

In addition, doctors admit quite freely that telephone diagnosis is becoming more common. That old joke — "Take two aspirins and call me tomorrow if you don't feel any better" — isn't a joke any more.

Disaster Avoidable

Neither is the threat of Medicare to the doctors' peace of mind. But with a steely-eyed receptionist, telephone diagnosis, and the almost universality of the present Medicare programs, the medicoes should be able to avoid total disaster. But in their present mood, it is impossible to persuade them of the fact.

Proud Subscriber

The article in Thursday's paper, on page four, entitled "It's Part of Democracy" (about Rubin and Rudd), is the best one you've ever had. Thanks a million. It explains so beautifully what we feel about Rudd and Rubin talking to us. It expresses so perfectly that which we find difficult to explain to older (and conservative), people who cannot understand why we get in speakers like Rudd and Rubin. You are someone who finally understands and you've put words to something which we feel but can't express as well.

Besides that, your last few papers have been just perfect. The articles you've been running on pages four and five, especially those by Peter C. Newman, have been just about tops—your paper's really getting somewhere.

I'm proud to be a subscriber.—A. Rabien, 1351 Gladstone.

Indian Needs

After reading a recent editorial in your paper suggesting that, in improving the material lot of the native Indian, we may be destroying him spiritually, I wonder whether we shall soon have a Brown Power situation analagous to separatist advocacy in French Quebec.

There have been many grossly inflammable statements in our press lately attributed to Indian spokesmen to the effect that our "senior governments wish to smother and suppress Indian cultures." The fact that our provincial Department of Education recently purchased thousands of copies of a B.C. Indian's folklore stories for use in our schools would appear to refute such irresponsible accusations.

The fact is that — by their own statements — native Indians, while wishing to accept whatever welfare state advantages are available to them, do not wish to integrate as Canadians with their white brothers, preferring to maintain a "national identity" and "nationhood."

At a recent meeting of Vancouver Island Tribal Federation at Nanaimo, a prominent Indian spokesman declared: "If senior governments persist in their policies of attempting to assimilate us, they will reap nothing but hate — hate like the Negro hate for the whites in the U.S."

Indian accusations of white exploitation, "colonialism" and the suppression of their aboriginal cultures are discouraging to those who seek a solution to a complex racial problem.—A Realist.

The Folly of Something-for-Nothing

A LARGE segment of the American press, an even larger segment of the American intellectual community and all the anti-war leaders of the Democratic Party, now owe a humble apology to President Johnson. Nothing of the sort has been or will be forthcoming. All the emphasis has been on the worries and hesitations of the South Vietnamese government. The same people who so indignantly denounced the President for sustaining a "puppet" regime have been indignantly denouncing him because the men in Saigon did not act like puppets. Yet the real interest lies in the President's dealings with the men in Hanoi.

Alsop

Critics Dead Wrong

On this head, in decent fairness to the President, it needs to be bluntly pointed out that his critics have been dead wrong and he has been dead right—at any rate with respect to the problem of the bombing halt, that has given rise to the angriest anti-Johnson vociferation.

A careful separation must of course be made between the President's war policy, and his conduct of that policy. Only history can judge whether the President took the right decision, when he chose to use American power to meet the Communist challenge in Vietnam. But events have already proven that the President was right to stand out against his critics' noisy demands for an immediate, total, unconditional and unilateral halt of the northern bombing.

The best parallel is with the period after Hanoi assented to negotiations, but before Paris was agreed upon as the meeting place. As will be remembered, Hanoi for a while insisted on meeting in Warsaw. The President's critics began a loud gabble that refusal to go to Warsaw was the merest quibbling.

The President instead accepted the judgement of his more experienced advisors, that it was always a dire handicap to begin such negotiations with the kind of concession that the other side could interpret as a symptom of weakness. He held out for Paris. He got Paris pretty soon, and no one apologized for the pro-Warsaw gabble.

The the present instance, of course, the stakes in play were incalculably greater. When they went to Paris, the Hanoi representatives had not the smallest intention of entering upon serious negotiations. For them at that period, the sole aim was to make any political gains they could, by using the Paris talks to shake public confidence in South Vietnam.

Time Not Ripe

The fact that the time was not ripe for serious negotiations was made transparently plain by another set of facts—all the numerous facts indicating that Hanoi was then preparing a major third-round offensive in South Vietnam. All the captured enemy documents, from the lowest to the highest level, then continued to reiterate that a real decision could only be reached "on the battlefield."

The outcome on the battlefield, therefore, had to be awaited. The third-round offensive was duly attempted in August-September. It was a hideous and sanguinary failure, like its two predecessors at Tet and in May. Unlike its predecessors, moreover, the third-round offensive offered many indications that important enemy units had begun to lose their iron discipline and strong fighting morale.

This failure on the battlefield, with its auguries of worse to come in the future, was the obvious background and first cause of the long awaited hopeful break in the Paris talks, which occurred on Oct. 9. After the collapse of the third-round offensive, this reporter pointed out that such a break had at last become a strong possibility. It was then occurring, in dead secrecy.

Hanoi Acceptance

The break took the form of an inquiry, by Hanoi's representatives in Paris, as to what conditions President Johnson would insist upon, before he would grant the "unconditional" bombing halt that Hanoi was insisting upon. The long established conditions, as to South Vietnamese representation in Paris, as to the DMZ and so on, were therefore reiterated. And they were accepted by Hanoi with the proviso that they should not be called conditions.

Like the Warsaw-Paris argument, the bombing halt argument in fact turned out to be a text book illustration of the self-deluding folly of the ever-repeated claim that much is to be gained by giving something for nothing.

A complete and unilateral bombing halt, with no agreed reciprocation, would have been giving something for nothing in its worst form. Far more than acceptance of Warsaw as a meeting place. It would have been read as a decisive proof of American weakness. Instead of leading to serious negotiations, it would surely have produced the opposite result.

But because the President had the guts and good sense to refuse to give something for nothing, serious negotiations can now be hoped for. What ever Saigon does, the President has made a major gain.

Looking Back

From the Times, Nov. 4, 1908.

It looks as though the dispute between Oak Bay and the city over the question of water will be settled amicably. The city has agreed to furnish the municipality of Oak Bay with a water supply delivered at the boundary of Oak Bay Avenue and Cadboro Bay Road and the municipality is considering plans for a distribution service.

The feeling of Oak Bay councillors is that no time should be lost in getting to work on plans for laying down the mains.

Bartlett Grows

Ottawa Journal

Winston Churchill, who once wrote that Bartlett's Familiar Quotations was an "admirable work" (it makes one "anxious to read the authors") would be pleased that there has just appeared a new Bartlett's, the 14th successor to the first commonplace book published privately in 1855 by a Cambridge, Mass., bookman, John Bartlett.

Bartlett's first book was a volume of 248 pages, reflecting the genteel tradition of English poetry, mainly Milton, Pope, Byron and Wordsworth. The Bible and Shakespeare together made up one-third of the first Bartlett's.

There was only one maxim for La Rochefoucauld ("Hypocrisy is the homage that vice pays to virtue"), no Chaucer, no Blake, no Shelley, few Americans, though this was a golden age of American letters.

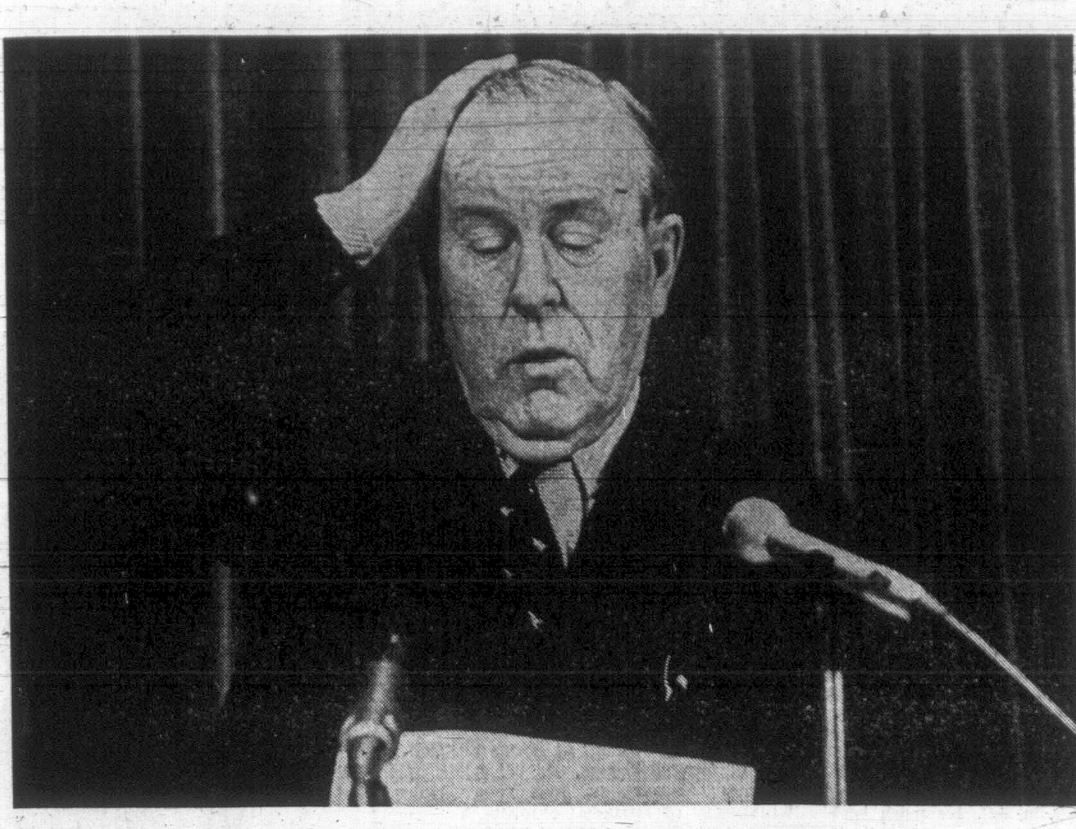
Though Henry David Thoreau had published Walden the year before the first Bartlett's, not until 1914, 11 years after Bartlett's death, was the cranky New England transcendentalist dutifully entered. The latest edition gives him almost four full pages and how indispensable his quotations now seem.

"Time is but the stream I go-afishing in."

Our life is frittered away by detail . . . Simplify, simplify."

"Beware of all enterprises that require new clothes."

The latest Bartlett's has an index alone of more than 600 pages, the compilation of which was made with the aid of what is called "computer technology," of all things. That is how far scholarship has come from the day a learned man was supposed to carry his erudition about in a single head.



Perplexed Pearson ruled only 'golden triangle.'

Distemper of Our Times—PART 7

Lester Lost the West And Didn't Seem to Care

By PETER C. NEWMAN

Because Lester Pearson remained oblivious to the aspirations of the Greater Canada away from the glare of the big-city lights, throughout his time in office he acted not as the leader of his nation, but as the effective prime minister of only that golden triangle formed by Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa.

No part of his political record was less admirable than Pearson's confused and sometimes cynical dealings with that exciting part of Canada west of the Lakehead.

It was one of the ironies of the Pearson period that the Liberals, while flailing away at the Conservatives for being unresponsive to the aspirations of Quebec, themselves remained equally insensitive to the ambitions of the three Prairie provinces and British Columbia.

Nearly every political blunder that John Diefenbaker committed in French Canada has a near equivalent in Lester Pearson's attitude toward the West.

'To Hell with Boondocks'

Ever since the Liberals had assumed power in April of 1963 without Western support, a "to hell with the boondocks" attitude pervaded the Pearson high command, an attitude that arrogantly dismissed that part of Canada outside the main population centres of the industrial East as a politically insignificant hinterland.

Canada, like Caesar's Gaul, was divided by the ruling Liberals into three parts. The division, both geographical and psychological, was into Upper Canada (Ontario), Lower Canada (Quebec), and Outer Canada (the rest of the country). It was Outer Canada, both East and West, that Pearson simply did not understand and never really governed.

During the five years of Liberal rule the government made few decisions which had enough favorable political impact to span the Prairie or scale the Rockies.

Like the French-Canadians under the Conservative Government, westerners during the Pearson administration felt their isolation from the centres of national decision-making.

Both regions wanted to develop their societies and economies in their own ways, and resented the Ottawa politicials who took them for granted, awarding their provinces only minor portfolios and little policy consideration.

Outer Canada, particularly the Prairie provinces, responded by rejecting Lester Pearson's leadership. In the campaigns fought under his command, the Liberals won only six of the grand total of 192 Prairie seats that were at stake in the four contests.

Lack of Identification

The Liberal attitude was probably best summed up in an unusually frank speech given by Allan MacEachen to the Winnipeg South Liberal Association on March 16, 1966.

"We suffer from what I would call a lack of sympathy with the Prairie approach to life, a lack of identification," he said. "In our efforts to rebuild the party after the 1958 defeat, we concentrated on Quebec and Ontario. The West became an afterthought.

"When it came to regional planning it was almost as if we said: 'Oh, yes, we almost forgot the Prairies; we must include something on western agriculture.' Like the Tories, who publicly proclaimed they could win without Quebec, we've tried to get along without the Prairies; the only difference is that we've done it by default rather than by design."

Walter Gordon made the definitive pronouncement on the government's attitude toward the West during the 1965 election campaign, when he refused to make policy concessions attractive to the Prairies with the comment: "I'm an accountant in these things. The Toronto area has more seats than Saskatchewan, and we can win them."

Jack Davis, a Vancouver Liberal, proposed at one parliamentary caucus in 1965 that the occasional cabinet meeting be held in Western Canada to demonstrate the administration's interest in the region. He was met with derogatory hoots from the ministers present, and the idea was dropped.

In the early summer of 1965, Dr. Pat McGeer, (later the leader of British Columbia's Liberal Party), came to Ottawa on his own, determined to make the Pearson ministers take notice of western problems. He compiled a "policy for the West" with five specific and relatively simple suggestions that might have won the Liberals some additional B.C. and Prairie representation in the election that fall. McGeer was received politely enough but not a single one of his ideas was followed up.

Holidayed with Friend

In August of 1966, when western Liberals organized their own symposium in Saskatoon to prepare for the Liberal Party's national policy conference, they urged, indeed begged, Pearson to attend. But he chose instead to spend a holiday with his friend Philip Chester, a Winnipeg business executive, in Algonquin Park.

Such deliberate neglect of the West represented an abrupt change in attitude by the Liberals. During the Mackenzie King and St. Laurent periods, the West, particularly Saskatchewan and Manitoba, had been Liberal strongholds.

National attention has been focused on the Prairies and B.C. with the discovery of the huge petroleum and gas deposits, the building of the trans-Canada pipeline, the carving out of the city of Kitimat, the emergence of giant forest product complexes, and discovery of new mineral wealth.

But when the federal focus shifted to the struggle for national unity, the West seemed suddenly to become irrelevant as a major factor in Ottawa's policy planning.

The Pearson Government gave the impression that it believed all it had to do was sell wheat to keep the West happy, or at least quiet.

Economy Broadly Based

What the Ottawa Liberals never seemed to realize was that the Western economy had become broadly based, with petroleum, potash, pulp and power rapidly displacing agriculture as the main source of income. Even in Saskatchewan, by the mid-Sixties farming was providing less than 50 per cent of the gross provincial product.

Wheat sales didn't have that much to do with the West's alienation. The citizens of the Western provinces had a gut feeling that the Liberals just didn't care about their particular problems, and they were right.

In one election campaign after another the Liberals put forward in Western ridings the wrong kind of candidates; city slickers in overalls, machine-tooled to the dictates of the party's Toronto power group.

The people of the Prairies were never given any good reason for voting Liberal, and until the 1968 election, they obeyed their instincts by sticking with John Diefenbaker and Alvin Hamilton.

Everywhere outside the Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto axis, where such things were not considered important, Pearson suffered from not really having a political constituency of his own.

Always the nimble-footed diplomat trying to find some political base to stand on, his views reflected the aspirations of no particular region or group, except perhaps the narrow horizons of the Ottawa Establishment.

The Man from Algoma?

This alienation included even Pearson's own riding of Algoma East, for although he won re-election with easy majorities, he was not OF it. It seemed perfectly natural to call John Diefenbaker "The Man from Prince Albert," but it would have been patently silly to label Lester Pearson "The Man from Algoma East."

Though he applied much goodwill to the task, Pearson could never genuinely involve himself with Canada at its grassroots political level. He had existed for too long outside the country, his ideas having been formed at universities, in embassies abroad, and in the hermetically sealed environment of bureaucratic Ottawa.

Unlike most of his predecessors in the office of prime minister, in the public mind he had been nurtured away from the backroom involvements and partisan skirmishes that combine to endow most Canadian politicians with recognizable contours.

Like most diplomats, he had existed most of his life in an artificial cocoon of ritualistic exchanges into which real people and their mundane problems seldom intruded.

Although he loved the idea of Canada, Mike Pearson remained something of a foreigner in his own country, a man without permanent roots who lived in eighteen different houses during his period of public service.

Having spent the wrong years in the faith, he came to the nation's highest political office too late in life to feel that vital rapport with the average citizen that nourishes all successful politicians. As a result, the image of him imprinted on the public mind remained confused and vague.

The fact that the many blurred pictures the public had of him sometimes didn't even add up to the simple act of recognition was amusingly illustrated by a minor incident that occurred at the time of the royal visit to Prince Edward Island in the fall of 1964.

'Well, Look, Fella . . .'

Pearson and his entourage, including Jim Coutts, his appointments secretary, were quartered overnight at the official residence of the province's lieutenant-governor in Charlottetown. Back in Ottawa, an aide got his time zones mixed up and placed a call to Coutts that rang in Charlottetown long before breakfast.

A local waiter, brought in to act as a manservant for the occasion, put down the phone and went sleepily upstairs to shake Pearson awake, demanding: "Are you Mr. Coutts?" When he heard the emphatically negative reply, the man, still unaware he was addressing the Prime Minister, persisted: "Well, look, fella, you've got to help me find him. This is important."

The anecdote may have reflected as much on the lack of formality among Charlottetown waiters as on the vagueness of Pearson's public image, but it was not an incident that could conceivably have involved a strong public personality like John Diefenbaker, Louis St. Laurent or even Mackenzie King.

Canada's Leaders Are Contributing To Student 'Credibility Gap' View

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

Fisher

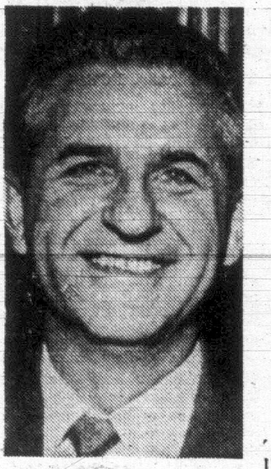
Crowe

Anyone who works with young people in this country, especially with university students, knows that a major crisis in confidence in our society and with the credibility of its leadership seems to be in the making.

Five stories appearing in one recent issue of the daily press tell us a good deal about what is happening and also provide an unusually clear insight into the nature of the problem.

The first story comes out of Vancouver. Students led by activists of the American Students for a Democratic Society occupied the faculty club of the University of British Columbia in support of a demand that it be opened to students as well as to the faculty. This is one of a set of SDS objectives which are to be achieved if necessary by direct action. Others include the ending of faculty common rooms, parking space, washrooms and offices.

These desegregating objectives are paralleled by another set designed to destructure the university. The desegregating demands were taken by student power from black power and are slavishly imitated by Canadian activists who, in their determination to be colonials, have adopted Alabama as their Motherland.



LEWIS

The second story comes from Ottawa. David Lewis, acting leader of the New Democratic Party, said to the sit-ins who had to be removed from the office of External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp: "It might have been better if the minister had been carried out." Direct action of the most outrageous kind is given the blessing of the leader of a national political party.

If the minister had been carried out, democratic institutions in this country would have been at an end. Mr. Lewis knows that. He has spent much of his life fighting the Communist advocates of direct action in the labor movement and in the political field.

What would be unthinkable to permit the Communists to do is equally unthinkable for any other misguided group to do. And it is the responsibility of public leaders to say so and not to try to ride tigers which will devour all of us.

Mr. Lewis cannot complain if the professors are carried out. And he has no grounds to complain, on principle, if some right wing group carries him out of the national office of the New Democratic Party.

Waterloo is the source of the third story. Students at the University of Waterloo ceremoniously bestowed an honorary degree upon a pig specifically as a protest against the granting of a degree to Dr. O. M. Solandt, chancellor of the University of Toronto, and symbolically as a protest against the receipt of funds by universities from corporations.

Dr. Solandt apparently was chosen because of the recent attack upon him by Professor James Eayrs of U of T on the CBC program The Public Eye. The attack upon the "corporate elite" and upon businessmen who are appointed to boards of governors of universities comes from the "destructuring" set of SDS demands.

At an early stage it is removal of outside appointees from boards of governors, then it becomes equal faculty and student representation and finally it becomes a student-dominated, or as they call it, a "fully" democratic board. It is bound up with a denial of the interest in the university by the society which finances it. Also denied is the proposition that a university is a seat of learning. Instead it becomes a place for "people" — the heavily subsidized sons and daughters of the upper middle class who inhabit it.

The fourth story is from Toronto. Just as David Lewis got onto the direct action tiger, so Professor Jack Ludwig, novelist and English faculty member at the University of Toronto, got onto the anti-board of governors tigers.

Deriding them as "antiquated and artificial," Prof. Ludwig said that the boards sanction programs and confer degrees. The fact is that they rarely do either, and of course should not do either — those are responsibilities of a university senate which should be dominated, and usually is, by a full-time faculty.

But here again, an attack upon the involvement of society in the university is blessed. Whatever may lie at the end of this particular road, part way along it, if the attack gains momentum, lies the muddling of board and senate functions and inevitably the weakening of the grip which professors now have on academic policy in this country. We cannot readily conceive of a less desirable development.

Four stories give us a picture of an assault upon orderly processes and a claim for the subsidized isolation of the university.

The fifth story comes from Halifax. Prime Minister Trudeau said to students who urged upon him more energetic efforts by the Federal Government to aid the people of Biafra: "The Nazis were being starved in Stalingrad when they were cut off by the Russians. Should we have gone in there in that war and said we should help the poor Nazis who are starving?"

We find we must remind ourselves that it is the Prime Minister of Canada who uttered those words.

Canada was involved in "that war." We were fighting the "poor Nazis." In warfare one does not, as a rule, sustain one's enemy.

But what relates the Prime Minister's statement to the first four stories is the fact that students take their rejection of established procedures and of society itself from Herbert Marcuse who tells them that whenever there is a sharp challenge of principle the reply will be irrelevant sophistry.

It relates to them also because the students are influenced by Hannah Arendt who tells them that the irremedial malaise of our society is its indifference to matters of right and wrong. We have discovered that the Prime Minister does not believe in aiding the Biafrans.

20th Century Coming But Slowly, to Spain

MADRID — The mayor of Los Santos de Maimona, a small Spanish town of 11,000 people, has banned kissing in the street or any other public place. The ban applies to married couples as well as to Sweethearts.

If courting couples are caught holding hands, their names are inscribed on a blackboard in one of the town squares, and remain there for eight days. A kiss on a girl's cheek invites a fine.

So strictly is the ban on overt affection enforced that couples passing near the town hall walk separately until they can safely link hands when they reach the relative obscurity of the next narrow street.

The mayor, Francisco Murillo de la Calzada is 45, married and has a family of seven. He claims that the inhabitants strongly support his puritanical stand.

Roman Catholic Spain is a country of traditional conservative attitudes — but it has changed astonishingly during the past few years largely because of American influence and the impact of foreign tourists.

The chaperone, an essential figure in Spanish life up to 1960, has all but vanished. The censorship of films and plays, for many years based on sexual rather than political grounds, has been relaxed.

Notices warning visitors that bikinis are banned and that any other infringement of strict standards of propriety will be punished are disappearing from the seaside beaches.

But, as the mayor made clear, on the whole the permissive society makes but timid advances in Spain.

Gaglardi Wants B.C. Hydro Job

By JOHN MIKA

VANCOUVER — Minister Without Portfolio P. A. Gaglardi indicated Saturday that if he can't have the highways portfolio back he'd settle happily for B.C. Hydro.

"If you want to help me, put this in big headlines," he told reporters. "I would like to head the commission that runs the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority."

It wasn't clear whether he was speaking of a portfolio assignment or a civil service appointment.

Mr. Gaglardi's comments came after a row with Highways Minister Wesley Black outside the Social Credit League convention hall—witnessed by several cabinet ministers, delegates and reporters.

Premier Bennett declined to make any comment on Mr. Gaglardi's indication he would like to head B.C. Hydro.

Previously, he stopped cold an attempt to get a resolution on the floor asking return of the highways portfolio to Mr. Gaglardi. Mr. Bennett said Mr. Black would remain highways minister. Later, Mr. Gaglardi said he appreciated the efforts by his Kamloops constituency delegates' to bring the resolution before the convention but he disassociated himself from it.

Mr. Gaglardi also said reports that he might not return from the coming legislative session were wrong because he has made no snap decision.

"Any move I do make will be talked over with the premier first, you can be sure of that," he said. "I live a day at a time.

"The only statement I had made is that an active individual such as I am ... you have to have something to do.

"I'm never more happy than when I'm going full bore and if anybody wants to put me to work I will go."

Mr. Gaglardi skipped the wind-up banquet speech by Premier Bennett because, he said, he had to get to Kamloops where he was to conduct Sunday morning services in his church.

Premier Bennett was triumphant at the closing banquet, recalling his prediction that next February's provincial budget will break the $1 billion mark for the first time.

He said it will include "great new programs for the people, including some poor people abroad" through establishment of perpetual funds worth millions, such as the $25 million fund for helping B.C. native Indians he announced Aug. 1.

"These funds will be a lasting monument to Social Credit, not just 16 years hence—not just for my period—but 100 years hence and 1,000 years hence," he declared.

PERMANENT RECORD

"If the public is ever so fickle as to turn out this Social Credit government in many, many years to come, the permanent record will be there and the expenditures to show the people that there was one day a Social Credit government that showed Canada and the world how to finance properly."

Mr. Bennett told the delegates to be missionaries in telling the public of the great achievements of their provincial government since 1952.

"Social Credit has been too busy doing things to tell the story," he said.

"In future, we are going to do more, not less. But we are going to tell the story."

He said the government will intensify its efforts to tell the story by publishing newspaper advertisements next week to outline the sources of revenue for paying the province's $297.7 million public schools bill.

Of the amount, he said, only $25.7 million "less than 9 per cent" comes from property taxes on farmers and homeowners.

He said the rest is made up of $116.6 million from B.C. income taxes, $11.7 million from provincial sales tax, $41 million from natural resources, $4.5 million from federal grants and $98.2 million from industrial development.

Political Geography Success Secret

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told the British Columbia Social Credit League Saturday that it's "100 per cent nonsense" to think of the province in terms of urban and rural areas.

Mr. Campbell told the league's annual two-day convention the news media is "largely responsible for propagating the myth that B.C. is divided into farms and cities."

"This is a myth that should be knocked," Mr. Campbell said. "For instance, it's nonsense to say that Prince George is a rural area—it will one day be the Edmonton of B.C."

The municipal affairs minister said the reason Social Credit is in power and other parties are not is because "they don't understand the geography of the province."

He said municipal governments in B.C. are much healthier than their counterparts in other provinces.

Premier Bennett's government, he said, has instilled a "pay-as-you-go" attitude in municipal government.

"We must lead change and not shy away from it if we are to lead the province," he said in explaining the need for restructuring provincial and municipal relationships facing "the problems coming in the 1980s and 1990s.

"We will solve these problems of pollution, of rapid transit and of housing that are the result of a rapidly developing province.

"But we will solve these problems through co-operation on a decentralized basis because we believe local government is real government."

25 Rescued Off Tanker; 5 Missing

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Rescue vessels are reported to have saved 2 crew members of the Liberian-registered Greek tanker Spyros Lsmos, which broke in two in the Atlantic off Spain's Cape Finisterre on Sunday.

"Five men are still missing," the master of the Dutch motor vessel Eemland, Capt. F. W. J. Koorn, said in a radio message today. "They probably drowned during breaking of the ship."

The Eemland was en route to Amsterdam with 14 survivors of the 13,019-ton tanker, taken from the stern half 16 miles west of the cape.

The Finnish freighter Ragni Paulin plucked one man from the bow, found afloat in a vertical position, and the British submarine Odin rescued 10 from a lifeboat.

Young Socreds Would Suspend Student Rioters

VANCOUVER — The provincial government should require suspension of university students who urge rioting "or flagrant disregard of the laws of the land," the Young Social Credit organization proposed here Saturday.

Delegates at the main Social Credit League convention gave a standing ovation to University of B.C. student Michael Martinoff when he announced Young Socreds had passed "a very important resolution asking for law and order at UBC."

Besides suspension for student activists, the resolution asked the government to ensure no student should be required to join any organization at university.

(All students must belong to the Alma Mater Society.)

Robert Bennett, another UBC student, told the convention he was opposed to radicals at the university but the resolution "attacks the only form of student government we have.

VOICE DISAPPROVAL

"It is through this same Alma Mater Society that students as a whole voiced disapproval of the occupaton of the UBC faculty club."

However, Mr. Martinoff later said individual students should be able to decide whether they would join AMS which, on the UBC campus, is affiliated with the activist Canadian Union of Students.

Another highlight of the Saturday session was a two-page Delta constituency resolution calling for comprehensive streamlingging of the party's organization to emphasize the value of individual members in winning elections.

The resolution, referred to the incoming executive board for study, said there is "a need for development of a sophisticated organizatin capable of winning elections against the highly modern and efficient political machines of the opposition parties."

THREE TASK FORCES

The Delta constituency proposed that members in each association be split into three task forces — 50 per cent for campaigning, 30 per cent for membership and 20 per cent for administration.

Each task force would be headed by an association vice-president, and the three vice-presidents would form a constituency campaign committee in an electivn.

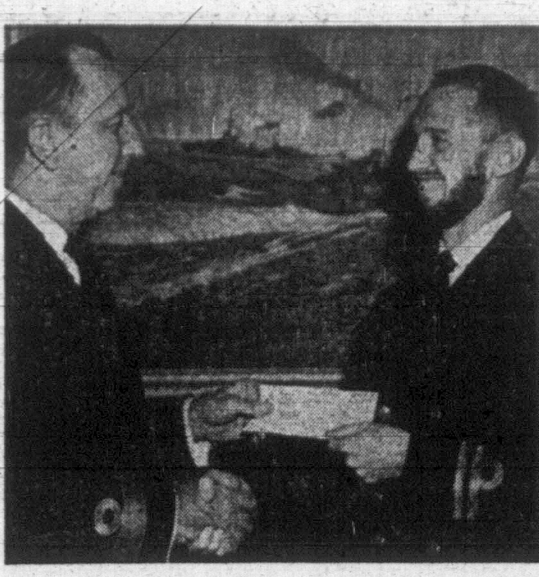
It urges closer co-operation between riding associations and the provincial executive in such matters as preparation of campaign literature and other election materials.

In other resolutions approved Saturday, delegates urged:

- A change in provincial laws to allow Sunday sport in areas outside Vancouver, which already has it.
- Government legislation to prohibit the sale of disposable soft drink bottles as a method of alleviating the litter problem.
- More action to keep parks and highways clear of inflammable underbrush, litter and other wastes.
- Creation of a new provincial park "in memory of the Cariboo gold miners" in the Snowshoe Plateau area between Likely and Barkerville in the B.C. interior.
- Reinstatement of the B.C. old age supplementary allowance for payment to pensioners over and above existing federal pensions.
- A provincial government study of methods of increasing housing and rental accommodation that would also find out how to go about reducing high interest rates.

Pearson Visits Boyhood Scenes On Anniversary

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — Former prime minister Pearson recalled fond memories Sunday on a visit to this community where he lived for several years when he was a small boy. Mr. Pearson and his wife attended services marking the 150th anniversary of the Aurora United Church where his father served as minister from 1900 to 1903. "I remember my first Chirstmas here, my first day of school and my first glimpse of the former King George and Queen Mary who were then Duke and Duchess of York," Mr. Pearson said.



AVERAGING 89.1 per cent in the Ninth Weapons Officers Sup-Specialty Course, Lieut. Robin W. Allen, of Saanichton, has been awarded the Herbert Lott, Naval Trust Fund prize, it was announced by the Royal Military College of Canada. Lieut. Allen is presently engaged in post-graduate studies in electrical engineering at Kingston, Ont. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Allen, 8507 Bourne Terrace, Saanichton, [illegible] is a graduate of the University of British Columbia.

Death Toll Rises

BIELLA, Italy (UPI) — The death toll rose to 91 today in a flood and landslide disaster that collapsed bridges and swept away homes and factories in the industrial heartland of northern Italy. U.S. air force helicopters rushed relief supplies to the stricken area.

Drop-ins Start Program

A drop-in centre at Centennial United Church is attracting between 80 and 90 young people who do not belong to any church group, says John Durkin, worker for the YMCA.

"The idea is to get young people dropping in at the centre and then have them make up their own program of things they like to do."

Mr. Durkin said the drop-in centre at Centennial United was started four months ago. Today it has an art program, a cheer-leading section and a band.

Plans are now being made for a hockey team, a homework clinic and a camping program. Membership in the centre is $1 a year for a family.

"My role at the centre is to win the confidence of young people and keep them interested," Mr. Durkin said.

The centre is held in the gymnasium under Centennial Church every Wednesday and Friday at 7 p.m.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was moderately active throughout most of the session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with oilseeds taking the bulk of the action.

Flax was under pressure because of heavy hedge offerings although price support was offered by good commercial interests. Hedges in rapeseed attracted export interest on the declines.

Oat and barley action was limited to buying for eastern feeders.

Friday's trading volume included 1,096,000 bushels of flax, 529,000 of rapeseed and 118,000 of rye.

CHICAGO (AP) — Corn futures advanced three cents on the Chicago Board of Trade but came under selling pressure at the close as profit-taking trimmed the rise by more than one cent.

Several factors influenced higher prices for corn. Weekend receipts at Chicago totalled 1,773,000 bushels but shipments to Canada and Europe totalled 2,470,000 bushels. Consequently, the nearby December futures contract enjoyed the greatest trade interest.

Wheat prices opened on a weak tone but turned sharply higher under active buying attributed to the strength in corn.

Oats and rye trade was dull and prices closed virtually unchanged.

Warranty Faults Blamed on Firms

By MORTON MINTZ
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A secret report on new-car warranties by staff members of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission blames Detroit for much of the trouble buyers of defective cars have when they seek satisfaction from dealers.

According to the report, one main root of the problem is the reimbursement given by the auto makers for warranty work.

The report says the compensation is so low as to be "an inducement" for some dealers to shun the work, devise excuses for rejecting it, avoid working on cars they do take in, or perform the repairs with "poorer mechanics."

FIRMS GOT REPORT

By undisclosed means, a copy of the 194-page report was obtained by Ralph Nader. The auto industry critic said that the report was completed last spring, was released privately by the FTC to the car makers and an auto dealer group, and has been withheld even from concerned government agencies.

Nader charged that the FTC thus gave the industry "preferential treatment" and, in an atmosphere of "byzantine secrecy," permitted it to apply pressure to change the staff's findings and conclusions. He also said that chairman Paul Band Dixon "has never even conceded the possibility that this report will ever be released."

According to the version of the report obtained by Nader, who said it was the final one, the average warranty expense for the 1965 models—through Dec. 20, 1966—was $41 to Ford Motor Co., $43 to General Motors, $44 to American Motors and $50 to Chrysler Corp.

Each company gives its dealers an allowance for inspection of new cars before delivery to customers. This allowance "averages from $20 to $40 below actual cost when work is done properly by good mechanics," the report says.

One finding involved "lemons"—cars with "serious malfunctions" that exceed dealers' repair capability.

"It is not the practice of American Motors and Ford to replace" such cars, the report says. Chrysler has not replaced any, either, but has helped dealers dispose of 19 which were taken back from "preferred customers." In the 1964-66 period, the report noted, GM replaced 76 defective cars with new ones.

The FTC staff said that with all its faults, the long-term warranty—initiated by Chrysler on the 1963 models—"has unquestioned value in providing greater protection to the new-car owner" and "builds a value into the car which can be transferred to subsequent owners . . ."

Status Quo Situation Expected

SEATTLE (AP) — The International North Pacific Fisheries Commission—often embroiled in strong controversies between Japan, Canada and the United States—opened its annual meeting here today with a "status quo situation" expected as the most likely result.

The commission, organized through a controversial fishing treaty between the three countries in 1953, was to begin the meeting with speeches through the day outlining various national positions. Most, if not all, of the sessions through the remainder of the week are expected to be behind closed doors.

Salmon, as usual, will be one of the chief topics this year. The U.S. long has been pressing for an agreement to move the treaty line west of 175 degrees west longitude to protect migrating runs of Bristol Bay red salmon from Japan's fishing fleets.

This proposal is certain to be made again, observers say. But Western delegates expect Japan, restricted to fishing west of the 175-degree line, to again veto the proposal. A unanimous vote would be required to change the treaty line.

Gold, Dollar Holdings Down

Canada's net credit in the International Monetary Fund—equivalent to exchange reserves—was up to $3,700,000 on Oct. 31 from $900,000 on Sept. 30.

More Co-operation Urged in Oil Policy

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Canadian oil prodcuers are using preferential import control treatment by the U.S. to gain an advantage over U.S. producers, said Harold McClure, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

At the same time, he said, "unlimited" imports of cheap crude oil from the Middle East and Venezuela into Eastern Canada are harming American oil producers and weakening North American defence.

Mr. McClure, whose association represents about 6,000 independent producers in the United States, told 200 delegates at the seventh annual conference of the Onterio Petroleum Institute Inc. that Canada and the United States should reduce their dependence on foreign oil supplies in order to create a common North American "energy area."

He said North America's oil needs could easily be supplied from Middle East and North African oil fields. But, as the 1967 crisis in the Middle East showed, it was essential to develop and maintain an oil supply under North American control.

To this end, the United States had introduced import controls in 1959 and Canada received preferential treatment allowing import into the United States of a quota of Canadian oil, 300,000 barrels a day being allowed across the border in the region east of the Rockies.

The controls had benefited the U.S. and Canadian oil industries economically.

DOWN TO TIDEWATER after careful haul from Copper Canyon come two selected logs destined for the Canadian Pavilion at Expo 70, at Osaka. MacMillan Bloedel supplied logs at cost borne by British Columbia Council of Forest Industries. These two, about 400 years old and taller than a 20-storey building, were floated at Chemainus. They will be trimmed to 166 feet before taking places with 107 others in pavilion.

EXCHANGES STILL TIGHT

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York and American Stock Exchanges have decided to extend their special one-day-a-week closings through November.

The National Association of Securities Dealers said it would recommend similar action to its executive committee for the over-the-counter market.

Special closings were ordered for Nov. 11 and 20. The exchanges said that securities markets would be closed Nov. 5 for election day and Nov. 28 for U.S. Thanksgiving Day.

Trio to Form New Company

CALGARY (CP) — A proposed merger of Bata Resources Ltd., Stampede Oils Ltd. and Galaxy Copper to form United Bata Resources Ltd. will be proposed to the three companies' shareholders in late November.

A. A. W. Kryczka, president of Stampede Oils, said the merger would be designed to eliminate duplication of services, mainly between Stampede and Bata.

The two companies, "which have really been operating as twins in the oil business," work together on many projects and duplicate the paper work of each other while moving toward the same end, Mr. Kryczka said.

The two companies are now engaged in drilling programs in the Strachan area of west-central Alberta, he said, where Galaxy Copper has large holdings.

Oil Executive Predicts Bright Canadian Future

TORONTO — The future outlines of the Canadian economy are "very promising," chairman John E. Swearingen of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) said in a speech here.

By 1980, Swearingen said, "our own projections point to a gross national product approaching $115 billion a year, in 1967 Canadian dollars—or a near doubling of real GNP in little more than a decade." Within this period, he predicted, Canadian oil requirements will also double, with domestic demand exceeding 2.5 million barrels a day by 1980, and oil and gas together will account for some 70 per cent of Canada's total energy consumption.

Swearingen spoke before the Toronto Society of Financial Analysts. He estimated Indiana Standard's total capital expenditures worldwide for 1968 at $630 million, 25 per cent above last year's record total. Capital expenditures have risen from a level of $270 million in 1958 to exceed $500 million in 1967, he said, totaling $3.4 billion over the 10-year period through last year.

Noting that Indiana Standard's earnings have increased 140 per cent in the last 10 years, Swearingen stated, "We expect a new record in earnings to be set this year."

Commenting on factors affecting the long-range outlook for Canadian petroleum, Indiana Standard's chief executive said "large discoveries in Alaska will have a bearing on the level of imports into the U.S. from present Canadian reserves.

"Important discoveries on the Arctic islands, or along the Canadian portion of the Arctic coast, would further alter the balance.

"Obviously, in the face of the tremendous technological and logistics problems involved, it will be some time before any production from areas as remote as these will be a significant factor. At the same time, important discoveries here and some demonstration of ultimate commerciability would certainly alter the time table for eventual development of the Athabaska tar sands."

Also, discovery of commercial quantities of petroleum on the east coast, with relatively ready accessibility to market, could affect decisions to proceed with programs in the Arctic.

In addition to its operations in areas of established production in the Canadian area, Swearingen said Indiana Standard has active exploratory interests or acreage positions in a number of new frontier areas, including the western Arctic, NWT, Gulf of St. Lawrence and Lake Erie.

In neighboring Alaska, Swearingen said, the company is one of the leading operators in Cook Inlet, is now ready to drill its first well in the Bristol Bay area, and plans to start drilling on the Arctic north slope in December.

Sulphur Goes Respectable

CALGARY (CP) — The petroleum industry in Western Canada is making a tidy profit on sulphur, a natural-gas byproduct which less than 15 years ago was considered of little value.

In the late 1950s and early 1960s, extracting malodorous hydrogen sulphide before shipping natural gas to market was a bothersome and expensive necessity. At that time it was feared that great piles of sulphur would accumulate around gas-processing plants.

But in the mid-1960s the sulphur picture cranged. Demand soared, pushed mainly by the phenomenal increase in the demand for fertilizer, an industry which uses enormous quantities of sulphuric acid in the production of phosphatic fertilizers.

In 1968, the forecast production revenue from sulphur is $100 million, up $35 million from last year and a whopping $91.6 million more than in 1962.

Canadian production of sulphur from natural gas has increased more than five times since 1961. Last year Canada was the world's No. 2 producer — behind the United States — with an output of $2.3 million tons and exports of 900,000 tons.

$15 Million Fraud Uncovered

QUEBEC (CP) — Le Soleil says it has learned from an official of the provincial justice department that at least one person will be charged later this month in a fraud involving $15,000,000.

The newspaper says the fraud was uncovered following a detailed investigation by the Quebec Securities Commission and provincial police.

It says the fraud involves funds of private citizens, commercial organizations, transport undertakings and religious communities.

The newspaper says another fraud, involving $20,000, has also been uncovered and that a person is to be charged with converting to his own use money held in trust by clients.

Dome Petroleum

Dome Petroleum Ltd. realized a net income of $7 million for the nine months ended Sept. 30, an increase of $1.11 million from the same period a year earlier.

The income, on a gross of $17.76 million represents $2.06 a common share.

Digest Nails Mail

Kenneth Davey, vice-president of Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Ltd., said last summer's mail strike and increased mail rates could cost his company $450,000 in the current fiscal year.

The strike cost the company $150,000, and the mail rate increase will cost another $300,000.

Digest president Paul Zimmerman told the annual meeting in Montreal mailing costs per magazine would rise from 1.2 cents to 2.5 cents.

Bank Reserves

Chartered bank cash reserves climbed last week to $1.55 billion as the banks approached the end of the fiscal year, when they like to show robust accounts.

The cash reserve required by the Bank Act for October was $1.52 billion.

GERELA SETS FIELD GOAL MARK

Lion Rookie Loses Crown on Last Play of Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Football took a back seat to statistics during the weekend as the Western Conference closed its regular schedule with a pair of games that could not affect the final standings.

Saturday, before 22,645 at Vancouver's Empire Stadium, first-place Saskatchewan Roughriders turned a pass interception into the game's lone touchdown as they downed fourth-place British Columbia Lions 12-6.

Sunday in Winnipeg, with 12,000 watching, the last-place Bombers edged second-place Calgary 28-24.

Saskatchewan thus finished with 12 wins, three losses and one tie—the best record in the club's 32-year history.

Calgary visits Edmonton Sunday in a sudden-death game for the right to meet Saskatchewan in the division final.

Closest battle in the two weekend games was between fullbacks George Reed of Saskatchewan and Jim Evenson of the Lions for the WFC rushing crown.

Although each lugged the ball almost three-quarters of a mile in 16 games, Reed nosed ahead at the tape by two yards—1,222 to the rookie's 1,220. And he made it on the last play of the game, a five-yard carry.

Ted Gerela, another Lion kicked a 33-yard field goal in the first quarter to run his season's total to 29, thus breaking the professional record of 28 set in 1965 by Pete Gogolak of Buffalo in the American Football League and equalled in 1966 by Bruce Gosset of Los Angeles in the NFL. For good measure, Gerala booted a 37-yarder in the second quarter to run the record to 30.

His 115 points for the season gave him the WFC scoring championship. He finished 18 points ahead of second-place Larry Robinson of Calgary and 19 up on third-place Reed.

The Roughriders scored the game's lone touchdown when Bob Kosid intercepted a Pete Ohler pass early in the second half and galloped 78 yards to score.

Jack Abendschan, with a convert, two singles and a field goal, completed the Saskatchewan scoring.

In Winnipeg, Kenny Ploen, who led the Bombers to four Grey Cups during his 11 years as quarterback, received gifts that included a shotgun from the football club, color television, a power toboggan, a scroll from the province of Manitoba and a plaque from the city of Winnipeg.

Ploen, 33, retired at the end of last season.

Winnipeg's Dave Raimey, in addition to scoring a touchdown, ran back a kickoff for 28 yards, giving him a career record of 903 yards for kick runbacks. He broke the record of 876 held by former Stampeder Harvey Wylie.

The Stampeders threw 27 times for a season total of 524, 10 more than the mark they set last year. Their 13 completions gave them 317 for the season, nine more than the previous record shared by Calgary and Montreal.

Quarterback John Schneider and halfbacks Paule Brule and Raimey scored Winnipeg touchdowns, with another 10 points coming from Pierre Guindon's two field goals, three converts and a single.

Quarterback Ron Vanderkelen, who went all the way for Calgary at quarterback, scored two touchdowns and end Terry Evenshen got the other.

Larry Robinson kicked three converts and a field goal.

Bears Gamble On Free Kick; Trip Packers

By The Associated Press

Mac Percival booted a 43-yard field goal on a rarely-invoked free kick with 26 seconds to play Sunday, giving Chicago Bears a 13-10 victory over Green Bay Packers, the struggling National Football League champs.

VICTORY in Mexican Grand Prix Sunday gave England's Graham Hill world car racing championship for second time. Scotland's Jackie Stewart, who finished seventh Sunday, was second and defending-champion Dennis Hulme of New Zealand, uninjured as his car crashed and burned Sunday, was third on championship list. Bruce McLaren, New Zealand, was second in Sunday's race.

Percival kicked the winning three-pointer after Chicago coach Vince Dooley went for the free-kick option.

An NFL rule permits a free kick, punt or placement without opposition after one team makes a fair catch of a punt. So when Cecil Turner fielded Donny Anderson's short punt on the Green Bay 43, Dooley called the shot—and Percival delivered.

Chicago, 4-4, is tied for the Central Division lead with Minnesota Vikings, who whipped Washington Redskins 27-14 Sunday. The Packers and Detroit Lions, who bowed to Los Angeles Rams 10-7, are one-half game back at 3-4-1.

KAPP AT HELM

Baltimore Colts battered New York Giants 26-0, Dallas Cowboys trimmed New Orleans Saints 17-3, Cleveland Browns topped San Francisco '49ers 33-21, St. Louis Cardinals trounced Philadelphia Eagles 45-17 and Pittsburgh Steelers drubbed Atlantic Falcons 41-21 in other games.

Rookie Charlie West returned a punt 98 yards for a touchdown—tying the 35-year-old NFL record set by Gil LeFevre of Cincinnati—and Joe Kapp tossed two scoring passes to Gene Washington, leading Minnesota past the Redskins.

RAMS, COLTS TIED

The victory kept Los Angeles, 8-1, in a tie for the Coastal Division lead with the Colts, who handed New York its first shutout loss in 76 games. Earl Morrall fired a pair of touchdown passes against his former Giant team-mates and Lou Michaels kicked two field goals.

Two weeks ago Kansas City Chiefs, using a tight T formation and throwing only three passes, ground under the defending American Football League champion Oakland Raiders and took the Western Division lead.

With their backs against the wall—a loss would have put them two games behind Kansas City—the Raiders took to the air against a more balanced Chiefs' attack Sunday and cruised to a 38-21 victory that all but evened the race.

Daryl Lamonica connected on 18 of 32 throws for a whopping 352 yards and two touchdowns when Oakland's running attack ground to a halt.

San Diego Chargers posted a 34-28 victory over Miami Dolphins to keep up with Oakland.

JETS DOWN BILLS

In the Eastern Division, Jim Turner put a kick in the New York Jets' runaway hopes of booting record-tying six field goals for a 25-21 decision over Buffalo Bills.

The victory maintained the Jets' 2½ game lead over Houston Oilers, who whipped Cincinnati Bengals 27-17, and a three-game bulge over Boston Patriots, a 35-14 victory of Denver Broncos in the other game.

Sailing Fleet Out in Force For Contests

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Sunday's brisk, steady winds and blue skies brought out a record 80 sailboats to race off Willows Beach and in Esquimalt Harbor.

Saturday, by comparison, saw El Toro racing cancelled in Cadboro Bay because of strong, gusting winds. Davidsons completed one race, which was won by Sid Halls, before broken masts and capsizes took their toll of the 12-boat fleet.

Thirty-nine keel boats turned out for Turkey Head's two contests, which attracted many casual spectators to Cattle Point.

The morning race over a "figure-of-eight" type course went from Willows Beach to Mary Todd Flag, Fiddle Reef, Cattle Point Flag, Jemmy Jones, Fiddle Reef, and back to Willows Beach. First boat to cross the finish line was Ken Pearce's Venture, followed by John Dewey's Swallow and the Gabrielle II, skippered by Ralph Higgins.

Gabrielle II was first to finish the afternoon race,

ONE OF FEW TIMES Billy Casper found trouble in Sunday's final round of Lucky International golf tournament came on this occasion, when he had to play under trees on 16th hole. He wound up with bogie on hole but finished with five-under-par 66 for easy victory. (AP Wirephoto.)

Casper's Take Tops $200,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When Billy Casper stepped out on the windy Harding Park golf course, he was a stroke behind the leader. Two holes later he was in control.

On the first and second holes in the final round of the $100,000 Lucky international open tournament Sunday, Casper landed off the green. He chipped in both times and was off and running to his sixth tournament victory of the year, which was eventually won with a 72-hole score of 269, 15 under par. His last-round 66 sewed up the win.

Casper, 37, used a nine iron from 20 feet for the first hole and a sand wedge for the second, which was a 30-footer. He was one under par on both.

The victory gave the Bonita, Calif., pro $20,000 in prize money and a total for the year of $203,389. Only Jack Nicklaus, who carted home $211,000 last year, has ever won more money playing golf. Casper can top that total next week with a first or second-place finish in the Hawaiian Open.

Casper was four strokes ahead of second-place Ray Floyd and Don Massengale who has 273 and won $9,750 each.

Al Balding of Toronto shot 280 and won $712.

Dave Stockton, who began the day a stroke ahead of Casper, faltered to a 72 for a 274 total and a tie for fourth with Ken Still and Miller Barber.

Murphy and Still shot 69s Sunday, Barber had a 68.

One stroke behind at 275 was Tommy Aaron, who followed his course record 63 of Saturday with a one-over-par 72.

Sixth Crown, By Six Blows For Nagle

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian Kel Nagle won his sixth Australian Professional Golfers' Association championship in 19 years Sunday with a 20-under-par 72-hole total of 276. His closing round was a three-under 71.

Nagle began the last round of the 72-hole $11,200 tournament five strokes ahead of American Jack Nicklaus, and by the end of the tournament he increased the winning margin to six.

Nicklaus had a 72, for 282, and Australian Bruce Devlin was third with 287 after a final 73.

Arnold Palmer, who had poor rounds on the second and third days of the tournament, came back with a final 71 for a 293 total an shared sixth place with five others.

With Palmer were Britain's Maurice Bembridge and South Korea's Han Chan San, Gary Player of South Africa, Clive Clark of Britain and Takashi Murakami.

Kathy Leads Money Parade

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Texan Kathy Whitworth shot a final-round 71 to win the $26,000 Canyon women's golf classic Sunday and vault into the lead among women golfers.

Miss Whitworth's 218 for three days earned her $3,300 and a total of $53,501 for the year, edging Carol Mann with $51,611.

Shirley Englehorn, Mary Mills and Donna Capone tied for second with 220 and won $2,000 each. Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., was fifth with a 73 for 223. She won $1,330.

BIGGEST CHEER . . . . . . FOR 'PUNCH LINE'

Just Like Hollywood

MONTREAL (CP) — Huge arc lights lit up the murky sky and television cameras and a horde of photographers recorded the arrival by limousine of the dignitaries as the renovated Montreal Forum reopened for business Saturday night with festivities reminiscent of a Hollywood premiere.

On hand for the occasion were leading political figures, sports personalities of other years and entertainers.

Inside, a record crowd of 18,114 watched the ribbon-cutting ceremonies and saw the guests introduced one by one. Montreal Canadiens made the evening complete with a 2-1 National Hockey League win over Detroit Red Wings.

The previous record for a Montreal hockey crowd was 16,316 on March 22, 1952.

The list of former stars included figureskater Barbara Ann Scott King, boxer Yvon Durelle, hockey and lacrosse great Newsy Lalonde, bicycle-rider Torchy Peden and wrestler Yvon Robert, but the biggest ovation of all came with the introduction of the former "punch line" of the Canadiens — Elmer Lach, Toe Blake and Maurice Richard.

The Forum, a landmark on downtown Ste. Catherine Street and home of the Canadiens since it was built in 1924 at a cost of $1,500,000, underwent a $9,500,000 face-lifting inside and out this year.

Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand cut a tricolor ribbon stretching across centre ice to open the building.

Habs, Leafs Bow To Surging Flyers

By The Canadian Press

It took just one productive weekend to put Philadelphia Flyers back into the race in the Western Division of the National Hockey League.

The Flyers, who finished on top of their division last season, started the weekend in a tie for last place. A couple of victories later, they were in a deadlock for second and just one point off the pace set by St. Louis Blues.

Philadelphia did it the hard way, beating two Eastern Division teams—Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens.

The Flyers surprised the Maple Leafs 3-2 at Toronto Saturday night and took the Canadiens by the same score at Philadelphia Sunday.

In other action Saturday night, Montreal edged Detroit Red Wings 2-1, Los Angeles Kings nipped Pittsburgh Penguins 3-2 and Minnesota North Stars blanked St. Louis Blues 2-0.

Sunday, New York Rangers shaded Minnesota 2-1, Boston Bruins downed Chicago Black Hawks 5-3, St. Louis tied Detroit 4-4 and Pittsburgh upset Oakland Seals 3-1.

GENDRON SCORES TWO

Veteran Jean-Guy Gendron scored two goals for Philadelphia Saturday before 16,470 fans and defenceman Ed Van Impe added the other. Scoring for Toronto were Paul Henderson and Bill Sutherland, a former Flyer.

A 75-foot shot by rookie centre Jim Johnson midway through the final period produced the winning goal for the Flyers Sunday before 12,431 fans. The shot bounced out of goalie Rogatien Vachon's glove and into the net.

Other Philadelphia scorers were Andre Lacroix and Simon Nolet. Henri Richard and Jean Beliveau scored for the Canadiens, who hold a one-point edge in the Eastern Division over New York and Boston.

The Rangers stayed solidly on contention for top spot when first-period goals by Bob Nevin and Dave Balon carried them to victory Sunday before 16,616 New York fans.

Danny Grant scored the only goal for the North Stars, playing their last game under manager-coach Wren Blair. John Muckler will take over as coach next Wednesday when Minnesota plays at home against Toronto.

Camille Henry paced St. Louis Sunday, scoring three goals to bring his season total to seven.

Frank Mahovlich, Gary Bergman, Gary Unger and Alex Delvecchio replied for the Red Wings and Gordie Howe had three assists.

The Penguins scored three times in less than four minutes in the second period before a crowd of only 2,166 at Oakland.

SWEDES AGREE TO HOST MEET

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish Ice Hockey Federation has agreed unanimously to organize the world championships here March 15-30, 1969.

Until the recent Soviet Union-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, the tournament was to have been held in Prague.

Riders Maintain Edge Over Argos

By The Canadian Press

Ottawa Rough Riders left the impression Sunday that they will represent the Eastern Football Conference in this year's Grey Cup.

The Riders trounced Toronto Argonauts 31-9 to clinch first place in the EFC and gain a bye into the conference finals. The Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats play a sudden-death semi-final at Toronto next Saturday.

In the only other game in the final weekend of EFC play, the third-place Tiger-Cats tied the last-place Alouettes 21-21 at Montreal Saturday.

Ottawa's victory Sunday was its third in a row against the Argos this season and the Riders also won three games against Hamilton.

Toronto held an 8-6 lead midway through the second quarter before Ottawa went to work.

SCORES LONE TD

Linebacker Allan Ray Aldridge scored the only Toronto touchdown on a 99-yard run after recovering an Ottawa fumble. Dave Mann kicked a convert and two singles.

Ottawa received touchdowns from fullback Bo Scott, quarterback Russ Jackson—both on one-yard runs—and flanker Whit Tucker on a 21-yard pass from Jackson.

Don Sutherin kicked field goals of 19, 34 and 36 yards and added a single and three converts. The 13 points gave Sutherin the EFC scoring title by one point over Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton.

Sutherin, who finished the season with 112 points, had trailed Coffey, last year's scoring champion, by three points entering the weekend. Coffey was held to nine points at Montreal.

GALLOPS 132 YARDS

Vic Washington galloped for 132 yards on 16 carries and Scott compiled 128 on 12 tries. Bill Symons of Toronto, the first Argo ever to gain more than 1,000 yards on the ground in one season, charged for 115 on 17 attempts.

A crowd of only about 7,000 saw Dave Fleming score two touchdowns for the Tiger-Cats, who won one of three regular-season games against Toronto this year. Coffey kicked two field goals, two converts and a single.

Montreal touchdowns came from quarterback Carroll Williams, Dennis Duncan and Mike Gray. Dave Ray contributed three converts.

Field Hockey's Co-Leaders Draw

University of Victoria and Oak Bay failed to break a first-place deadlock Sunday, playing to a 3-3 draw in Victoria Men's Field Hockey League action.

Gary Anaka (2) and John Pendray were Uvic scorers, offsetting Oak Bay goals by Al Chedd (2) and Doug Carrick.

In another game, Gary McGregor and Stew Thompson scored to provide Red Barons with a 2-0 victory over Tigers.

Cardinals Score Another Victory

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals defeated the combined Tokyo Yomiuri Giants and Osaka Hankyu Braves team 2-1 Saturday.

A crowd of 22,000 watched the U.S. team register its fifth victory in seven games on its 18-game tour of Japan.

Nats Embroiled In Free-for-All

STOCKHOLM (CP-Reuters) — The Swedish Hockey Federation, faced with a threatened strike by their whole national team, today reduced to one game suspensions imposed on four players after a brawling match with Canada Sunday night.

The four players, two of them Canadian, had been suspended for two games in the wake of a donnybrook in the second period of the exhibition game. The Canadians defeated the Swedes 3-2.

Morris Mott of Creelman, Sask., Ted Hargreaves of Foam Lake, Sask., and Swedish captain Ulf Sterner and ace forwar Lars-Goeran Nilsson drew the two-game suspension after a fight which sports observers here said was the worst ever seen on a Stockholm rink.

The suspensions included the third international match between the two teams in Gothenburg on Wednesday. For the Canadians it would also have included a game against the Swedish B team Tuesday. For the Swedes the second game would rave been a regular league game

The Swedes protested missing the league game. The change means that the suspensions now only apply to the international game Wednesday.

'LOMAS LACED BY HILLTOPS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Saskatoon Hilltops Sunday defeated Vancouver Meralomas 40-0 to win the Western Canada junior football championship and the right to meet Ottawa Sooners in the national final.

The Canadian final will be played at Edmonton's Clarke Stadium Monday, Nov. 11. Hilltops last won the national title in 1959.

Saskatoon's powerful offence, led by rookie quarterback Dave Pickett, was too much for the inexperienced Vancouver squad.

John Cliff Captures Cross-Country Event

John Cliff of Spartans Track Club captured the four-mile open men's event in the 44th annual Royal Canadian Legion cross-country race Sunday in Beacon Hill Park with a 20:59-minute clocking.

Clubmate Norm Patenaude was second, followed by Alan McAllister of Shawnigan Lake Boy's School.

Jennifer Jones of Nanaimo captured first place in the women's open competition ahead of Penny May of Victoria Track Club and teammate Nancy Chamberlain.

The juvenile men's competition, over 3.2 miles, was won by Don Steffanek, followed by Shawnigan's James McBean and VTC clubmate Dan Ryan.

Rob Ross won the midget boy's 2.4 mile race with Al Weiker and Mike Costello. All are members of the VTC.

Debbie Reid (VTC) finished first in the 1.6 mile midget girl's contest with Cheryl Blevins (Mercurys) and Arlene Johnston (Nanaimo) in order behind.

Approximately 55 runners took part in the competition and represented all centres on Vancouver Island.

U.S. Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The United States team exploded for three goals in a six-minute stand early in the second half Sunday to break a 2-2 deadlock and went on to defeat Bermuda 6-2 in a World Cup soccer match.

A sparse crowd of 2,265 saw Peter Millar score three goals for the U.S., two of them in the second half.

DEFENSIVE HOCKEY SKILL . . . . . . PAYS OFF FOR COUGARS

Effective, but Not Always Exciting

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Skip Casler's style is the kind that may not impress all the people all the time.

That's how it is with defensive hockey.

Casler and other Victoria Cougars handling defensive chores leaned to effectiveness Saturday night. The Cougars laced Vernon Essos 9-2 at Memorial Arena in a B.C. Junior Hockey League game that lacked sustained action.

That's often a consequence of defensive hockey. The mechanics of back-checking and goaltending support detract from the overall fireworks. But they can produce the desired result.

The talent-thin Vernon team managed only 18 shots on Victoria's Ed Forslund. One of Essos' two goals was an outright gift, but that still is a far cry from Cougars' generosity displayed in their two previous games at Memorial Arena.

Casler, coming off a bout with the 'flu and playing in only his third game of the season, was a steady performer who provided a two-way spark.

The red-headed rearguard helped set up three of Victoria's six goals in a first-period uprising. In addition, Casler played a strong cover-up game on defence.

Adrian Blais and Grant Evans each scored two goals for Cougars while Len Barrie, Bruce Cowick, John Van Horlick, Doug Gibson and Scott Munro scored singles.

Jeff Wilson, one of Vernon's best, scored the second Esso goal after setting up Jerry Vachon for the first.

It wasn't all milk-and-honey for Cougars, however. Centre Dave Cousins aggravated a groin injury which may sideline him for a few weeks. In addition, Cowick suffered a cut on a foot after a Vernon skate cut through the Victoria player's boot.

Cowick suffered the injury in the second period but stayed around to play out the game. He's expected to play Saturday when the league-leading Penticton Broncos come into Memorial Arena for their second visit of the season.

With the victory, Cougars moved into second, one point ahead of Kelowna Buckaroos, beaten 5-3 by Penticton Broncos in another game Saturday. Broncs lead Victoria by four points.

Vernon rebounded from its Saturday night loss to defeat New Westminster Royals 9-7 Sunday afternoon, scoring five goals in the third period. Don Manson and Wilson each scored two goals for Vernon.

VANCOUVER — If one look is indication enough, Victoria Chinooks appear to have found a "dominant centre" in Bill Carlson.

Chinooks reached the Canadian junior men's basketball final last season but perhaps missed the big prize because a freak auto mishap sidelined the brilliant Ollie Moilanen following the provincial playoffs.

Moilanen was everybody's all-star in the Inter-City League and Carlson came along at the weekend to indicate the ability to fill Ollie's shoes. Carlson was the dominant figure as coach Moe Turner's Chinooks swept their opening series of the new season.

Chinooks dropped CYO Saints 57-50 Saturday, made it more convincing with an 85-65 triumph Sunday.

Carlson dominated the backboards with a strong rebounding performance and tossed in eight points Saturday. He was more impressive Sunday, again rebounding well and throwing in 32 points.

BALANCE DISPLAYED

Carlson's efforts and Chinooks' over-all balance delighted Turner. Each of the 10 players hit the hoop Saturday, and nine of 10 made in Sunday.

"It's the kind of start that should put the boys in the right frame of mind for Killarney," said manager Harold Turner. Killarney, which defeated North Shore 64-58 in its opener last Wednesday, is touted as the team to beat on the mainland.

Killarney will help open Chinooks' home stand with games Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon at Central Junior High.

Crofton House Claims Crown

ABBOTSFORD — Crofton House of Vancouver captured the B.C. high school girls' field hockey championship Saturday after Vancouver-area teams stopped Vancouver Island's hopes in the semi-finals.

Victoria Norfolk won the championship flight, shading Westminster's Winston Churchill 1-0 while George Elliot claimed consolation honors by blanking Revelstoke 2-0.

Coeds Need New Tactic To Stop Untouchables

VANCOUVER—UBC's Thunderettes will get another chance, but they'll have to try to find another method to stop Victoria Untouchables in their Inter-City Senior Women's Basketball League battles.

Whatever UBC tried at the weekend didn't work. It led to a Victoria sweep and sole possession of first place.

Thunderettes tried to stop Victoria with a one-on-one defence Saturday. Untouchables won, 59-47.

UBC leaned to a zone defence Sunday, and the result was even more disastrous. Victoria breezed to a 59-28 victory.

Mary Coutts, Angie Radanovich and Arlene Wallwin set Victoria's scoring pace. Mary dropped in 44 points, including 24 on Sunday. Angie tossed in 14 Saturday and 15 Sunday, while Arlene checked in with a 20-point weekend.

Victoria, unbeaten in three games, now awaits a visit from Mt. Pleasant Legion. Mt. Pleasant plays the Untouchables next Saturday and completes a wekend visit by meeting University of Victoria on Sunday.

VICTORIA — Mary Coutts, 24, Doreen Lusk 2, Marilyn Johnston 2, Irene Smith, Arlene Wallwin 8, Judy Bourne, Gail Bonner 4, Sylvia Campbell, Angie Radanovich 15, Dianna Brozuk 4. Total 59.

UBC—Brenda McFarland 4, Terry McGovern, 8, Betty Ross 2, Alison Htfield 2, Becky Willoughby, Janet Douglas 4, Heather Cranston 2, Joanne Seargent 4, Taffy Williams 2. Total 28.

Shawnigan XV Trips Champs

Saturday was a good day for Shawnigan Lake and Brentwood College in private school rugby activity.

Brentwood won seven of eight exhibition matches from University School, including a 9-6 decision by the firsts. Bob Hindson sparked Brentwood's firsts with a try and penalty goal.

The fourth team scored University's only triumph, 6-3.

At Shawnigan Lake, the hosts toppled reigining B.C. champion Vancouver Point Grey 6-3 on a penalty goal by Bill Sleath and Mark Hall's drop goal.

Shawnigan's intermediate squad defeated Point Grey 17-3 as Mark Robson scored two trys; George Williams, Ian Ross and Glen Thompson one each, and John Hungerford kicked a convert.

Soccer Invasion A Breeze

Two bands of University of Victoria Vikings went raiding during the weekend. One breezed through the enemy. The other took a solid beating.

In Seattle, the soccer Vikings completed a triumphant two-game Seattle invasion with a 2-0 blanking of the University of Seattle during a heavy downpour.

Keith Humphries notched both Viking tallies. Victoria's Western Canadian Intercollegiage Athletic Association soccer champions defeated University of Washington 5-0 on Friday.

Results at Vancouver were disastrous. UBC Thunderbirds crushed the hockey Vikings 8-2 in an exhibition game Saturday.

T-Birds, who downed Vikings 10-0 Friday, had a 46-16 edge in shots on goal and easily pulled away after a 1-1 first-period tie.

Wayne Schaab's three goals, Mickey McDowell's two and singles by Miles Desharnais, Cam Kerr and Bob Cherry took care of the scoring for UBC.

Terry Foreman and Greg Gow answered for Vikings.

Brentwood, Cordova Roll to Bantam Wins

The hosts proved generous as visitors won two of three Peninsula Basketball Association games played at the Saanichton Hall Saturday.

Brentwood trounced Saanichton 55-8 in bantam girls' play while Cordova Bay bantam boys downed the host team 28-5. Saanichton defeated Brentwood 8-6 in a pre-midget boys' battle.

Burnaby Skip Blasts Champ

VANCOUVER (CP) — Glen Pierce, of Burnaby, defeated world curling champion Ron Northcott, of Calgary, 10-3 Sunday to take the $2,000 top prize in the triple-knockout Evergreen invitational bonspiel here.

Pierce scored four points in the 10th end and Northcott conceded. It was Northcott's second loss to Pierce in the tournament.

Northcott, who defeated Hec Gervais of Edmonton, 1961 world champion, 8-7 earlier Sunday, took second prize of $1,200.

Reg Stone's Trail, B.C. rink edged Lyall Dagg of Vancouver 9-8 in the B event final to take $400 third prize.

Dagg, 1964 world champion, got $300 and fourth spot in the 32-rink affair.

Stone downed Dave Patterson's Courtenay, B.C., rink 8-5 to get to the final. Patterson was a strong contender for the B event final Saturday after he easily defeated Wayne Sokolosky of Calgary 11-1, Aubrey Neff of Vancouver 10-3 and Lorne Ovens of New Westminster 13-9.

STREAK SNAPPED

Keith Dagg, Lyall's brother and defending Evergreen champ was eliminated Saturday as Pierce snapped his winning streak at three with a 10-5 victory.

Pierce's winning rink included Lynn Mason as third, Ken Schisler as second and Dez Deroche, all of Burnaby.

Pierce, 25, has a strong take-out rink which, in first-round play Thursday, beat Northcott 10-4.

Spurs Collect First Points

By The Canadian Press

Defenceman Jacques Lemieux scored his second goal with less than four minutes remaining to give Denver Spurs a 4-4 tie with Vancouver Canucks in a Western Hockey League game at Denver Sunday night before 2,832 fans.

Wilf Martin also scored a pair for Spurs, in the WHL cellar after 10 losses, a win and a tie.

Ted Taylor, Len Lunde, Billy McNeill and Tracy Pratt scored for Vancouver. Canucks are in third position.

Denver scored its first win of the season Saturday, 2-1 against the visiting Canucks. Murray Hall scored the only Vancouver goal, before 2,230 spectators, as Gord Vejprava and John Rodger tallied for the Spurs.

A second Sunday night match saw the second-place Buckaroos shut out fifth-place Phoenix Roadrunners 3-0 before 5,787 Portland fans.

It was Dave Kelly's first shutout of the season as he made 33 saves in the Portland nets.

Norm Johnson scored twice, to put Buckaroos on the scoreboard in the second period, and Andy Hebenton added a single in the final 20 minutes.

In another Saturday match, Portland whipped Seattle 6-1 to reverse their Friday night meeting in Seattle.

Victoria O'Keefes appear to have plugged defensive weaknesses, and it may be possible today to catch members of the Pacific Coast Soccer League team humming a few bars of a melody which starts out "Just in time . . ."

O'Keefes turned in an impressive performance Saturday at Macdonald Park as they laced the youthful Burnaby Villa team 4-0.

It was O'Keefes' third straight game without a defeat. In climbing to within one point of second-place UBC Thunderbirds, O'Keefes focused attention on coming events.

Victoria visits Vancouver's Callister Park for a Nov. 11 date with UBC, then face the front-running Vancouver Firefighters in Macdonald Park on Nov. 16.

STARTING TO JELL

Victoria coach Bill Abbott feels his rebuilt O'Keefes "are starting to jell," and looks ahead to the next engagements for fact-finding proof.

Burnaby manager Ken Howarth was one who sought additional proof. Victoria's display Saturday was impression enough: "We knew we would have to be at our best just to hold O'Keefes to a draw. But the way Victoria played, we didn't have a chance . . ," said Howarth.

The score flattered Burnaby. O'Keefes dominated play to such an extent that it would have been wise to test Burnaby goalie Carlo Cavallari for shell-shock after it was over. Unusually small for a goalie, Cavallari had no chance on the goals that beat him and, indeed, was fortunate to keep the score from mounting. To add to his woes, Cavallari suffered a hand injury while diving to prevent Victoria's third goal.

IKE POPS PAIR

Centre forward Ike MacKay scored two goals, including one on a penalty shot, while Russ Ball and halfback Pete Robarts added the others.

Victoria scored two goals in each half. High winds that obviously troubled Burnaby in the second half didn't seem to affect O'Keefes when they faced the breeze.

Victoria goalkeeper Kjeld Brodsgaard recorded his second straight shutout at home. He had no difficulty in doing so. Burnaby managed less than five dangerous chances throughout the game, providing good indication of Victoria's improving defence.

O'Keefes gave up 14 goals in their first five games but have allowed only two in the past three starts.

WESTWATER SCORES

Quite obviously, O'Keefes didn't miss winger Marty Taylor or halfback Tom Westwater, both of whom were given their release the previous week. Both Taylor and Westwater proved helpful to Victoria's cause, however, as they helped New Westminster to a 2-1 upset of UBC in another Saturday game at Vancouver.

Both played well and Westwater counted one of the Westminster goals. Jack Perri scored Royals' other to offset Harvey Thom's counter as UBC was thwarted in its bid to pull ahead.

The Firefighters didn't flub their chance to improve, however. As expected, the undefeated Firemen tramped on winless Croatia, 5-0, in Sunday's only game to pull three points ahead of the Thunderbirds.

Firefighters dominated the game and led 3-0 at halftime on goals by Normie McLeod, Jim Blundell and Cheung Chi-doy. Croatia had an equal share of play in the second half but Firefighters got two more goals from McLeod and Blundell for the easy victory before 1,000 fans.

District Leaders Sent a-Tumbling

The leaders came a-tumbling in the Victoria and District Soccer League on Sunday.

Gorge Molsons tripped Victoria West 4-2 in the first division while Cosmos Royals handed Watson Hotspurs their first setback in the second division, 5-2.

Rick Lamoureux, a standout with Mount View Hornets, the city high school champions, sparked Gorge's victory by scoring three goals. The win moved Molsons into a first-place tie with the previously-undefeated Wests.

Hourigan Kickers edged winless Red Lions 3-2 while Tally-Ho and Canadian Scottish played to a 2-2 draw in other first-division action at the weekend.

Bill Hamilton's penalty kick with less than two minutes remaining Saturday helped Tally-Ho to its surprising draw with the unbeaten Scots.

Tough Hornets Handed Scare

The tough and unbeaten Chew Excavating Hornets picked off Sunday's two points but Oak Bay's Farmer Construction team, looking ahead to the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League playoffs, can claim a moral victory.

The Hornets completed their undefeated season, but not without fright. Farmers saw to that.

Hornets needed a fourth-quarter touchdown to put down Oak Bay, 8-7, at Glanford Park. In Sunday's other schedule-ender, James Bay Mustangs trampled last-place Nanaimo, 43-12.

POINTS DECIDE

Oak Bay and Cowichan Timbermen both finished the season with six points. The point spread of the teams in their meetings this season solves the third-place deadlock. Cowichan gets third place and Oak Bay fourth for playoff purposes.

That means Cowichan faces the Hornets while Mustangs go against Farmers in next Sunday's sudden-death semi-finals.

The combined talents of Dave Granlin, Mike Herold and Les Hudson helped Hornets to pull out victory in a brilliant battle of defences. Such was the defensive work that the teams were forced to boot a total of 20 punts.

Granlin scored Hornets' first point with a single in the second quarter. Oak Bay went ahead on a touchdown by Steven Saunders, converted when Terry Karpiuk passed to Pat Grove.

BIG RUN HELPS

It remained 7-1 until midway in the final quarter. A fine, 65-yard by Herold—back in action after missing three games because of an injury—put Hornets into touchdown range. They completed the march when Granlin tossed an 11-yard pass to Hudson. Granlin then kicked the convert for the winning point.

Rough play marred the Mustang-Nanaimo game, although there was nothing at stake. Three Nanaimo players had to be rushed to Royal Jubilee hospital because of neck or shoulder injuries.

Otherwise, it was a great day for Mustang backs John Howe and Jack Clarkson. Each scored three touchdowns. In addition, Howe made it a 23-point day by kicking two singles and three converts. A safety touch completed James Bay's scoring.

Quarterback Kurt Miller, a standout for Nanaimo, scored both Ram majors.

Driving gloves are made to last as long as all those family cars that can't take the family after two years. You know, the ones you see in every used car lot in town.

If you're looking there for a Corona, don't bother. You won't find one till 1971 maybe.

Because Corona is built to take the tough life. The 90 horsepower oversquare engine does zero to 40,000 easily. Cruises at 80 all day. And won't get you pushed into the 'Slow vehicles keep right' lane going uphill. Unlike some imports we can name.

Just because Corona is built to take the rough life doesn't mean you have to rough it. Corona is thickly carpeted. The vinyl bucket seats recline fully. Three-point seat belts, padded dash and an optional automatic are all part of the soft life inside a Corona.

There's more. Smooth syncromesh four-on-the-floor. Quad headlights. Two-speed wipers. Emergency flashers all make life a little easier. All at no extra cost.

If replacing your driving gloves is a major repair, you must be driving a Corona too.

Hornets Put Nanaimo Back Into Rugby Scene

Oak Bay Wanderers took a grip on first place in the Victoria Rugby Union's premier division with a hold that felt quite convincing to James Bay Saturday.

Wanderers downed James Bay 33-3 to move two points ahead of University of Victoria Vikings. In the only other scheduled league match, Cowichan roared back from a 6-0 deficit to tie Castaways 6-6 Sunday.

Dick Day, with a try, and Dave Clarke, with a penalty goal, put Castaways into the lead in the first half. Cowichan equalized on a try by Kevin McCallum and Dave Rose's penalty kick.

Wanderers clearly had their own way Saturday. Bob Hissink (two trys) and Don Burgess (convert and penalty goal) sparked Oak Bay's point spree. Lin Paterson, Daryl Noulette, Don Panton, Bruce Clark and Jim Temple scored single tries while Bob Panton added a drop goal.

Bernie Sinclair's try accounted for James Bay's only points.

Otherwise, exhibitions made it a busy weekend. Highlighting the exhibition activity was the first organized outing by a Nanaimo rugby team in more than two decades.

Vikings defeated Nanaimo's first division Hornets 52-8 as a four players—Ken Neufold, Alan Morton, Mike Eckhardt and Mike Elcock—accounted for all the Uvic points. Oak Bay blanked Nanaimo's second-division team 29-0 in Sunday's other exhibition.

The busy Vikings also blanked Vancouver Trojans 3-0 on Don Manning's first-half try in an exhibition Saturday. UBC's second-division team humbled Uvic's Saxons 24-6 as Dan Williams erupted for four trys.

Uvic's second team, Norsemen, increased its lead atop the second division by lashing second-place James Bay Barbarians 32-8. Reg Hoole scored four trys for Norsemen while Rich Cane added three.

CANADA DRAFT LONG WAY OFF

MONTREAL (CP) — State Secretary Gerard Pelletier said Sunday night he is interested in the idea of drafting young people for peaceful work in Canada because it could provide them "with the occasion to do something for their country."

But he said the implementation of the idea, if it ever happens belongs to the distant future.

Answering questions by telephone on the CBC Radio program Cross-Country Checkup, Mr. Pelletier repeated what he said when he put the idea forward in a Montreal speech last Monday.

If such a draft were in effect, young people could be summoned to "a year of civic service devoted to peaceful ends."

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons last week the idea of a youth draft is "very imaginative" but the government has not yet given it any consideration.

Television to Stay Under Federal Rule

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier said Sunday the Canadian Constitution would have to be amended to permit the establishment of Radio-Quebec, a Quebec-backed educational TV project, and that the federal government was not prepared to undertake such an amendment.

Speaking on a public affairs program on the French-language network of the CBC, Mr. Pelletier said the federal government would retain the exclusive right to educational television programming.

The secretary of state said private institutions could be granted rights in the educational TV field but not provincial governments.

"Suppose we grant permits to provincial governments," Mr. Pelletier said, "then in Alberta, for example, Premier Manning, a sincere believer in the Social Credit theory, could decide to provide two hours a day of political education on television, and then broadcast exclusively Social Credit doctrine.

"There has to be a final authority to determine when television is educational and when it is not, and we submit that this authority, according to the Canadian constitution, belongs to the federal government."

SEEKS A PERMIT

The Quebec government has asked the federal government for a broadcasting permit which would enable the province to establish Radio-Quebec, a government-controlled educational TV network.

Mr. Pelletier added that during the current session the government would introduce legislation for the creation of a federal agency in charge of educational TV in all Canadian provinces.

Quebec Language Coercion Under Fire

RYAN
. . . human rights

QUEBEC (CP) — Coercive integration of immigrants into Quebec's French-language community would be the negation of a basic human right, says Claude Ryan, publisher of Montreal Le Devoir.

Mr. Ryan told a conference on human rights here during the weekend the state has no right to impose the language and culture of the majority on those arriving from foreign countries.

He said, however, that each race at a given moment in history must decide on the "means it can take, without violating the rights of others, to assure its future."

A harmonious arrangement with regard to language in Canada could be achieved through application of three basic principles of the royal commission report on bilingualism and biculturalism:

—Rejection of ethnic origin and race as a means of classification.

—Official recognition of two official languages and linguistic and cultural communities, with the goal of reassuring each a reasonable equality in practice.

—The right of each citizen to opt for one or other of the two official cultures or languages.

Mr. Ryan said a Quebec charter of human rights would probably be the most judicious way of solving the language debate so that French-Quebecers might continue to progress, while giving new-Quebecers freedom to integrate into their choice of the two language groups.

Provincial Secretary Remi Paul told the 180 conference delegates, representing 150 associations, that discrimination is overtly practised in Quebec.

He said, however, the provincial government is working to create a better climate for the free exercise of human rights, notably through the parliamentary committee on the constitution.

A lack of provincial legislation against discriminatory practices would be partially remedied by the creation of an ombudsman.

A judiciary committee was also studying plans for a provincial declaration of human rights.

$100 grows to $250 with Canada Savings Bonds

$250 for each $100. That's what you can get with this year's Canada Savings Bonds. Here's how.

The new Bonds have fourteen regular annual interest coupons which can be cashed each year as they come due. The first pays 5.75%; the second, 6.50%; the next three, 6.75% each, and the last nine a big 7.00% each. Total regular annual interest amounts to $95.50 on each $100 Bond.

If you choose you may hold all these regular annual interest coupons uncashed until your Bond matures. If you do, you will then get interest on your interest totalling an additional $54.50 on each $100 Bond.

At maturity, therefore, you can get back total interest of $150 plus your original $100 investment. This way each $100 Canada Savings Bond becomes worth $250. Other denominations can grow at the same exciting rate.

Adults, children, businesses and institutions—all may buy Canada Savings Bonds. They are available in convenient amounts of $50 up to $50,000 for cash or on instalments, wherever you work, bank or invest. Conservatory Big, Complex But Pursuing Primary Aim

By BERYL PROUDMAN

The Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto—despite its complexity and size—remains firstly a school of music, acting principal Dr. David Ouchterlony said here Saturday.

"And as such its primary aim is to establish and maintain high levels of musical achievement in all students associated with it," he said.

Dr. Ouchterlony is on a goodwill tour of Canadian cities and spent a busy day in Victoria addressing and listening to music teachers, parents and students.

His visit went a long way toward eradicating the impression that the conservatory is primarily a many-tentacled examining body controlled from "far-off" Toronto; and that policies worked out from that intellectual eminence are imposed arbitrarily on the country.

Dr. Ouchterlony stressed the importance of teachers in all regions.

"You would be surprised," he said, "how many of the most successful improvements incorporated into our syllabus are suggested by teachers whose dissatisfactiion with the existing system led them to write to Toronto suggesting emendations."

MONTREAL CHEERED

Further changes will soon be added to the newly-revised syllabus. By the end of 1969, theory examinations will also be conducted in French.

"This may force some of us to brush up on our French," said Dr. Ouchterlony, "but it certainly raised a cheer in Montreal when we announced it there."

Brass and woodwind teachers were pleased to hear that by the same date examinations for less advanced students will be available.

As a former examiner, he defended that band of dedicated specialists feelingly.

To remain unbiased, he explained, an examiner must regard each performance as a single occasion and no knowledge of particular situations or extenuating circumstances must be allowed to cloud his assessment or the standard will not be maintained.

Examinations, he felt, as temporary goals and challenging hurdles, are useful and satisfying but too great an emphasis on examinations will stultify musical development in a student.

Challenged to defend a marking system which grades students by numbers, Dr. Ouchterlony pointed out that this system, although not completely satisfactory, is the only one at present acceptable to a society in which schools and other assessing institutions depend on numerical distinctions to grade students.

Having given local music teachers a chance to challenge policies of the conservatory, Dr. Ouchterlony left local music teachers happy in a renewed faith in a central school of music which had served them faithfully for so long.

He did not leave empty-handed. After expressing admiration of the standard of performance at the student recital presented in the afternoon by the Victoria Conservatory of Music, he returned to Toronto determined to institute similar regular recitals there.

Singing Winners

HAMILTON (CP) — Two barber shop quartets from Illinois won the top awards of the ninth annual Harmony Incorporated convention Saturday. The Quad-ra-tones from Moline won the quartet competition and the Valley Bells from Elgin took first place in that chorus event. Hannah Zavitz of Hamilton was elected president of the international group. A total of 875 female barber shop singers from Canada and the United States took part in the four-day competitions.

Cribbens At the Movies

THE DETECTIVE
Frank Sinatra
Royal Theatre

Frank Sinatra gives a superb performance as a city detective who might have been happier as a missionary.

He feels deeply for the miscreants he pursues and sees many of them as products of an imperfect social system. Whether you agree with him or not, Sinatra gives depth to the role of a homicide investigator whose simplistic sociology is aggravated by a worrisome conscience.

Although the background is generally sordid, the tone of the story, based on a novel by Roderick Throp, is highly moralistic.

Sinatra, as the hottest homicide man on the New York police squad, is assigned to the mutilation murder of a homosexual. He makes the rounds of various homosexual hangouts including a waterfront-trailer-truck, an unsavory night club and a weight-lifting gymnasium.

At a beach rooming house, he grabs the chief suspect (Tony Musante), gains his confidence by friendly methods and extracts a confession.

Musante goes to the electric chair and, ever after, the detective is tortured by the knowledge he condemned a helpless psychotic caught in a web of circumstance.

Sinatra's wife (Lee Remick) causes further mental complications. She is a nymphomaniac and their tenuous relationship is entwined with the detective's deepening concern over job.

Miss Remick, unfortunately, is far from convincing in this role and the role itself adds little to the story.

After they separate, Sinatra is inveigled by an attractive Englishwoman (Jacqueline Bisset) into investigating the death of her husband, listed by police as a suicide.

The subtle but uneasy relationship that develops between them is shot through with sudden death, larceny and corruption in high places.

And the fate of the tired, harried man who tries to be a "good cop" overshadows all.

There's a New Flower Child Amid the Pasadena Roses

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

CAMPBELL RIVER—Whatever happened to Jimmie King?

That question has been asked a thousand times in Campbell River this year.

Jimmie is a local Indian carver who left here last December in a "psychedelic" bus with a pair of American hippies, Peter and Jean Kradnakovich. They had acted as agents for a Californian who paid their way here to collect Indian carvings for her private gallery in Santa Monica

They commissioned Jimmie to carve a 10-foot totem pole but after a $200 down payment and two months of patient waiting Peter and Jean still couldn't motivate Jimmie. In desperation they bundled him and the unfinished pole into their bus and headed for California.

Three seasons have come and gone since then and it's strange that he hasn't returned. An Indian is deeply rooted in his own territory.

Jimmie was this town's favorite character ... as much at home in the local pub as in the church choir where his enthusiastic singing drowned out the rest of them.

Life was always on Jimmie's terms and he lived it to the hilt.

JIMMIE
... he's missed

•

A phone call to Mrs. M. Gallas, the gallery owner, revealed that he had stayed with her for two months while completing the pole in her garden. When it was finished she invited 250 guests to the totem pole dedication.

Jimmie explained to the gathering that no [illegible] but an Indian could own a totem pole so it was necessary to adopt the Gallas family into the Kwakiutl tribe.

Mrs. Gallas said she once took Jimmie to the Primitive Art Gallery in Beverley Hills and introduced him to the learned art dealer and curator of the museum, Harry Franklyn.

Franklyn was eager to show Jimmie a book which had been printed on an important collection of North American Indian crafts and artifacts.

As they were leafing through the book Jimmie spotted photographs of his own carvings.

•

"Oh," said Jimmie casually, "I wondered where that stuff had got to."

Jimmie isn't much of a carver so its ironic that his work appears in the book. He's primarily a character who carves when it's convenient.

There's a totem pole on the way into town which sums up Jimmie's free-wheeling craftsmanship. There it stands with an ear hanging half off on one of the animal symbols.

At the time it was carved he'd forgotten to include ears but that disn't bother him. He just nailed them on later.

And that's Jimmie ... always on his terms and always with the last laugh.

•

His Indian friends here think his free trip is a great joke. One Indian mother confessed that whenever her children misbehave she threatens them by saying: "Either you kids be good or I'm leaving town on the next hippie bus!"

Mrs. Gallas said that Jimmie eventually moved from her place and went to Pasadena.

The head tap-man at the local hotel, Harry Tuffley, aptly summed it up: "Well, if old Jimmie is doing the same things down there as he did around here he'll be having a heck of a good time."

Nanaimo Man Nominated For Hero Award

Nanaimo truck driver William Joseph Hydes, credited with saving the life of a man in an early-morning fire May 1, has been nominated for the Dunlop National Truck Hero Award, it was announced today.

A driver for Canadian Pacific Merchandise service, he entered the burning Nanaimo house where Allen Thompson was sleeping, awakend him and warned him to get out.

He continued a search of the house but was unable to reach the the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Webb, the couple died in the fire.

The 1967 award was won by another Nanaimo driver for the same company, Ronald Stewart Young. He saved a railroad worker from a burning bunk car on a siding near Coombs.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI — More than 4,000 signature have been collected here and from other Vancouver Island points to petition the federal government for cheaper rates on the provincial government's ferries.

The petition argues that Ottawa should subsidize the Horseshoe Bay-Nanaimo ferry on the grounds that it forms a link in the Trans-Canada Highway.

* * *

DUNCAN — RCMP are investigating the disappearance of $500 from a locked wooden box in the home of August Barz, 80, who lives alone on Glenora Road.

Thieves apparently entered the house through a window after first cutting the telephone wires, police said.

Mr. Barz said he didn't hear any disturbance because he always turns his hearing aid off when he goes to bed.

* * *

PORT HARDY — Plans for construction of a new fire hall at Port Hardy are now being surveyed by municipal building inspector Bruce Lindesay.

The municipality has released $26,000 to the municipal protection services committee for construction of the fire hall and $5,000 for a down payment on a new fire truck.

Rescuers Face Grilling On Cold Fish Lake Snafu

COMOX (CP) — The saga of Cold Fish Lake continued Sunday with 11 rescuers still awaiting rescue as a result of a series of freakish accidents which grounded two planes attempting to reach a third.

Fifteen days after a fixed-wing Albatross amphibian smashed a propeller in a takeoff from the lake, with the bodies of two Wenatcheee men aboard, efforts to reach the lake have been plagued with trouble. The lake is 630 miles north of Vancouver.

A Labrador helicopter was sent to rescue the crew of the Albatross and bring out the bodies of Merrill Rose and Ralph Hobson, whose Cessna crashed at the lake Oct. 17.

The helicopter crashed when an engine failed, but there were no injuries.

Repair crews managed to patch up the Albatross sufficiently to fly it to Watson Lake, 120 miles south of the Yukon border, where a new engine is being installed.

The bodies of the two men were flown out in a Beaver aircraft, leaving behind the 11 Albatross crewmen and rescuers from the helicopter.

A second Labrador helicopter which will be used to rescue the party was still "in the shop" Sunday for a routine check.

The spokesman said the helicopter should be ready to make the trip today and probably would carry a board of inquiry to investigate the chain of events.

PM Afraid Of Him, Says Douglas

HANEY (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, Saturday acused Prime Minister Trudeau of unnecessary delay in setting a date for a byelection in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands.

Mr. Douglas, who is contesting the seat left vacant by the death of New Democrat Colin Cameron, said 80,000 persons in the Vancouver Island constituency are being denied representation in the House of Commons.

He suggested to a meeting here of the Fraser Valley West NDP Association the reason for the delay is that the prime minister is afraid to have him (Douglas) in the Commons.

Mr. Douglas was defeated in the June 25 federal election by Liberal Ray Perrault.

'Dragging Feet' On Flood Control

DUNCAN — Provincial and municipal governments are "dragging their feet" in providing funds for flood controls in the Cowichan area, Ross Modeste, Cowichan band manager, said today.

Mr. Modeste made the statement following earlier reassurance by British Columbia Indian commissioner J. V. Boys that the federal government has had funds available for three years for the purpose.

"Each year some of our land is lost to erosion and families have to be moved," Mr. Modeste said.

Four families were moved last year to the Indian recreation centre in Duncan. No claims for compensation had been applied for and "their homes were a mess to go back to".

Somenos Twins Win 4-H Club Awards

DUNCAN — Alison and Sylvia Mayer, 18-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Mayer, Somenos, won the Scott and Peden Cup for the highest achievements for the year at the annual banquet of Cowichan Jersey 4-H Club.

They also won the B.C. Hydro trophy for the highest marks in the Cowichan-Cobble Hill district.

Sylvia won the Imperial Bank of Commerce gold watch and the Cowichan Creamery Cup for the best aggregate score at the annual field day, and the Handen Cup for the best yearling heifer.

HONOR PINS

Alison won the Cowichan Leader award for stock judging and the Gulmarg Cup for combined achievement and Cowichan Exhibition showing. The twins were also presented with honor club pins for three years as junior leaders in 4-H work and awards in all senior skills.

Peter Boll, 10, took home the Rosedale Cup for the youngest member.

Other awards: Auchinachie Cup for best intermediate showman, Debra Myhrae; Somenos W. I. prize for best record book, Dagmar Roemer; Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce Rosebowl for highest marks in all fair classes, Karen Ottosen; Hoard's Dairymen prize for improvement, Kathy Burnside.

'Barefoot When They Desire'

CLINTON, N.Y. (AP) — "Should women be kept barefoot, pregnant and in the kitchen?"

That was the question debated here last week by two students at all-male Hamilton College and two co-eds from Hamilton's new sister school, Kirkland College.

The middle aisle of Hamilton's science auditorium served as the dividing line for about 250 students serving as judges, with Hamilton's men outnumbering Kirkland's women by about 7 to 5.

Robert Linder, arguing the affirmative, said women were created second and should stay second.

Co-ed Gannet Horsman countered: "Wives should be companions and not cooks and baby machines . . . Conversation is necessary in marriage."

The compromise conclusion on the worth of women, by voice vote:

"Women should be pregnant when they want, barefoot when they desire and in the bedroom when they choose, rather than in the kitchen."

J. S. Atkinson Toronto Star Chairman Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph S. Atkinson, chairman of the board of Toronto Star Ltd., died at his home Sunday, He was 64.

Mr. Atkinson became chairman of the board of The Star, Canada's largest daily newspaper, in 1966 after nine years as president and publisher.

He underwent surgery at Toronto General Hospital last February for a brain tumor. After what appeared to be a favorable recovery at home through the summer, he was confined to bed again in October by recurrence of his illness.

He was the son of Joseph E. Atkinson, who raised The Star from infancy to national prominence before his death in 1948.

The younger Atkinson was first married to Catherine Cringan, who died in 1960. In November, 1967, he married Elaine Margaret Ellen Barrett, 23, of Footes Bay, Ont. who had been a secretary at The Star.

Mrs. Ruth Atkinson Hindmarsh his sister and a director of The Star, and a daughter, Catherine Elizabeth Betsy, Mrs. J. G. Crang Jr., also survive.

He started his career in the production department, where he became manager for 28 years. He organized the newspaper's production department and one of its first developments as an automated mailing room system now used by many large newspapers. The key part of the system was a machine that automatically bundled newspapers and tied them with wire.

Under his leadership, the newspaper installed the first color rotogravure press in Canada and the second in North America. He started experimenting with ink making in 1937 and the newspaper now make all its own ink.

Before his death in 1948, Joseph E. Atkinson established the Atkinson Charitable Foundation and left it most of his estate, including his majority interest in The Star. But a year later, the Ontario legislature enacted the Charitable Gifts Act which provided that no charitable foundation could own more than 10 per cent of any business operated for profit.

This effectively prevented the transfer of the ownership of the Star newspapers to the Atkinson Foundation. Future ownership of The Star was uncertain for the next 10 years, while J. S. Atkinson was chairman and Mr. Hindmarsh was president.

When he was elected president in 1957 after the death of Mr. Hindmarsh, the younger Atkinson worked out a plan under which the firm would be operated by people dedicated to his father's beliefs.

In 1957, the Ontario Supreme Court approved sale of The Star to a gruup headed by Mr. Atkinson, his sister, Harry Hindmarsh, W. J. Campbell, Beland Honderich and Dr. B. M. Thall.

The sale involved considerations totalling $25,555,021 and was the highest price paid for a Canadian newspaper up to that time.

Minority Rights Are Inviolable

CALGARY (CP) — Minority groups have a right to demonstrate but they don't have a right to demand action until they have persuaded a majority, federal Agriculture Minister H. A. (Bud) Olson said Saturday.

Mr. Olson, keynote speaker at a banquet which closed the two-day annual meeting of the Liberal Association of Alberta, said protest has a way of escalating until it becomes violence unless some efforts are made to meet with the people concerned.

"All that is needed in most cases is to provide people a chance to get things off their chest and let them know they are being heard," he said.

At a noon luncheon, Dr. Pat McGeer, the party's British Columbia leader, said the value of Canada's human resources may be the only thing to keep it competitive with other countries in the future.

"The relative value of natural resources and skilled human beings is going to shift dramatically in Canada," he said. "Eventually the only resource that is really valuable may be a well-educated population."

Dr. McGeer said Canada is finding that competition from underdeveloped areas is increasing to such an extent that "it is going to become more difficult to grow rich simply by controlling high-grade resources."

On the political front, Dr. McGeer announced plans for "the greatest dialogue which has ever taken place between a political party and the people of our province."

He said the B.C. Liberals have undertaken a program involving people in policy discussions throughout the province through mini-conventions and have started a talent hunt for future candidates.

This whole process will culminate in a general convention to distill the policy suggestions and prepare a platform for the next general election, he said.

Underwater Photography Wins Awards

A local diver-photographer has increased an already imposing array of photography awards by nine.

Alan Hook, 32, 766 Hutchison, was the only Canadian to win a prize in the recent California Open Film Exposition. He competed with professional photographers in the event and took a bronze medal with his film "Sea Of Color" which was made in local waters.

Among other awards for the year are three medals — gold, silver and bronze — from the National Capital Underwater Film Exposition at Washington, D.C.

At a film festival in Toronto, Mr. Hook's color slides brought in two firsts and three seconds.

Mr. Hook recently estimated his awards at 70 to 75 medals.

Study Uncovers Savings In Cost of Building Homes

OTTAWA (CP) — A two-year study by the National Research Council shows that substantial savings can be made in the cost of houses if a few modifications are made in traditional building practices.

All of the modifications are within the minimum standards set for residential buildings in the national building code, the council said.

The study was made on two nearly-identical houses built in a housing development in suburban Ottawa with the co-operation of a private builder, Connelly Developments Ltd.

The first house was built with traditional techniques as part of the Glen Cairn subdivision development. A. T. Hansen, an NRC research officer, was in charge of cost accounting.

On-site construction cost of the three-bedroom wood frame bungalow was $10,586. Of this, 24 per cent represented labor costs, 74 per cent material costs and two per cent equipment rental.

Mr. Hansen said at one time it was commonly assumed that on-site labor costs amounted to 40 to 50 per cent of total construction costs.

His study of the conventionally-built house also found that total on-site construction costs represented about 59 per cent of the selling price, $18,000. The remaining 41 per cent of the selling price was made up of serviced land costs, profit, overhead, and various financial charges.

SEES AREA FOR STUDY

"The fact that the total on-site building cost of this house represented less than 60 per cent of the final selling price also leads one to speculate whether the items responsible for the remainder of the cost might not be a useful area for some future study," Mr. Hansen said.

In building the second house, a number of traditional practices were modified to conform more closely to the minimum standards required under the national building code. A saving of nearly $400 resulted, and the modifications did not significantly affect either the over-all equality or the appearance of the house.

Mr. Hansen said these savings would mean about $50.000 for a builder constructing 125 houses a year.

Some of the modifications were:

—Using polyethylene film under the basement slab instead of crushed rock.

—Pouring the footings without forms.

—Using four nails per shingle instead of six.

—Using three-eighths-inch oak instead of half-inch oak for flooring.

—Planning joists location and door framing to make more economical use of lumber.

March Dispersed

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The National Guard, firing shotguns and tear gas grenades, dispersed Sunday an Independent Day "liberation march" by university students protesting the military regime that took over three weeks ago. At least three students were treated for wounds caused by shotgun pellets or fragments from tear gas cannisters, but none was hurt seriously. About 200 were arrested.

Clashes Kill 11

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean troops killed 11 North Korean infiltrators and seized more than 30 weapons in clashes along the demilitarized zone and coastal lines during a three-day period through Sunday, the counterespionage command here announced. South Korean's lost four men.

Dief Wants Crime Rate Commission

CALGARY (CP) — Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said Sunday a royal commission involving both the federal and provincial govrnments should be formed to investigate the rising crime rate in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in an interview the commission should deal with "particular reference to the international nature of some of those operating in our cities."

The crime rate in Canada is increasing at a rate never before equalled and outstrips similar increases in the United States and Great Britain," he said.

PAULLEY
. . . re-elected

NDP Gift to Paulley Challenged by Rookie

WINNIPEG (CP) — Russ Paulley got a birthday gift of another year as leader from Manitoba New Democrats Sunday.

The 59-year-old veteran turned back a challenge by rookie MLA Sidney Green, polling 213 votes to 168.

It was the second time since he became leader in 1959 that he has had to fight for the job but it may be the last. He told delegates he may step down next year, recognizing the draft already evident for MP Ed Schreyer of Selkirk.

"One of the attributes of leadership is not to leave unprepared the candidate for future leadership," the retired railroader said in the nomination speech which he said turned the voing tide in his favor,

WILL SCHREYER RUN?

He has long made it apparent that he hopes Mr. Schreyer will succeed him although the young MP declined to give delegates an iron-clad promise that he would be available for the leadership next year.

Campaigning by candidates were restricted during the convention that devoted most of its time to a host of resolutions that make up party policy.

Delegates endorsed one motion that defined the party's ultimate goal as replacing "corporate capitalism as the engine of economic development with a socialist democracy comprised of co-operatively and publicly-owned enterprises."

The draft resolution was toned down after Mr. Green complained that reference to corporate capitalism was an emotional phrase.

Resolutions endorsing government-sponsored automobile insurance, an expanded medical care plan to cover drugs as well as specialized treatment and a voluntary pension plan for employees were approved.

SIDEWALK SUPERINTENDENTS come in bunches alongside Victoria West Elementary School these days to watch construction of long-delayed and badly-needed addition. New building is first of three phases to replace ancient school and will include an open teaching area for about 200 pupils when it is finished around Easter. Numerous public meetings protesting government school construction freeze last year finally got it under way at a cost of about $200,00. Second phase, which will see balance of old school's classrooms replaced has no starting date yet. Third phase, construction of a gymnasium, is still farther in the future.

Burglars Get $2,014 From Veterans' Club

Two Safes Hacked Open

A local veterans' club lost $2,014 to burglars who were seen making their get-away early Sunday.

The money was taken from two safes at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club at 1001 Wharf Street.

Janitor Charles Pool, reporting for work at 2:50 a.m., heard noises in the club canteen and opened the door just in time to see four men dash out the fire escape.

They fled through an alley to Fort Street.

The burglars had smashed open the canteen safe and removed the money.

They already had emptied the safe in the lower lounge.

AXE HAMMER

The thieves attacked the safes with an axe, sledgehammer and crowbar, literally beating their way into the money.

City police said entry was gained by climbing a fire escape on the north side of the building and removing the cover from a skylight.

Police later recovered a sledge-hammer, crow bar and some stockings from the side of Tyee Road.

BURGLARS WORKED HARD, wielding an axe and sledgehammer, to get at money in safes at Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club. President Stan Bell inspects empty safe in lounge which is heavily covered in fingerprint powder. Smaller safe in canteen also was raided. (Times photo.)

LIFE-LONG MUSIC-LOVER

Ex-Governor's Widow Succumbs Here at 93

Mrs. Quita Josephine March Nichol, widow of a former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, died at her home at 914 St. Charles Street Sunday at the age of 93.

Her husband, Walter Cameron Nichol, was lieutenant-governor from 1920 to 1926 and a former editor and publisher of The Province of Vancouver. He died in Victoria on Dec. 19, 1928.

Born at London, Ont., Mrs. Nichol was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Greenwood Moore of that city. After their marriage in London, Mr. and Mrs. Nichol came to live in Victoria in 1897.

VICTORIA PROVINCE

From 1897 to 1898, Mr. Nichol edited what was then the weekly Victoria Province. In 1898 he moved the paper to Vancouver and converted it into a daily publication.

They returned to Victoria in 1920, when Mr. Nichol was appointed lieutenant-governor, and lived at Government House until 1926.

During their term of office, Mrs. Nichol was actively interested in the IODE and the Girl Guides and this interest continued long after they left Government House.

A life-long music lover, Mrs. Nichol was closely associated with Victoria Symphony Orchestra and all musical arts in the city. She was herself a singer and pianist of talent.

Mr. Nichol was born at Goderich, Upper Canada, on Nov. 15, 1866 and educated at Hamilton, Ont. He joined the staff of The Hamilton Spectator in 1881 and the Toronto Star in 1883.

In 1887 he helped found Saturday Night in Toronto and served for a time as assistant editor. He edited the Hamilton Herald and the London News successively before moving to Victoria in 1897.

SOLD TO SOUTHAMS

Soon after his appointment as lieutenant-governor in 1920, he sold the Vancouver Province to the Southam Newspapers of Canada.

Mrs. Nichol is survived by their daughter, Mrs. T. A. Walters of Victoria, and four grandchildren. They are Senator John L. Nichol, Vancouver; Cdr. D. N. Mainguy, RCN, now serving overseas with NATO forces; C. D. Mainguy, Montreal; and Mrs. R. A. Longmore, Brampton, Ont.

Funeral services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral Tuesday at 3 p.m. and will be attended by B.C. representatives of the IODE.

Four City Groups Honing For 'Education Openhouse'

Four groups interested in education will have a chance to air their views Tuesday when the Greater Victoria school board holds an "Education Openhouse."

Trustees have invited the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, the Education Action committee, a committee formed after the Education '68 conference earlier this year and a co-operative committee of school board members and teachers.

The public meeting will be in the board room of the Paul Building and starts at 8 p.m.

Taxes! They're Wonderful

There's one happy taxpayer in Victoria today.

His name is E. Fred Greenshields and the tax he's happy about paying is to Montreal.

At the weekend Mr. Greenshields, 1466 Dallas, received a telegram from Montreal's Mayor Jean Drapeau saying the Victorian is one of 151 Canadians eligible to win up to $100,000 in silver ingots.

It is Montreal's sixth voluntary tax draw and the second time the 68-year-old Mr. Greenshields has sent in his contribution.

"I think it's a good thing—it's only two bucks and it's tax deductible."

He also thinks it's a good thing because he spent the first 65 years of his life there and "I'm tickled pink" at the chance to get back.

At Montreal's expense, Mr. Greenshields and the other winners will be flown down to meet the mayor and see the draw Sunday.

He will win at least $100 in silver ingots of the total $150,000 up for grabs. There are also prizes of $500 and $1,000.

"You've got to give that Drapeau credit. He's the outstanding mayor in Canada," said Mr. Greenshields, who retired from a printing ink business in Montreal three years ago and moved here with his wife.

A fisherman "without much success," he said the first thing he would do with one of the big prizes is "get a decent boat."

He said he intends to keep paying the $2 monthly tax.

"I can afford that," he said, adding "it's closer to home than the Irish Sweepstakes.

"I'm on cloud nine."

Mr. Greenshields and Agnes Magousky of Ladysmith are among nine British Columbians who had tickets drawn.

OFFER CONSIDERED BY ELECTRICIANS

Electricians on Vancouver Island held simultaneous meetings in Victoria and Parksville Sunday to consider a contract offer after seven months of negotiations.

But whether members of Local 230 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers voted for settlement will not be announced until members of the Electrical Contractors' Association have been advised.

Assistant business manager Daryl Gorrill said the union will make an announcement sometime this week.

Many electricians on the Island walked off the job last Wednesday in a one-day protest over the length of negotiations. The contract offer considered at Sunday's meetings followed two days of negotiation ending Friday.

The basic issue in the dispute is wages. Island electricians want parity with Vancouver union members who now get $5.20 an hour. The Island rate is currently $4.52 an hour.

The Island local is the only one of six in B.C. which has not signed a contract. Their agreement expired last March.

3 HOURS OF CRITICISM

Uvic Go-Round Gets Off Track

By ALAN WHITE

A forum discussion on university change Sunday brought out three hours of general criticism of institutions and the people in them.

Somewhere along the line of discussion, specific proposals for changing the University of Victoria got waylaid.

A fluctuating audience of up to 120 persons sat in a circle in the Student Union Building and asked each other questions, arguing over the answers.

Several expressed dissatisfaction with the way the topic was shunted aside for generalities about political systems and changing them.

The forum began with a talk by Uvic philosophy instruct[illegible] P. Graff on proposals made in a brief by Frank Frketich, president of the students' council.

The ideal university facutly should teach only what the students wanted to learn at any one time, Mr. Graff said.

FREE FACULTY

Uvic could set a North American precedent by setting up a free school on campus for instruction in what the students requested. The university could also "break new ground" by setting up a free faculty so students could set up their own courses and pick their own professors.

In answer to a question by Ronald Jeffels, dean of college and student affairs, a student suggested such a free learning system could supply vocational instruction for those who wanted training for a job.

The discussion then diverted to criticism of the ideal of going to university for a better job and higher pay.

John Conway, vice-president of the students' council during the strikes and sit-ins at Simon Fraser University, arrived from Vancouver during the discussion and gave a breakdown of the Uvic brief.

The set of proposals asks for parity with faculty for students and a changed structure at Uvic. But it should make demands that cannot be met by the system and therby force it to change.

That is "revolutionary reformism," said Mr. Conway, a Ph. D. student in sociology at SFU.

The brief was [illegible] power for students but was not dealing with what would be done with that power, he told the audience.

Students now need a "manifesto on intellectual freedom" to protect them from the "arbitrary" power of faculty and university administrators.

EQUALITY DRIVE

Later he told the group the student revolution was trying to gain equality in running the universities.

They are public institutions and the students are part of the public, he said, therefore they should share in running them.

"I have as much right as the president to run it."

A student challenged Mr. Conway, saying to gain these "freedoms" he would have to buy himself in a mass movement to fight for power, losing what freedoms he had.

But Mr. Conway told him individualism was a myth and he was already part of the mass. The mass must organize to struggle for power, he said.

Later he told a questioner that the student sit-in at SFU last summer was not an act of force because they had a right to sit in a "public building." The only force was when the university called in the police to have them moved, he said.

Doctor Remanded To Wednesday On Drug Count

An American doctor charged with possession of goods unlawfully imported into the country was remanded again today to Wednesday when he appeared before Magistrate J. A. Byers in central court.

James Sutherland Watt of California, was represented by lawyer Lloyd McKenzie. No plea was entered and the Wednesday appearance is to elect a form of trial.

Watt was remanded on his own recognizance.

The charge against him stated the goods were 300 miligrams of LSD and 50 grams of mescaline. Today Crown prosecutor Cecil Branson asked that "milligrams" be changed to "ampoules" and "50 grams" be changed to "25."

Civil Servants Honor War Dead

Veterans, relatives and the public may attend the ceremony in honor of civil servants who lost their lives in the two world wars.

January 23 Set For Opening Of Legislature

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black today announced the legislative session will open at 3 p.m. Thursday, January 23.

The announcement ends speculation that tradition might be broken with a February opening for the third session of the 28th Parliament of British Columbia.

The speculation was touched off by Premier Bennett a few weeks ago when he said the heavy schedule of federal-provincial meetings this winter might force a delay in opening the session.

Mr. Bennett, at a federal-provincial meeting in Ottawa today with Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, will also attend a constitutional conference there next month.

The coming session will open with a vacant seat again.

The Burnaby-Willingdon seat held for the NDP by the late Frederick Vulliamy is not expected to be filled with a byelection call by Premier Bennett until after the session.

The Vancouver South vacancy caused by the death of Social Credit MLA Tom Bate last fall will be filled this time by Norman Levy, who took the seat for the NDP in an upset victory in the byelection Mr. Bennett called immediately after the last session prorogued.

Three Rookies Ready to Take Seats

Three other newcomers will take seats as a result of the trio of byelections during the summer: William King (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan); David Brousson (L—North Vancouver-Capilano), and Allan Cox (L—Oak Bay).

In addition, the session will see introduction of veteran MLA Pat McGeer as the new Liberal leader.

There is a slight possibility that two MLAs won't show up for the session, both Socreds.

Minister Without Portfolio P. A. Gaglardi at the party convention Saturday said he has not made any "commitment" to attend the session although he subsequently denied that meant he was leaving his post — and subsequent to that expressed a hope he could get a government job running B.C. Hydro.

Some doubt also revolves around former attorney-general Robert Bonner who has said he will continue sitting as MLA for Cariboo although his new job as vice-president of MacMillan-Bloedel Ltd. forced his resignation from the cabinet.

Mr. Bonner also had said he would attend the Social Credit convention as part of his MLA duties—in fact he was reported to have been assigned the job of introducing Premier Bennett for his keynote speech.

But he never showed up at any of the morning, afternoon and night convention sittings on either Friday or Saturday and delegates were told that company business had forced his unexpected absence.

But, if everyone turns up, there should be 32 Socreds, 16 NDP and six Liberal politicians answering the summons to Victoria to provide the government with funds for the next fiscal year and add more laws to the books.

First Billion-Plus Budget Coming

Premier Bennett already has revealed that the sessional highlights will include the first budget breaking $1 billion but some of the other developments expected are:

Reform of the liquor laws to permit at least Sunday drinking with dining room meals and possibly sale of beer and wine in grocery stores;

Funds allocated to help municipalities install sophisticated treatment plants at the secondary and tertiary levels with a possibility that primary treatment for sewage also would receive financial assistance.

Possible revamping of social welfare laws to provide more flexibility and discretion to field workers in allowing recipients to draw full payments even when earning some wages until properly established on the road to self-support;

At least a debate and probably some government legislation on the compulsory driver insurance recommended by the Wootton Royal Commission with some doubt surrounding the further recommendation that statutory prohibition against law suits be undertaken to introduce a "no-fault" system of self-insurance compensatis;

Possible creation of a new portfolio of "Youth Affairs" and elevation of one of the backbenchers to fill the post;

As well as the $1 per capita increase in municipal grants to help provide public ambulance services, a $25 million fund for special assistance to native Indians, replenishment and possible expansion of the $50,000 world relief fund which was reactivated this year after criticism in the legislature and establishment of further funds to help British Columbians obtain housing.

MISTRIAL DECLARED BY JUDGE

New Venue Coming For Murder Trial

The trial of two men charged with non-capital murder was declared a mistrial at the Assizes here today.

The jury of one woman and 11 men was dismissed and it is expected a new trial will be held in the New Year — possibly in Penticton or Vancouver.

Mr. Justice Wootton dismissed the jury after five days of evidence and argument because he said the best interests of justice would not be served by continuing the trial.

He ruled it a mistrial because of a statement made by a woman witness last Friday afternoon which, he said, could be prejudicial "to one or both of the accused."

The statement referred to the past record of Gary Hugh McWhirter, 24, who with Frederick James Morry, 28, was charged with killing hotel clerk William Bruce van Munster at Prospect Lake last March 15.

A partially mummified and decomposed body, found in the brush at Prospect Lake four months later, was alleged by the crown to be that of van Munster.

PACKED COURT

The trial ended abruptly at 11:30 a.m. in a courtroom packed with spectators.

Mr. Justice Wootton thanked the jury on its "close and careful attention" to the trial, which opened last Monday.

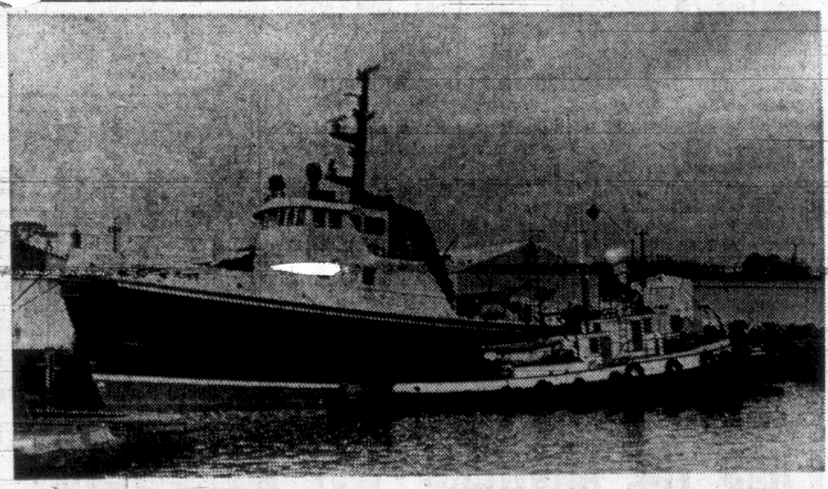
He upheld a motion by Dermod Owen-Flood, defence counsel for McWhirter, that the trial be declared a mistrial and discontinued.

"Something was said before you which I have concluded might be prejudicial to one or both of the accused," Mr. Justice Wootton told the jury. "You are therefore discharged from further attendance in this case."

All last week the jury heard evidence called by crown counsel Louis Lindholm to the effect that the decomposed body found at Prospect Lake was that of van Munster.

There were several interruptions by defence counsel Owen-Flood and Cecil Branson, appearing for Morry, that certain evidence was inadmissible.

The jury was excluded from the courtroom when these objections were heard.



TRYING TO STEAL a bit of limelight from big brother is Nitinat Chief, crowding against new pride of Island Tug and Barge fleet, Island King. New Tug Air-Conditioned

Island Tug and Barge has taken delivery of the first air-conditioned tug ever to sail in B.C. waters.

Called Island King, the vessel is an imposing 132 feet long, with a 32-foot beam.

The vessel was built by Star Shipyards in New Westminster at a cost of about $1.25 million and features just about every electronic device available.

Completely automated, the Island King will crew seven men normally, peaking to about 14 for major jobs.

It has a cruising capacity of about 50 days and can be used either locally or in trans-ocean jobs.

Among innovations is a water converter, allowing the vessel to make its own fresh water from the ocean.

For comfort, the Island King must be called the Buckingham Palace of tug boats.

Normally every member of the crew, from captain down will have his own cabin. The vessel has been designed to provide maximum space both for crew and for working.

The dining area is complete with a built-in stereo that will play music of your choice from a wide selection of tapes.

The Island King is powered by a 3,600 h.p. GM engine.

It has a speed of about 14 knots and will be used for barge towing.

The addition of the vessel is part of an expansion program currently under way at Island Tug.

Generation Gap Gets New Gauge

By PENNY SAVER

I discovered a new way to gauge the generation gap the other day. I was talking to a prospective grandmother. If I remember rightly (I hate keeping track of families, I'm so poor at it), this will be her first grandchild, and she is quite concerned at her daughter's attitude toward the imminent (December) birth. "I can't understand it," she told me. "Laura and Mike are going to Hawaii next week for a holiday then they plan to take a motor trip to the States. Laura is so unconcerned! After all, anything can happen with a first baby; it can be a month early or a month late. But they just don't seem to care. And, another thing. Laura bought some lovely wool months ago and started on some bootees. They came to visit me the other day and she had the same wool in the same bag with the first bootee only started. And, she had a book to read which she read instead of knitting." Compared to the care and preparation this mother took for her first-born, Laura is negligent indeed, but as Laura's mother added, "I guess the baby will get clothes from somewhere."

There are a lot of "somewheres" a young mother can go to find the hand-knitted baby outfits that she once would have made herself. One place is a bazaar. At bazaars I have seen beautiful and reasonably priced sets made by knitters so expert and so experienced that they are now thinking up outfits for their great-grandchildren.

Another "somewhere" is the shop I visited a few days ago. Here you can walk in any day and pick up a hand-crafted baby shawl, the big lacy, intricate type that a knitter would hesitate to tackle unless she had years of needle twitching experience. These shawls are $16.95 each. They are made of the best quality wool and have been washed and blocked. White shawls are generally available already made up, but colors must be ordered.

The three-piece baby sets I saw in this shop were all $6.95. They go from infants sizes on up. Since these outfits are hand-knitted you can order any color and pattern you wish as long as you are willing to wait a reasonable time. I personally am always ready to let the skillful and enthusiastic do the job, instead of botching it myself.

Crocheted Cloths in White or Ecru

I became conscious of another generation gap while I was in this store. I saw some hand-crocheted tablecloths and realized, as I talked to the proprietor about them, that such cloths are completely foreign to me. A 72-inch-by-108-inch cloth is $41.95 and a 54 inch square cloth, $18.95 while there are smaller pieces, runners and such, beginning at $6.50. These lacy cloths are made from cotton, either in white or ecru. Considering the hours of work that must have gone into each one, not to mention the cost of the materials, I thought the prices were quite reasonable, but I will let my more experienced readers judge for themselves.

This shop also abounded with hand-knitted and crocheted articles of every sort—slippers, tea cozies and so forth—all of which can be bought already made-up or in the colors you specify. The variety of the articles suggested to me that this shop has a knitter who loves to knit so much that she never wants to stop.

If you would like to know where this shop is located, please call 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

At some time in their lives, most women have dreamed of becoming an actress, a dancer, an artist, a designer, a famous pianist or singer, a writer, or perhaps a front-page model. The urge to self-expression is strong, and women are naturally imaginative and creative.

Lowman

Then somehow it didn't work out that way, and the dreams of youth were pushed aside by the responsibilities of children and family life. Perhaps the dreams were not that ambitious. Maybe you just wanted to learn to play the piano or a steel guitar or thought it would be fun to try to sketch or play around with ceramics for your own pleasure.

There was probably the thought in the back of your mind that you would do some of these things when the children grew up and you had more leisure. Unfortunately, when that time arrives, women are often bewildered and bored with time on their hands, rather than grasping this new time with enthusiasm.

Why not do some of the things you always wanted to do? I think that old devil "age-consciousness" often rears its ugly and discouraging head at this point. A woman may think that it is silly for her to learn to play the violin at her age or that she would look like an idiot if she took dancing lessons or learned to swim. This is a great waste of happiness.

The impact of a new interest, or activating one you had long ago, is sheer magic in the way it can revitalize daily life for you. It doesn't matter what it is; whether learning to make hooked rugs or knit a sweater, learning to type or fly a kite. Just so long as you enjoy it and it adds new dimensions to your life, that is for you!

QUESTION:

Can water stains be removed from draperies?—Mrs. L. B.

Unfortunately it is practically impossible to remove water stains from draperies in drycleaning. If the fabric is washable then there is a much better chance of removing water stains. Regular drycleaning is important, however, to brighten colors and help prolong the life of your draperies.

Parents seem to specialize in saying "No", but they can be a source of useful information if you approach them correctly. "Most of us probably do not realize how much we can learn about life from talking about the experiences of other people," says Dr. Tom McGinnis. He suggests that young people should remember that their parents dated, too, and a look at the family scrapbook could lead to a better understanding of one's parents. (David Nance photo.)

DEAR ABBY . . .

Bride-to-Be Balks At Virginity Test

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is 25, has been going with a young lady of 24 for the last two years. They seem to get along very well (same religion) and he asked her to marry him. She accepted, but here's the problem. Our son wants his girl friend to be examined by a doctor to find out if she is a virgin. He says he wants to be sure she is before the wedding because if he finds out she isn't after the wedding, he will leave her at once.

The girl refuses to submit to this kind of examination, and our son says if she will not do so within the next 30 days he will drop her. All wedding plans are at a standstill now, and we don't know what to do. Is our son out of line, or is the girl?

MOTHER OF THE MAN

DEAR MOTHER: I would say your son is out of line. Like way out! His request is insulting, and if I were the girl I would have dropped him in 30 seconds.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and have always had a very good mother-daughter relationship, but we are now having our differences over a young man I have started dating and like very, very much.

First, let me explain that he is a very nice person, polite and all. I think I am lucky to be dating him. Well, last night my mother said, "How can you stand 'J.'? — His hands and fingernails are always filthy."

Abby, "J" is mechanically inclined and he works on his car a lot, so naturally his hands and fingernails are going to get dirty and greasy. But my mother refuses to accept that.

I don't think a fellow's fingernails are all that important, and I don't think it is my place to tell a 23-year-old man that his fingernails are dirty, do you? Please help me. I think a whole lot of this guy.

NEEDS HELP.

DEAR NEEDS: If you "think a whole lot of this guy," tell him that there are soaps on the market that will dissolve grease and grime from his hands and fingernails. If he's the right kind of fellow, he'll appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: Boy, did you ever give ST. LOUIS the right answer about twin beds! No man knows how rough it is to have seven kids in nine years. I am ready for twin BEDROOMS — never mind twin beds.

I love my husband, but enough is enough.

GUIDELINES FOR THE TEEN-AGE GIRL

Parents' Influence Felt in Dating

By DR. TOM McGINNIS

(Editor's Note—This report on teen-age boy-girl relationships is adapted from the book, "A Girl's Guide to Dating and Going Steady." The author is a well-known New Jersey psychotherapist and professor at New York University).

Did you realize that your parents are along with you when you date and go steady? Of course, I do not mean in body, but in spirit. When you date, you have with you many attitudes, suggestions, and warnings your parents have given you.

They play a bigger part in your dating than you suspect. For example, they probably encourage you to date, or discourage you. They can help you feel more confident about relating to boys by telling you about their own experiences and giving you some idea of the satisfactions or disappointments, pleasures and pains you may derive from your own dates. By their attitudes toward boys who call on you, they can aid or hinder you in developing stronger friendships. They can help you feel comfortable when you ask friends to your home, or their attitudes may make you tense and uneasy.

I strongly suggest to girls that they take advantage of their parents' advice and suggestions to help them achieve a greater success with boys. Probably no one else could help you as much to understand what dating is all about, what its purposes are, and what it can do for your overall development. To help you achieve this you need to understand them and they need to understand you.

YOUR PARENTS HELP

Let us consider why you should try to make use of what your parents have to give:

As a general rule, they care for your welfare more than anyone else. Not that they have all the answers. Like the rest of us they make errors in judgment, and their emotional difficulties may sometimes keep them from seeing straight. But it can be said that, in general, they have your best interest at heart. Above almost anything else, they would like to see you have happy relationships with boys, a happy marriage, and a happy family life.

They have a sharp sense of responsibility for you. Ever since you were born, they have been looking for ways to keep you from harm. They carefully kept you from playing with matches until you were old enough to realize that if you started a fire you might burn your house down, and yourself with it. They taught you to look both ways to make sure no cars were coming when crossing a street, and they probably held your hand to guide you until you could cross safely by yourself. They look at your dating in the same light and want to encourage you to achieve the best possible results with the fewest difficulties or disappointments.

They generally can see cause and effect better than you can. Thanks to their own experience in growing up, they know that serious dating problems develop in certain ways. Because of their concern for you, they try to keep you from situations which may lead to these problems.

Parents can help you steer clear of the pitfalls in dating. Most of us probably do not realize how much we can learn about life from talking about the experiences of other people. I hope your parents did their share of it, and still do, for the matter because by learning about other people — their trials and errors, their triumphs and defeats — we can develop our own understanding of how men and women made successes or failures. As a result, your parents probably know something of the intimate life stories of dozens of people.

Parents have a greater understanding of what adults say and think. Young people sometimes engage in activities harmless in themselves, but which look harmful to older people. This is not your problem alone, of course, and nobody likes to be criticized because other people misinterpret what they do. Yet it is a fact of life that people often are judged not for what they do, but for what they seem to be doing.

I know of a drive-in movie theatre that almost everyone calls a "passion pit" and a "mating ground." Many people may attend a drive-in to view the movie, but I think almost everyone seeing them entering the place — even other teen-agers — might conclude that their purpose is to find a place where anything goes. Parents would be aware that a girl going to such a drive-in with a date risks getting the reputation, deserved or not, of being somewhat too free.

Parents are not directly involved, hence can be more realistic. When girls and boys first date, I think the percentage may well be 90 per cent heart and 10 per cent mind. The romantic aspects — the joy of being close to a boy, of seeing a new part of yourself, experiencing emotions you were not fully aware of until now — all are very exciting. Less attention is paid to thinking things over in a calm, reasonable way. This is natural, and I do not criticize it.

But if this lack of balance exists, somebody must provide the head, the thinking part. Your parents' years of practical experience have told them that a union of hearts is not quite enough — that any relationship has to have something more to succeed.

Toronto Designer Says Canada's Fashion Industry Hampered by Timidity and Follow-the-Leader Trend

By PAT DUFOUR

Lack of confidence and reluctance to set its own style format are the two main reasons why Canada's fashion industry is dragging its feet in comparison to the rest of the world.

This is the conviction of Claire Haddad of Toronto who is in town this week.

She speaks with more than the usual amount of authority. She and Lydia Sperlich of Montreal are the only two Canadian designers to receive the Coty Award, the Oscars of American fashion. One of the creations which won her this honor at the Montreal showing in 1967 (a seductive little number that teams a circle-hem black velvet coat with a black-tie nightie and black tie tights) is destined to have its place in posterity. It will be kept in the Royal Ontario Museum.

BEGAN CAREER EARLY

Claire cut her teeth in the fashion industry. She was designing robes for her father's firm, Bard's, when she was 17. Her academic background includes studies at the Toronto College of Art, Toronto School of Design, the Ryerson Institute, New York's Fashion Academy and the Galasso School of Design in Toronto.

She's never left the industry. When she married her husband, Albert in 1964, she was marrying her future boss. They opened their own company, Claire Haddad Limited, in 1964. Albert is the firm's president and managing director, leaving Claire free to "dream up" loungewear and lingerie designs that have already earned Claire a place on fashion's podium.

Claire and Albert's decision to break into business on their own was triggered by Claire's determination to produce exciting styles and her conviction that Canadian women were ready for the exotic and beautiful.

CREATES NEW FABRIC

But, she admits that it's not the easiest thing in the world to produce new fabrics that will make a name for Canada in other markets. Her company has brought out a new fabric called logo, which is a 100 per-cent nylon arnel jersey. Light as a feather, it uses the feather motif in ravishing color combinations. The feather motif, the firm's trademark, is the work of one of Canada's leading fashion artists, Jean Miller of Toronto.

The obstacles came when Claire and her husband wanted yardage created in a Canadian mill. "Our mills are reluctant to take a chance, they prefer to copy well-established lines. We had to have 2,000 yards run off before we could even view one."

Born and raised in Toronto, Claire has one pressing dream, that of eventually producing all-Canadian garments that will place Canada on top of the fashion tree. "But," she admits, "as long as our mills are so timid about taking a chance, it's going to be difficult."

She also regrets the timidity shown by buyers, who also tend to stick with the proven "good sellers." She finds comfort in the fact that many younger buyers are now being appointed in large stores across the country.

As she says, her company's "shot in the dark paid off" but feels that if Canada is to become a leader in the fashion world a less haphazard program has to be initiated. She suggests one:

"I would like to see the government originate a fashion design and testing centre. We have many brilliant young minds in universities and I hate to see them all drifting off to the States. Encouraged and instructed by people like Jean Miller, they could become the future backbone of a thriving export industry."

*Meanwhile, Claire and Al*bert concentrate on producing creations that would be showstoppers on any fashion runway.

The Far Eastern influence is often seen in them. As Claire explains, "Although I'm a Canadian, my parents are both Lebanese and my love of the exotic spills over into anything I do."

DRAMATIC RESULTS

It spills beautifully. Typical of this Eastern elegance is an outfit that features a miditunic and uhurus. What are uhurus? Derived from the African word meaning "freedom," these are long feminine pants, tiered in fringe that carries the orange, brown and gold of the outfit's printed orlon.

Many of the coats that team up with her lingerie are dramatic enough to make the theatre scene. As a matter of fact Claire reports that they do. "I design on the adage that any outfit, to be good enough to wear around the house for the most important people in your life, should be elegant enough to at least make an important dinner date or dance."

To date, her charm bracelet has 11 charms on it, each representing an award she's received. Vogue and Time magazines have lauded her work, and the Women's Wear Daily (the Bible of the fashion industry) has recognized her in many editorials and features.

But the most important triumph for Claire is the fact that her designs have earned a place in the "tough" American market.

Her biggest ambition is to be able to share this privilege with many other Canadian designers, all of them setting Canada on the fashion map with garments made of Canadian-milled materials.

With drive and determination like Claire's, the groundwork for such a future may be already set.

UNIQUE SHOW AT PLAYHOUSE

Claire Haddad will be commentator when a showing of her latest leisure-time creations is given at the McPherson Playhouse Tuesday from 6:15 to 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be had by phoning Impacts 'n' Imports at 388-7023. Members of the Bastion Theatre Company will present songs and scenes from "School for Wives". Refreshments will be served.

Girls from the CGIT of Douglas Street Baptist Church sold novelties; young members of the Oak Bay Spades made and sold candy, and children from the clinic sold attractive ceramic articles they had made themselves.

The Britannia Legion hall was filled with stalls of beautifully made knitted clothes for children, handmade dresses, embroidered pillow slips and other specialties.

A "white elephant" table of tempting bargains attracted crowds of customers, as did the home baking and delicatessen stalls. An added attraction at the bake table was an assortment of decorated coffee tins, and customers were urged to buy the cookies and squares, then pack them in the decorated tins as gifts.

Mrs. Ralph Loffmark came from Vancouver to officiate at the opening of the bazaar, and stayed to enjoy the turkeyburger lunch.

For Sheer Tragedy, Horror, Nigeria War Has Few Equals

By STEPHEN SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For sheer tragedy and horror the Nigerian civil war has few equals.

The struggle to bring the breakaway Republic of Biafra back into a federal system has taken a terrible toll in human resources. Sixteen months after the fighting began in earnest the end is not in sight.

One estimate says 1,000,000 civilians in the former Eastern region of Nigeria have starved to death. Thousands of soldiers have also died.

Basically it is a tribal dispute with its roots in the jealousies and conflicts of primitive times, but much of the world is in some way involved in the turmoil that has overtaken Africa's most populous country.

Private and international organizations are slowly overcoming the suspicion and red tape that have hindered full-scale relief programs. Canada has contributed three armed forces Hercules transports to the Red Cross program.

Canada, Britain, Sweden and Poland are represented on an observer team sent to the battle zone after world opinion responded to Biafran charges that federal troops aimed to exterminate the Ibo tribe, dominant group in Biafra. So far the charges have not been substantiated.

GOWON
. . . support of Hausas

The federal air force flies Russian and Czechoslovakian jets. The ground forces, led by British-trained officers, use British equipment. Biafran resistance in recent weeks has stiffened after reports of an infusion of French arms. France has denied shipping arms to Biafra.

Nigeria, a resource-rich country on the west coast of Africa, is a former British colony that became independent in 1960 and a republic within the Commonwealth three years later.

What happened after that to bring about murderous military revolts in 1966 and a fateful proclamation of Biafran independence May 30, 1967?

The population of 58,000,000 is a confusion of races and religions. There are more than 20 tribes, but four of them make up about half the population: 18 per cent Hausa and 10 per cent Fulani living mainly in the North; 16 per cent Ibo in the East; 14 per cent Yaruba in the West.

There are more than 100 dialects, some so diverse that communication is possible only through English, the official language.

About 26,000,000 Moslems live in the North, most of the 19,000,000 Christians live in the West and East and in addition there is a variety of pagan groups.

SYSTEM IMPOSED

Politically, Nigeria evolved from various tribal groupings into a federal system imposed by British empire builders.

The political side of the war is whether power should lie with the regional governments or with the central government.

The Nigerians started taking over their own affairs in 1954. There was a federal government and three regions—East, West and North. A Mid-West region was added later.

After independence in 1960 it became clear that a central problem was fear of the energetic Ibos who occupied positions of power in government and business.

In 1964 a census was taken to replace a widely-disputed one. Under the federal system seats in Parliament were alloted and federal funds spent in regions in proportion to population.

The new census said the people of the North had a majority. The figures were disputed in the East. The Ibos of the East and many of the Yarubas of the West boycotted the 1964 federal election.

A government was formed by Sir Abubaker Balewa, largely made up of Northerners. It lasted until January, 1966, when Eastern army officers revolted, killing Balewa and the premiers of the West and North.

Maj.-Gen. Aquiyi Ironsi, head of the army and an Ibo, suppressed the revolt and took over as head of government. A few months later he abolished the regions, putting them under the national government. He also abolished political parties and tribal associations.

It was explained as a means of national political cleansing to replace corrupt civilian rule, but the Hausas of the North received it as a loss of regional autonomy that would mean Ibo domination of the country.

OJUKWU
. . . lack of trust

They noted that Ibos held senior positions in the army and central government and that the Ibo premier was not killed in the January coup.

Onti-Ibo rioting in the North resulted. Official reports said 92 Ibos were killed. Others said 600.

In July the Ironsi government was overthrown by a Hausa-supported army coup. Ironsi was kidnapped and presumably killed. Anti-Ibo feeling in the North erupted in riots in which 3,000 Ibos were reported killed. Ibos fled to the Eastern Region and there were reports of Ibo reprisals against the Hausas.

Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon, a brilliant British-trained officer, became head of state. The 32-year-old son of a Christian evangelist and a member of the small Northern Angas tribe, he became the youngest head of state in Africa.

ORDER REVERSED

Gowon reversed Ironsi's order abolishing the regions and called a constitutional conference for September, 1966. But the big massacre of Ibos took place in September and October and secessionist sentiment began to gain strength in the tribe. Some arms were reported flown into the Eastern Region in November.

Gowon closed out a bloody year by pledging to fight secession.

Meanwhile, Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, 33, had been named military head of the Eastern Region. Like Gowon, Ojukwu was educated at Britain's Sandhurst military school. Son of one of the richest men in Nigeria, he had attended the best schools in Lagos, the capital, and attended Oxford in England.

In October, 1966, he ordered non-Ibos out of the East but it is now known how well the order was carried out.

In January, 1967, Ojukwu met Gowon and other regional leaders in Ghana to discuss constitutional matters. He said he feared for his life if he met them in Nigeria.

Agreement was announced but federal and Eastern interpretations of its provisions on the powers of the regions differed. It became apparent Ojukwu sought a loose federation with the regions wielding power. Gowon wanted a strong federal government.

Rapid deterioration of the situation set in.

In March the federal government restored regional powers to levels prevailing before the Ibo revolt of January, 1966, but suspicions of each other by the federal and Eastern governments continued to grow. The East virtually withdrew from the federal state and in April it seized all federal installations in the region and took over some federal functions.

Gowon's government condemned the Eastern seizures and adopted a plan for return of civilian rule and preservation of federal unity. The program included creation of new states designed to weaken regional autonomy.

In May, a National Conciliation Council appealed to the federal government to lift sanctions against the East and asked the East to return federal institutions. Ojukwu refused to talk to the federal government until sanctions were lifted.

On May 28 Gowon ordered Nigeria divided ino 12 states. The Eastern Region would be cut into Central Eastern, mostly Ibos, Southeast and Rivers states. Ojukwu was named head of Central Eastern.

That meant that the Ibo country would be landlocked and cut from prosperous Port Harcourt and the oil-rich swamps of the Niger River Delta.

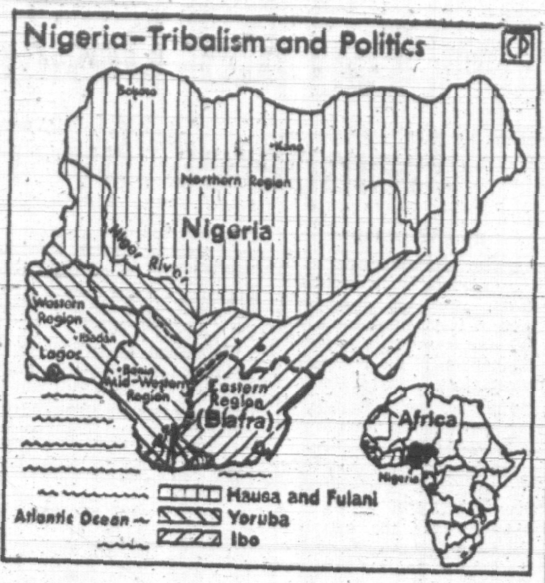
Two days later the Eastern Region declared itself independent.

On June 30 Ojukwu said:

"If Gowon should make the mistake of coming into our territory, even a few yards, we shall immediately go into an open, outright and total war against Nigeria."

The federal government described this as a declaration of war and invaded what now has come to be known as Biafra July 6.

Sixteen months later the federal forces have taken most of the secessionist territory but have not been able to make the final drive that would defeat the breakaway regime.



HATRED and jealousies between Nigeria's powerful Ibo tribe and the country's other tribes has been largely responsible for the Biafran war. Map, which shows where Nigeria's tribes are concentrated, traces the various political boundaries of the country as they existed before the war started. (AP Wirephoto.)

More Bombs Harry Plane Executives

MONTREAL (CP) — Small explosive charges contained in lengths of lead pipe were placed Sunday near the homes of four aircraft-company executives in suburban Mount Royal, but only one exploded.

The bomb which exploded cracked two downstairs windows but caused no other damage to the home of James Ross, secretary of United Aircraft of Canada Ltd.

Two other bombs were secreted near the homes of Victor W. Tryon, vice-president of finance at United Aircraft, and James Burtch, treasurer of the company.

The fourth bomb was placed in the garden behind the home of Peter J. Aird, vice-president and treasurer of Canadair Ltd.

Police said all four bombs were discovered by the owners of the homes.

A police spokesman said the bombs were "very similar" to charges planted in September at the homes of executives of Hawker Siddeley Aircraft Co. in Toronto and Vancouver.

Police have described those bombings as the work of persons opposed to the Vietnam war and protesting the company's sales of equipment to United States forces in Vietnam.

Your smiling face and wonderful ways
Are a pleasure to recall.
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Oswald: "The bidding of today's hand appears slightly abnormal. North would usually respond one heart or jump to three diamonds but because the game was rubber bridge and North and South had a part score of 90, the two diamond bid could be read as a mild slam try. South's two spade call was an acceptance and North's jump to four diamonds showed that his two-diamond call had been an underbid. That was enough for South. He jumped to the diamond slam."

Jim: "Since the trumps break 2-2 and the club finesse works South would have no trouble making a grand slam. However, six diamonds was the correct contract because it is bad policy to bid a grand slam that depends on a finesse. Did South make seven?"

Oswald: "As a matter of fact I made up the bidding. As it was actually played, North responded one heart, South went to one spade and North bid one no-trump. South passed and North managed to make 11 tricks. The hand is given as a starter for discussion of rubber bridge bidding when there is a part score."

Jim: "It is about time we devoted a few articles to that subject. It is very complex, since each part score presents its own problems. When you have 90 on score any bid of a new suit is a bid of game and may be passed, so if responder wants to invite a slam he has three choices. He can make a jump shift, jump in no-trump, or he can raise his partner."

Oswald: "Anyway, the box shows how the bidding should have gone. Let's discuss more part score bidding situations the rest of the week."

Cool-Aid Gives Hippie Service

By JOHN SLINGER

The handy-dandy local service known as Cool-Aid, dedicated to keeping footloose kids "from getting busted for vagrancy," is on a bit of a "bum trip" itself, says its coordinator.

Initiated early last summer to help young people passing through town find temporary accommodation, food and medical and legal assistance if needed, Cool-Aid was essentially an emergency telephone manned 24 hours a day.

But somebody racked up more than $50 in long-distance calls.

Since Cool-Aid could not pay, the telephone company cut out.

—That's one thing the coordinator describes as a "bum trip."

Despite the phone hang-up, Cool-Aid has provided 117 billets in the last 60 days.

Another problem facing the co-ordinator is one she shares with a number of young people "just trying in some way to make the community a little better" through work with the Victoria Youth Council.

HAS HIPPLE TONE

The council has a decidedly hippie tone; its image has been fostered both by its leaders who fill most of the popular qualifications of hippiedom and by its work among the sadily aimless youngsters hanging out in Centennial Square and The Bay's basement cafeteria.

As a result, the co-ordinator's parents think the outfit is "sleazy," and would prefer their daughter stay away from its musty Quadra Street headquarters.

"Our parents can't see that we're trying to do something good," she said in an interview.

A 17-year-old Oak Bay senior secondary student, she sat in the growing autumn dusk, carefully rolled a cigarette from a plastic tobacco pouch, lit it and began to talk about the kids she tries to help.

They're mostly transients from up-Island, Vancouver and "points east."

They come because "Victoria is a very quiet, peaceful, kind of beautiful city."

Most of them are nothing more than travellers "without much bread." Bread is spelled dollars.

They're usually between 16 and 22 years old and when they arrive on Cool-Aid's doorstep they are permitted to stay no more than three days.

She estimated that no more than 10 of the 117 were local runaways and these, she said, have quickly been returned to their parents.

Problems can be more serious than merely bed and board, though. One of the Cool-Aid volunteers told of a 19-year-old Uvic student co-ed who found a combination of heroin plus the hallucinogenics LSD and "speed"—an amphetamine—more than she could handle.

GIRL FREAKS OUT

She freaked out. She spent the first two hours "screeching away, writing on the walls."

Cool-Aid was called. They checked with a doctor and for the next three hours three youngsters worked with the girl, talking to her, cooling her out until 'eventually she went to sleep."

Perhaps parents frown on Cool-Aid because they are suspicious this sort of thing is going on.

But the co-ordinator knows she is part of a teen-age generation that has decided each must choose a private wilderness in which to search for themselves. For some this search might be through the horrors of drugs. For others it might be by trying to help.

She puts it this way: "I'm a person with my own individual rights. I'm doing my own thing the best way I can do it."

She mentioned that her parents were particularly opposed to Cool-Aid because it made it easier for youngsters to run away. This was a fear expressed at the beginning of the summer by Victoria Police Chief John Gregory who worried the service might turn the city into a sort of hippie-haven.

"I think that's sort of silly," she said, "because if you want to leave, you'll leave."

Engineer Has Half Century Of Memories

A half-century of good memories lie behind Alfred T. Thompsett, who on Saturday stepped down from the controls of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway car for the last time.

Mr. Thompsett, who lives at 1161 Burdett, joined the E and N in 1918 as an engine wiper in the Esquimalt roundhouse. In 1923 he became a locomotive fireman and took over the controls of a steam engine in 1940.

Since then he has operated trains between Victoria and Courtenay, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Duncan.

He says he will miss the people along his run with whom he has had a waving acquaintanceship for years and that he will now spend most of his time gardening and golfing.

True to his word, this morning before 10 the retired engineer was out creating more good memories at the Colwood golf course.

"Wild horses and high water couldn't stop him from playing golf," said his wife, Audrey. "He loves the game."

CONTROVERSY BLEW UP on the weekend over which version of the Canadian poem "In Flanders Fields" is authentic. New Canadian postage stamp honoring the author, Lt.-Col. John McCrae, reads "In Flanders fields the poppies blow" but manuscript in Montreal library shows Mr. McCrae ended first line with word "grow". Punch magazine in London agreed to publish Mr. McCrae's poem in 1915 but insisted upon changing "grow" to "blow". Some early letters by Mr. McCrae show he early incorporated the "blow" version in the poem.

Judge Clears Two Ministers

EDMONTON (CP) — Mr. Justice W. J. Kirby has found that neither Lands and Forests Minister A. J. Hooke nor E. W. Hinman, former provincial treasurer, used or attempted to use his public office for personal gain.

The Alberta Supreme Court justice was reporting on a judicial inquiry into allegations against Mr. Hooke and Mr. Hinman by Garth Turcott, former New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Pincher Creek-Crowsnest. The report was made public today.

Mr. Turcott made the allegations in the legislature April 3, 1967, and the inquiry was set up by Premier E. C. Manning May 12 of the same year.

The 362-page report covers 55 days of testimony from 66 witnesses in hearings that extended from June 1, 1967, to June 4, 1968.

Formula Proposed To Determine Death

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — Surgeons at Groote Schuur Hospital, where the world's first human heart transplant operation took place 11 months ago, have proposed a formula to define death which would give them the right to withhold or discontinue treatment of a dying patient.

The proposal defines death as occurring at the moment the brain breaks down completely.

Their document says doctors should be able to stop treating a patient if they feel it would no longer be of use or if they find progressive and irreversible breakdown of the brain's function.

The document, submitted to hospital authorities for ratification last week, deals with the procedure for transplanting organs, a controversial subject since Dr. Christiaan Barnard first transplanted a human heart last December.

The decision to stop treatment and declare the patient dead, the document says, should be made by two doctors, one of them a specialist.

The surgeons suggested that a patient cold be declared dead when a multi-channel electro-encephalographic recording showed no brain activity and when other tests showed that the patient was unable to breathe independently and spontaneously for five minutes, that there was a total absence of motor activity or reflex response which could be attributed to brain failure, that both eye pupils were dilated and unresponsive to light and that certain eye reflexes were absent.

These conditions should be observed for 24 hours if the patients' blood circulation was sustained and adequate, they said.

Once death was determined, the document says, the patient would become "a potential donor candidate."

Noted Canadian Scientist Dies

TORONTO (CP) — William B. Baker, 49, internationally-known social scientist, died here Saturday after a brief illness.

Dr. Baker founded the centre for community studies in Saskatchewan 10 years ago and at one time was chairman of the United Nations committee studying community development.

He has been working since last summer on a study on urban social redevelopment projects in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver. Dr. Baker was born in Veregin, Sask.

Restrictions Go

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Indonesian shipping sources said today their government has lifted its two-week restrictions on shipping to and from Singapore. The department imposed the restrictions after Singapore executed two Indonesian marines for terrorism. The marines were proclaimed national heroes here. But the sources say the government has ordered that shipping to and from Singapore should be brought back to normal.

Four Years Later, A Different Picture

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Four years ago, Americans gave President Johnson an unprecedented electoral mandate a few days after Nikita Khrushchev was deposed as Soviet premier and China had exploded its first nuclear device.

Vietnam was a distant, minor but persistent war involving 23,000 American "advisers" and President Johnson in a celebrated campaign statement said he did not intend to dispatch masses of troops there to a combat Asians themselves should conduct.

France was restive but still within NATO's military circle. Indonesia appeared firmly under the thumb of then President Sukarno and drifting steadily farther left.

The Middle East was tense as usual but under control. India and Pakistan were eight months away from a war and the Dominican Republic was six months away from the use of 22,000 U.S. troops to wipe out a left-leaning revolt.

There had re-emerged a few faint indicatios of dissent within some of the Soviet satellites.

AIDE WAS ARRESTED

The chief impact of Khrushchev's forced abdication and the Chinese nuclear blast appeared to be the muffling of publicity about President Johnson's closest aide being arrested on a morals charge.

This year? The shape of world affairs is dominated by Vietnam, particularly with President Johnson's long-awaited decision to halt all the bombing of the North.

What it will mean to voters Tuesday may or may not become clear in the results.

But the year's foreign events of note have played some role in pushing the political centre farther right.

There was the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet military expansion keyed on growing naval power and a solid toehold in the Mediterranean, North Korea's seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its 83-man crew and the lingering Arab-Israeli hostility.

Bridge-building to the Soviet Union has slowed, although Russia was kept fully informed of—and perhaps helped in—arriving at the decision to stop bombing of North Vietnam.

CAMPBELL RIVER — More than 500 persons attended a Sunday afternoon concert here by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra conducted by Lazlo Gati.

Seventeen-year-old pianist Camille Inkman was guest soloist.

The Campbell River Concert Society, organized last May with 25 members, has increased its membership to 536. Three more concerts are scheduled for the season.

Local school board trustees are considering buying a grand piano to accommodate visiting musicians. The piano for Sunday's concert was trucked from Victoria.

Street Stall Picture Buy May Be Goya

LONDON (CP) — Britain is in a flurry over art bargains and now a Creshire hairdresser says a Canadian expert has helped him identify a five-shilling (65-cents) purchase as a painting by the Spanish master Goya.

Wilhelm Winer of Frodsham, 150 miles northwest of here, bought the picture of a woman and a child from a street stall. The seller told him it was a paper print glued to a canvas.

Winer told The Daily Sketch he found the picture actually was a painting. He said he couldn't afford a valuation so he sent photographs of it to Dr. Rolf Medgessy in Montreal who he knew "would look at it for nothing."

The hairdresser was quoted as saying he got in touch with Medgessy described as a registered expert on antique paintings, through a box number at Victoria Station, Montreal. It was not known how he selected the Montrealer.

He said Medgessy had advised him in a letter that he found signatures of Francisco de Goya in the brush work and that the picture "has the style of the young Goya." The painter lived from 1746 to 1828.

Winer said he has not been able to find out how much the painting is worth, though he said he let two galleries look at it. He added they "did not say it was a Goya."

Stories of unsuspected art treasures have been popping up in British papers since the recent disclosure that a painting by the 13th century Italian artist Duccio was bought for £2,700 (about $6,920) at a country auction and sold to the National Gallery for £150,000 ($390,000).

Workers Seize Quebec Plant

WINDSOR, Que. (CP) — Striking Domtar Pulp and Paper Ltd. employees today continued an occupation begun Sunday at the company's plant here. Police reported acts of vandalism.

Police said about 150 drivers occupied company buildings "in orderly fashion" and ordered security guards off the premises. There were no clashes with security officers.

But police later reported that the strikers were "apparently breaking company equipment."

"We're told that the strikers have damaged a number of water pipes used in the production of pulp and paper as well as a supply of paper which was in the plant at the time of the takeover."

HELP NOT SOUGHT

The police spokesman said, however, that the town's 10-man police force had received no orders to intervene.

The strike by 750 workers here and 450 in Domtar's East Angus plant started July 18 following unsuccessful conciliation proceedings.

Domtar said negotiations broke down last Friday after it was learned that foremen and security personnel were being subjected to acts of intimidation by members of the National Union of Pulp and Paper Workers, an affiliate of the Confederation of National Trade Unions which bargains for the workers.

Violence erupted both here and at the East Angus plant in mid-September when strikers clashed with security guards. Windows were smashed and company equipment was damaged.

Strikers rejected a 30 cent-an-hour pay increase over three years. The union is seeking 35 cents over two years.

Domtar says the average hourly wage at Windsor is $2.96.

. . . JORDAN

hind the trouble was concentrating all its efforts against his government on the east bank of the Jordan River and not against Israel.

The interior ministry communique identified the commando group as the Victory Phalanges and said its leader was Taher Dablan.

The Victory Phalanges was one of three organizations which claimed to have been responsible for the giant fire at Israel's Lod Airport near Tel Aviv on Oct. 24.

BOTH DENY CLAIMS

Israel and Egypt, meanwhile, each denied the other's claims after their planes duelled over the Suez Canal Sunday for the second time in two weeks. An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said Israeli fighters chased two Egyptian MiG-21 jets that flew into Sinai. He said one Egyptian plane gave off smoke as it fled across the canal, while no Israeli planes were hit.

A military communique from Cairo said "one enemy plane was hit and exploded in the air" when patrolling Egyptian fighters engaged four Israeli planes that attempted to violate Egyptian air space over the canal. The communique said Egyptian anti-aircraft guns "possibly hit another enemy plane."

Jerusalem was again gripped by tension following the burning of an Arab store whose owner refused to participate in an Arab shopkeepers' strike.

GROWDS GATHER

All Arab stores were closed in sympathy with the owners of 15 shops seized by the police. Thousands of Arab civilians and schoolboys, milled about in the narrow, cobbled streets inside the Old City and in the modern quarter outside the walls. Border troops and police were on the alert.

The Israeli army accused Arab gunners inside Jordan of firing bazooka shells at an Israeli civilian car and an army patrol in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria Sunday night. Israeli troops returned the fire, a spokesman said, and no Israeli casualties were reported.

In New York, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and United Nations envoy Gunnar V. Jarring planned a private conference today which could make or break Jarring's 11-month effort to bring peace to the Middle East.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad has threatened to quit Jarring's go-between talks unless Eban announces Israel's willingness to withdraw from [illegible] territories occupied after the June 6 war.

Randy France Given Award For Fitness

A $500 award from the Canadian Council for Physical Fitness went to Randy France in a scholarship awards ceremony at Mount View secondary school last week.

Sharlotte Beauchemin was presented with the $350 Ocean Cement Ltd. scholarship, Jan Evans received the $200 Parent-Teacher Association scholarship and Pat Dunae the student's council bursary for $100.

Receiving Future Nurses bursaries for $50 each were Maryse Rostucher and Barbara McPhail.

Other winners were published last week.

Newspaper Publishes Despite Strike

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The Examiner prepared to publish today despite a strike by 20 members of the Peterborough unit of the Toronto Newspaper Guild, which started Saturday as the result of a contract dispute.

The newspaper published its regular two editions Saturday although only nine members of the editorial staff who are not guild members were at work.

Berlin Quells Demonstration At Disbarment

From AP-Reuters

BERLIN (CP) — Several thousand police and young leftists flailed into each other with clubs and cobblestones in West Berlin today as demonstrators tried to stop disbarment proceedings against Horst Mahler, a lawyer who has supported students.

Some 1,500 demonstrators with an arsenal of chemicals and their own ambulance service battled with 1,000 riot police, trying to hold them back from the Charlottenburg district courthouse where Mahler was on trial before a court of lawyers.

First estimates after the battle had raged through adjoining streets for two hours put the number of casualties at about 20 police and up to twice as many demonstrators.

About 50 students were marched off by police in one area.

PREPARE FOR CONVENTION

The demonstration came amidst preparations for a convention today of West Germany's Christian Democratic party here, a meeting which the Soviet Union and East Germany have bitterly attacked.

The Communists maintain that West Berlin is a special political entity on East German territory in which West German authorities have no business. They say the Christian Democrat congress is an illegal and intolerable provocation.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger is scheduled to make the keynote speech to his party's convention later today.

During today's demonstration, several lawyers and bystanders were hit by cobblestones ripped from the sidewalks and hurled by the youths, most of them wearing crash helmets, as they moved forward in waves directed by leaders with megaphones.

Police casualties were loaded into city ambulances.

The city's chief prosecutor had accused Mahler of acting during the demonstration last April against the Springer publishing house following the attempt to assassinate leftist student leader Rudi Dutschke.

Hay Ride Accident

Fallen Leaves Smother

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

Since leaves are such a rich source of humus for our garden soils, it is a pety we cannot just let them lie where they fall.

By the time we gather them into heaps there is the temptation to burn them, instead of putting any further work into their removal.

But this is burning leaf-gold, or gold-leaf, as you will.

Leaves left on lawns all winter in our coastal climate will cause brown patches by spring, for, being saturated with rain they smother grass by excluding air.

Another group of plants from which fallen leaves must be removed are densely spreading junipers, compact heathers, and most of the choicest alpines.

It takes only one large native maple leaf to smother a complete plant of, say, the lovely ramonda whose hairy leaves are particularly susceptible to rotting by dampness.

Gathering fallen leaves from these plants needs to be done a couple of times each week until practically all are dislodged from neighboring trees.

One inescapable argument against burning leaves is the poor soil usually associated with large trees when grown in gardens.

In nature, mixed types of underbrush will grow beneath deciduous trees because leafmould builds up into rich soil through the years, but we grow unnatural associations of plant material in our gardens and still expect all to flourish.

Since we must not allow wet leaves to decompose while lying on top of plants, the only way we may obtain their rich humus is to compost them and use the leafmould as side dressings for the plants in spring.

YOUR HEALTH

When One Can Seek New Doctor

By M. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Many people write saying they have serious medical problems and would like to have a consultation with a specialist, but either they have not asked for it because of fear of breaking some rule of "medical ethics," or they have asked their doctor for it, and he has, perhaps angrily, refused, adding he knew as much about the disease as anyone else did.

My advice to such a patient is to find a new doctor who will gladly arrange for a consultation or perhaps better yet, the patient should go directly to the consultant. I have seen a doctor, occasionally a former student of mine, get into a lot of trouble and perhaps get sued for malpractice because he was so foolish as to refuse the request for a consultation. He seemed to want to "hog all the blame," if blame were to come because of a bad result of treatment or perhaps a death. If the doctor had had more sense, he would have been glad to share responsibility with two of the most distinguished physicians or surgeons in his city.

Also, as I sometimes used to tell my students, after 1913, when I opened my office in San Francisco, whenever I had to call someone in consultation, I called one of the top experts in the city; soon they were all of them my friends, and this enriched my life.

One point in "medical ethics" people should know about is that if a person is dissatisfied with his Dr. X, and wants to change to Dr. Y, he must not let X call Y in consultation, because then it would greatly embarrass Dr. Y if the patient should leave X and come to him. The wise patient who wants to leave his doctor for someone else should just leave and go to the doctor he has heard about and wants to employ.

I like consultations that are honest and "openly arrived at." Whenever in my long life I have called a consultant, and he has examined the patient, I have said, "You go ahead and tell the patient, and the family (if present) what you think is wrong. If you think I am wrong say so frankly; I called you because you know much more about this type of disease than I do."

★ ★ ★

Many people write asking me if enemas are as harmful as some of their doctors say they are. After a huge experience in gastroenterology (the study of the somach and bowel). I cannot remember ever having seen a patient who I thought had been hurt by enemas. And yet, some of my good and able friends in medicine used to have horrors over women who took enemas.

As nearly as I can learn, these doctors had a horror of the woman's getting an "enema habit." They thought it very bad for a woman to get the habit of taking two or three enemas a day. Actually, I have known for 30 or 40 years some women who have taken one or two enemas a day, and they are still good specimens of humanity, now in their late 70s. Actually, I think that in many a case, the taking of an enema can be a person's best way of handling the constipation problems.

Often a better way is to take some "bulk producer" like canned figs for a week; then canned plums for the next week and then figs again. In this way the bowel does not get so accumstomed to one bulk-producer it no longer reacts to it.

Doomed Ship Heard Victoria Church Bell

By BOB BOWMAN

Bowman

In the days before steam-power, the iron men who sailed in wooden ships were perhaps the most superstitious people on earth. Heaven help a sailor who whistled in the wind! A sneezing cat was a sure sign of bad weather ahead. An albatross flying around a ship was bad luck, but the appearance of porpoises was good. It was a very bad omen if a ship sailing off the coast could hear church bells ringing on shore.

It is said that is what happened Nov. 4, 1875, when the paddle-wheeler Pacific sailed from Victoria, B.C. about 10:30 in the morning. The ship made little progress because there was a strong head-wind, and some old sailors on board were greatly upset when they heard bells ringing on shore.

The Pacific was still close to land at 10 p.m. when there was a sudden shock. The ship heeled over and sank in a few minutes. There were 232 people on board, but only two of them survived. It was the worst disaster off the west coast of Canada until the Canadian Pacific liner Sophia sank on a voyage from Alaska in 1918 and 343 lives were lost.

DRIFTED HOME

When the Pacific went down, one of the victims was a young girl whose body drifted to shore almost at her own home.

The quartermaster of the ship, Neil Henly, was one of the two people saved. He reported that there had been a large sailing vesel off the beam of the Pacific. Later it was established that she was the Orpheus, a U.S. coal-carrier, and her captain said that he was so busy looking at the damage to his own ship that he did not see the Pacific sink. The Orpheus sank soon after off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

It is dificult to persuade old sailors not to be superstitious.

Other events Nov. 4:

1809 John Molson, first steamer on the St. Lawrence, arrived at Quebec from Montreal after 66 hour trip: fare $8. Halifax Fire Insurance Company established the first recorded insurance company in Canada.

1873 Donald A. Smith's failure to support Sir John A. Macdonald in CPR bribery charge led to defeat of government.

1879 The Queen or governor-general were given sole right to appoint Queen's counsels.

1889 Large deposits of coal discovered in Nova Scotia.

1959 Alberta banned trading stamps and similar promotions.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Robert Klug, age 13, of Peoria, Illinois, for his question:

What is meant by rare earth elements?

We think of earth materials as resembling the crumbly soil. But in their pure form, the rare earth materials are silvery metals and not earthy at all. Neither are they rare. The world supply of the rarest rare earth almost equals that of iodine. Several are more plentiful than platinum and one is more plentiful than tin. The atomic family of the 15 rare earths seem to have been misnamed. However, in the last century when the family was charted, the name seemed suitable. Nature never keeps them in their silvery metallic form, but always combined with other elements in the form of rather soft, rocky ores. Some of these oxide ores do resemble crumbly earths and at first they were mistaken for the pure elements.

Modern chemistry is, of course, a precise science and a brief review of its past is necessary to explain how these fairly common metallic elements came to be classified as the family of rare earths. Naturally, you are more interested in their precise properties as known to modern science. The atoms of these elements are rather large and heavy. Their atomic numbers run from 57 to 71, their atomic weights range from 138.91 to 174.97.

Used With Iron

The chemical properties of an atom depend largely on its shells of orbiting electrons, especially its outer shell. The 15 rare earths all have five complete shells and a sixth incomplete shell of two electrons. All are softish silvery metals with a talent for adding toughness when alloyed with other metals In nature they combine with oxygen and all 15 occur in the same mineral ores. Separating them was a costly process and the rare earths were simply extracted together. This mixture of soft, metallic elements turned out to be an exceedingly tough alloy. Since the 1950s, we have used a process called ion exchange to separate the close-knit family. Different elements now can be used in precise quantities to toughen aluminum and magnesium alloys, to purify and improve steel and either to clarify or add color to glass.

The strange names of the rare earth elements were coined from a strange assortment of origins. Holmium, erbium and europium are place names with Latin accents. So are terbium, thulium, ytterbium and lutetium. Neodymium, samarium and gadolinium borrow their names from other minerals. Lanthanum means "hidden" and dysprosium means "hard to get." Praseodymium means "green." Cerium is named for an asteroid and promethium for a Greek hero.

Though ion exchange processes now make it practical to exploit the talents of the separate rare earths, we still use them together in the old mixture. This alloy is called "misch metal," or "mixed metal," and we use about 600 tons of it every year. Some is added to iron to make hard flints for cigarette lighters. A mixture of rare earth metals also is combined with carbon in the durable parts required in those powerful carbon arc lights they use in lighting movie sets.

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Diana Kelly, age 12, of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, for her question:

Do snakes have bones?

If you have watched a snake move, you know that he slithers over the ground with the graceful, waving motion of liquid water. He seems to have not a bone in his pliable body, but nothing could be farther from the truth. He happens to be just about the boniest creature on the earth. True, he has no toe bones or finger bones. He has no visible limbs that require bones. But his ancestors had legs and remnants of hip and thigh bones may be found buried inside the bodies of certain snakes. Every snake, however, excels in jaw bones. Actually he has two for one, because his jaw bone is divided in two separate sections and linked with an elastic band of non-bony cartilage.

When it comes to the number of ribs, the snake is a champ. His supple body may be encased in a tunnel of 400 or more pairs of bony ribs, and each pair is attached to a vertebra of his pliable spine. He has extra vertebrae in the tail section extending below his ribs. The snake's abundant supply of bony ribs makes it possible for him to slither along as though his body had no skeleton inside it at all. He moves by stretching and contracting sections of his ribs on alternate sides. The rubbery waves occur as the alternate sections of ribs spread apart and squeeze together.

Communications Is the Name of Vital Game

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Over after-dinner coffee in a friend's home we tossed around the phrase "the name of the game." In this unsettled world it was understanding, one said. Another insisted it was patience. Still another believed it was out-guessing the other fellow.

Forbes

Finally our host put in his two cents' worth. "The name of the game is communications."

He plopped several lumps of sugar into his coffee. Stirred vigorously, then continued:

"I believe that the key needed to control the woes of the world is mutual understanding and a mutual desire to achieve the well-being of everyone. And remember, understanding comes mainly through clear lines of communication."

There was silence for a moment. Then the one who has known our host longest spoke quietly in agreement.

Plane travel, television and radio had drawn the places of the earth close together, he pointed out. New electronic devices now record secrets of what was once the unknown. Manned adventures into outer space give rise to the almost certain possibility of direct contact with the moon and, in time, with other planets.

"Unless we are monstrously stupid, these products of scientific skills should contribute to the improvement of man's relationship with man."

His wife capped that statement with "which means the more we learn of others now, the more we strive to let others know of us, the greater chance there will be of survival."

A young man who was slouched back in a contour chair said he agreed that today we must direct our activities and our thinking to anticipate "far, far beyond immediate needs the shape of things to come." But how do we accomplish this?

"First, it is important that we know and understand ourselves," our host said.

"I'd say it is almost as important to learn to appreciate what has given us our democratic way of life," the young man insisted.

★ ★ ★

"You're right!" came the slow voice of a woman from the other side of the room. "Only let's add to that our economy, our standard of living and our productivity per man hours of labor."

Another voice chipped in to insist that the freedom given us through our democratic way of life demands that we develop, within ourselves, the qualities most needed today.

This brought a new question — what are those qualities?

One said it was courage tempered with discipline. Another, the ability to meet greater challenges than ever before. Still another added judgment.

Then our host came back with his original argument "and, most important of all, a very real interest in and knowledge of others."

It was conceded by everyone there that men and women who inherit the amazing scientific wonders of the future will need to think selflessly if they are to enjoy those wonders and not find themselves the victims of the progress conceived to give them a new way of life.

There was agreement too, that if we would sincerely and honestly do our part today and as our host suggested, learn more about each other, we might take one step, at least, along the road to Utopia.

It was then that the quiet one who knows and loves poetry, spoke softly.

"This discussion reminds me of the words of an African poet. His name was Dubois.

"Herein lies the tragedy of our age!

"Not that men are poor,

"All men know something of poverty.

"Not that men are wicked,

"Who is good?

"Not that men are ignorant,

"What is truth?

"Nay, that men should know so little of each other."

'TOO CLOSE' TO PREDICT

By United Press International

The nation's two best-known political polsters said today a closing rush by Hubert H. Humphrey has made Tuesday's presidential election too close to call.

A variety of other polls, regional and national, also showed Humphrey with increasing strength.

The Nixon camp scoffed. Humphrey backers expressed high hopes.

In a poll taken ending Saturday, the Gallup tabulations showed:

Nixon	42
Humphrey	40
Wallace	14
Undecided	4

When the undecided vote is allocated among Humphrey, Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace, George Gallup said the standings showed:

Nixon	43
Humphrey	42
Wallace	15

Louis Harris' final figures, which he said made the election "too close to call," showed:

Nixon	42
Humphrey	40
Wallace	12
Undecided	6

Harris attributed Humphrey's closing spurt partially to a falloff in support for Wallace's third party candidacy. He also said public approval of the current bombing halt in North Vietnam had given the vice-president a "marginal advantage."

Meanwhile, the smaller Sindlinger survey reports that its findings show Humphrey in front of Nixon for the first time by 0.6 of a percentage point.

The replies by percentage, compared with the two previous Sindlinger polls were:

	Nov. 1-3	Oct. 29-31	Oct. 25-28
Wallace	14.1	11.8	12.3
Nixon	33.8	36.4	36.8
Humphrey	34.4	33.6	33.6
Other	1.2	1.2	1.2
Refused to State	6.6	6.3	3.2
Undecided	9.9	10.7	12.9

Only Nixon Can Win A Majority

By DAVID S. BRODER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — After all the stratagems and spending the heckling and huckstering, the parades, the oratory and the politics, the presidential election of 1968 comes to this:

Richard M. Nixon is the one candidate who can win an electoral college majority. Hubert H. Humphrey and George C. Wallace might—but probably won't—take enough states from him to stalemate the election. Neither can win it for himself.

The final pre-election survey of the Washington Post, based on interviews and reports from staff correspondents with the three candidates and field reports from sources in all 50 states, shows that republican nominee Nixon and his running-mate, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, have lost some ground in the past four weeks but still are leading in enough states to win the election.

Base Remains

Wallace's share of the popular vote has slumped, but he still is favored to carry the six deep south states that have constituted his base of support since the start of his campaign.

The Wallace slump has increased the chance that Humphrey and his Democratic running-mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, will carry some of the major northern industrial states. Unlike a month ago, the Democrats are almost assured of finishing ahead of Wallace and Gen. Curtis E. Lemay in the electoral vote chase. But the same diminution of Wallace's backing has helped Nixon's position in the border states and thus, ironically, given him added insurance of an electoral college majority.

The Washington Post survey shows:

Nixon is leading in 31 states with 295 electoral votes, 25 more than the 270 needed for election.

Humphrey is leading in seven states and the District of Columbia with 67 electoral votes.

Wallace is leading in six

Peace Talks in Doubt After S. Viet Boycott

Tims News Services

PARIS—United States and North Vietnamese peace talks have been thrown into confusion by the refusal of the Saigon regime to attend.

If the meeting is held, it may deal only with procedural matters and then postponed, informants said. No peace pact would be meaningful without Saigon's signature, they said.

Meanwhile the Viet Cong delegation arrived here today led by a woman revolutionary.

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, a member of National Liberation Front's central committee, said on her arrival from Moscow:

"The population of South Vietnam ardently wishes for peace, but this peace cannot be disassociated from independence and liberty.

"As long as the American government has not renounced its aggressive aims and . . . props up the puppet administration of Saigon . . . the Vietnamese people will continue their struggle until final victory."

Mme. Binh, the chairman of the Women's Liberation Association, heads a team of six members.

The delegation was greeted by flag-waving Vietnamese, Soviet Ambassador Valreian Zorin, and Ambassador Xuan Thuy.

A spokesman said the NLF will be present at the first meeting of the expanded talks Wednesday. They are attending as a result of the agreement between Hanoi and Washington under which President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam last week.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu has announced that his government will not send a delegation to the talks because it will not negotiate with the NLF as a separate entity. He said the boycott would continue until Saigon is assured of direct, serious talks with Hanoi.

For their part, Hanoi and the NLF say their agreement to attend the expanded talks did not mean they recognize "the puppet administration of Saigon."

WON'T HONOR DECISION

On Sunday, Reuters news agency quoted a South Vietnamese government office as saying that Saigon will consider "null and void" any decision made in its absence at the Paris talks.

The Viet Cong's role in the talks is still uncertain. Hanoi said it considers the NLF the truce representative of the South Vietnamese government. Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation, said the United States had agreed that the Viet Cong and the Saigon delegations will have "the right to speak for themselves."

But State Secretary Dean Rusk told a news conference Friday [illegible] the United States "doesn ot recognize the NFL as some separate entity." He added, however, that the conference "should get to the substance of making peace" rather than waste time debating such procedural points.

Benson Veto Under Attack

Times News Services

OTTAWA—The federal-provincial conference on finance opened here today with a demand by the provinces for part or all of the new 2 per cent income tax Finance Minister Benson imposed in his October 22 budget.

Quebec said that if they were not given a share, the new tax should not be collected in Quebec.

Mr. Bertrand, also minister of inter-governmental affairs in his government, came here in place of Paul Dozois, Quebec finance minister who is in hospital.

It is Mr. Bertrand's first appearance in Ottawa since he succeeded the late Daniel Johnson this fall.

Mr. Bennett is here as finance minister of British Columbia as well as premier.

In pre-conference comments last week, provincial representatives clearly established two areas of federal-provincial fiscal relations in which they want changes.

The federal government is expected to hold out staunchly against both demands.

They are, generally, that the provinces be given a bigger slice of the tax pie, and that the equalization grants system be modified.

In cutting the tax pie, Ottawa now automatically hands over up to 28 per cent of its personal income tax collections to the provinces.

Quebec Gets 50 Percent

This figure is 50 per cent in the case of Quebec, to cover federal-provincial programs operated in Quebec solely on provincial responsibility.

The plan enables any province to raise additional money through provincial income taxes. Manitoba and Saskatchewan impose five percentage points of additional tax so that they receive 33 per cent of the federal basic tax. Quebec has an additional three points.

The provinces complained bitterly last week that Mr. Benson's new two-per-cent tax on basic incomes, which he called a social development tax, does not affect provincial revenues.

Some provinces have charged that Ottawa did not play fair in levying the new tax; it did so in such a way that all its $440,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next April 1 will go into the federal treasury.

Equalization payments, which were instituted to bring the per capita revenues of the poorer provinces up to the level of the richer ones, now hinge on the average provincial receipts from 16 kinds of taxes.

Alberta, in particular, because of its big revenues from oil and natural gas royalties, claims it is unfairly treated. Its provincial revenues from these resources taxes are so great they work against other revenues the province might receive from Ottawa. This conference stems from Prime Minister Trudeau's stand that Ottawa would like to get out of some shared-cost programs.

Mr. Benson pointed in his budget last month to the extent to which these programs—in which Ottawa's outlays are largely pegged to provincial spending—upset the federal government's plans to balance the budget this year.

Mr. Benson told provincial delegations at the outset of the

Quebec Slams Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec, attacking Ottawa as "arrogant and imperialistic," said today Canada is endangered by "domineering federalism" of Prime Minister Trudeau's government.

The successor to the late Premier Daniel Johnson profited from his first appearance in Ottawa as premier to make two major proposals in a tough, 2,700-word brief to the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers.

He asked that:

—Tax-sharing arrangements between the federal and provincial governments, on the agenda of this conference, he worked out in January, after the constitutional conference here Dec. 16-18.

—The federal government's new two-per-cent increase in personal income taxes, "which goes by the provocative name of 'social development tax," not be applied to Quebec citizens when it comes into enfect Jan. 1, 1969.

The first proposal would enable Quebec to discuss its claims for greater government powers at the December constitutional conference prior to discussion of its claims for a net transfer of fiscal resources from the federal trasury.

DENOUNCES NEW TAX

Mr. Bertrand denounced the social development tax announced in the Trudeau government's first budget by saying the money will be used for Medical care insurance, a social security program within provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. Bertrand said Quebec intends to establish medical care insurance "but at a time and in the manner we will choose for ourselves."

Trudeau Holds Talks With Thant at UN

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced to a surprised Commons today that he went to New York Saturday to exchange views on world problems with U Thant, United Nations secretary-general.

He also said that Nigeria has agreed to daylight relief flights into Biafra from both Lagos, Nigeria's capital, and Fernando Po.

Mr. Trudeau addressed an appeal to Col. Ojukwu, Biafran leader, to permit the daylight relief flights.

Mr. Trudeau said he is instructing the legislative assistant, Ivan Head, to go to Lagos for talks with Gen. Gowon, head of the Nigerian miltary government.

Mr. Head and the general had discussed the civil war, Canadian relief and the international observer team in Nigeria.

Gen. Gowon had agreed to guarantee the safety of daylight relief flights into Uli airport in Biafra.

Such flights have been made in darkness only because of fear of interference by the Nigerian Air Force.

Bright Note Sounded Despite Slow Response

By W. RALPH THOMAS

Residential division of the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal has been doorknocking for three weeks and the overall picture is not bright.

Mrs. S. J. Cunliffe, chairman of the Oak Bay-Victoria district, said this morning her division has collected 46 per cent of its $54,000 objective, but 55 per cent of the canvass has been completed.

"The situation is not as good as it should be," she said, "but it might even out when we get into the other areas."

Mrs. V. A. Fuggle, chairman of the Esquimalt-View Royal division, said half of her canvass is complete.

United Appeal Progress

TODAY $386,695

NEEDED $655,000

"The returns have been slow coming in, but I hope our canvass will be completed by the end of next week," she added.

SOUNDS BRIGHT NOTE

A bright note in the residential division was sounded by Mrs. G. H. Breen, co-chairman of the Langford-Colwood division.

She reported that three of her four team captains have completed their canvass "well over their quota."

"I'm very pleased with the job my girls have been doing. I don't think we'll find it difficult to meet our objective," she said.

Co-chairman of the Langrord-Colwood division, Mrs. G. G. Smith said she is confident her section will also reach its target.

"I think the response has been very good. For example, one lady in a low-income area won a $5 cheque from a local radio station and she signed it over to the United Appeal.

RESPONSE IS GOOD

"Another man without a great deal of money gave $50 because he was really concerned about people. The response out here has been very good," she said.

Mrs. Eleanor Sanderson, chairman of the Oak Bay-Saanich division, reported that her section has collected 60 per cent of its quota.

"I don't think we can relax yet," she said, "but we are doing well in some districts. If things continue to go well I hope to be finished with the canvass next week."

The suggested goal of the residential division is $128,000. To date $47,238 of the goal has been collected.

Jordan Puts Down Guerrilla Uprising

HUSSEIN
. . . 'treacherous group'

AMMAN (AP) — The Jordanian government announced it had put down an attempt today by a group of Palestinian commandos to foment civil strife in the kingdom.

In a broadcast, King Hussein told his people guerrilla action against Israel would continue "purified from these stealthy treacherous elements."

The king's emotional speech over Amman Radio was the first official explanation of widespread shooting and demonstrations that swept Amman this morning.

A later communique from the interior ministry indicates the trouble was over—at least for the moment—but gave no word on casualties.

Diplomatic sources said the firing started when the army tried to arrest selected leaders of the Arab guerrilla organizations which have been raiding Israel from bases in Jordan. This set off demonstrations in Palestinian refugee camps at Ashrafiya and Jabal Hussein.

The army surrounded the two camps and moved quickly to quell other demonstrations which developed in scattered sections of Amman. Sources said the demonstrators were dispersed after more than four hours of shooting.

The gunfire died down at 10:30 a.m., and a political officer at the U.S. embassy said the army "appears to be completely in control at this time."

CURFEW DECLARED

A curfew was declared in the city as ambulances and fire engines raced through the streets.

There was no immediate word of casualties or damage.

Unofficial reports said several commando leaders were arrested to forestall an expected attempt by commando forces against the government, which has been trying to curb their activities to forestall retaliatory raids by the Israelis. A source said there had been reports for the last two weeks that the guerrillas were planning a showdown.

Hussein's short speech after the fighting in Amman did not reveal any details of the fighting.

He said the commando group which he accusd of being be-

Gaglardi Wants B.C. Hydro Job

VANCOUVER — Minister Without Portfolio P. A. Gaglardi indicated Saturday that "if he can't have the highways portfolio back he'd settle happily for B.C. Hydro.

"If you want to help me, put this in big headlines," he told reporters. "I would like to head the commission that runs the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority."

It wasn't clear whether he was speaking of a portfolio assignment or a civil service appointment.

Mr. Gaglardi's comments came after a row with Highways Minister Wesley Black outside the Social Credit League convention hall—witnessed by several cabinet ministers, delegates and reporters.

Premier Bennett declined to make any comment on Mr. Gaglardi's indication he would like to head B.C. Hydro.

Previously, he stopped cold an attempt to get a resolution on the floor asking return of the highways portfolio to Mr. Gaglardi. Mr. Bennett said Mr. Black would remain highways minister. Later, Mr. Gaglardi said he appreciated the efforts by his Kamloops constituency delegates' to bring the resolution before the convention but he disassociated himself from it.

NOT SNAP DECISION

Mr. Gaglardi also said reports that he might not return from the coming legislative session were wrong because he has made no snap decision.

"Any move I do make will be talked over with the premier first, you can be sure of that," he said. "I live a day at a time.

"The only statement I had made is that an active individual such as I am ... you have to have something to do.

"I'm never more happy than when I'm going full bore and if anybody wants to put me to work I will go."

Mr. Gaglardi skipped the wind-up banquet speech by Premier Bennett because, he said, he had to get to Kamloops where he was to conduct Sunday morning services in his church.

Premier Bennett was triumphant at the closing banquet, recalling his prediction that next February's provincial budget will break the $1 billion mark for the first time.

He said it will include "great new programs for the people, including some poor people abroad" through establishment of perpetual funds worth millions, such as the $25 million fund for helping B.C. native Indians he announced Aug. 1.

"These funds will be a lasting monument to Social Credit, not just 16 years hence—not just for my period—but 100 years hence and 1,000 years hence," he declared.

PERMANENT RECORD

"If the public is ever so fickle as to turn out this Social Credit government in many, many years to come, the permanent record will be there and the expenditures to show the people that there was one day a Social Credit government that showed Canada and the world how to finance properly."

Mr. Bennett told the delegates to be missionaries in telling the public of the great achievements of their provincial government since 1952.

"Social Credit has been too busy doing things to tell the story," he said.

"In future, we are going to do more, not less. But we are going to tell the story."

He said the government will intensify its efforts to tell the story by publishing newspaper advertisements next week to outline the sources of revenue for paying the province's $297.7 million public schools bill.

Of the amount, he said, only $25.7 million "less than 9 per cent" comes from property taxes on farmers and home-owners.

He said the rest is made up of $116.6 million from B.C. income taxes, $11.7 million from provincial sales tax, $41 million from natural resources, $4.5 million from federal grants and $98.2 million from industrial development.

Young Socreds Would Suspend Student Rioters

VANCOUVER — The provincial government should require suspension of university students who urge rioting "or flagrant disregard of the laws of the land," the Young Social Credit organization proposed here Saturday.

Delegates at the main Social Credit League convention gave a standing ovation to University of B.C. student Michael Martinoff when he announced Young Socreds had passed "a very important resolution asking for law and order at UBC."

Besides suspension for student activists, the resolution asked the government to ensure no student should be required to join any organization at university.

(All students must belong to the Alma Mater Society.)

Robert Bennett, another UBC student, told the convention he was opposed to radicals at the university but the resolution "attacks the only form of student government we have.

VOICE DISAPPROVAL

"It is through this same Alma Mater Society that students as a whole voiced disapproval of the occupaton of the UBC faculty club."

However, Mr. Martinoff later said individual students should be able to decide whether they would join AMS which, on the UBC campus, is affiliated with the activist Canadian Union of Students.

Another highlight of the Saturday session was a two-page Delta constituency resolution calling for comprehensive streamlingging of the party's organization to emphasize the value of individual members in winning elections.

The resolution, referred to the incoming executive board for study, said there is "a need for development of a sophisticated organizatin capable of winning elections against the highly modern and efficient political machines of the opposition parties."

THREE TASK FORCES

The Delta constituency proposed that members in each association be split into three task forces — 50 per cent for campaigning, 30 per cent for membership and 20 per cent for administration.

Each task force would be headed by an association vice-president, and the three vice-presidents would form a constituency campaign committee in an electivn.

It urges closer co-operation between riding associations and the provincial executive in such matters as preparation of campaign literature and other election materials.

In other resolutions approved Saturday, delegates urged:

- A change in provincial laws to allow Sunday sport in areas outside Vancouver, which already has it.
- Government legislation to prohibit the sale of disposable soft drink bottles as a method of alleviating the litter problem.
- More action to keep parks and highways clear of inflammable underbrush, litter and other wastes.
- Creation of a new provincial park "in memory of the Cariboo gold miners" in the Snowshoe Plateau area between Likely and Barkerville in the B.C. interior.
- Reinstatement of the B.C. old age supplementary allowance for payment to pensioners over and above existing federal pensions.
- A provincial government study of methods of increasing housing and rental accommodation that would also find out how to go about reducing high interest rates.

Pearson Visits Boyhood Scenes On Anniversary

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — Former prime minister Pearson recalled fond memories Sunday on a visit to this community where he lived for several years when he was a small boy. Mr. Pearson and his wife attended services marking the 150th anniversary of the Aurora United Church where his father served as minister from 1900 to 1903. "I remember my first Chirstmas here, my first day of school and my first glimpse of the former King George and Queen Mary who were then Duke and Duchess of York," Mr. Pearson said.

Political Geography Success Secret

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told the British Columbia Social Credit League Saturday that it's "100 per cent nonsense" to think of the province in terms of urban and rural areas.

Mr. Campbell told the league's annual two-day convention the news media is "largely responsible for propagating the myth that B.C. is divided into farms and cities."

"This is a myth that should be knocked," Mr. Campbell said. "For instance, it's nonsense to say that Prince George is a rural area—it will one day be the Edmonton of B.C."

The municipal affairs minister said the reason Social Credit is in power and other parties are not is because "they don't understand the geography of the province."

He said municipal governments in B.C. are much healthier than their counterparts in other provinces.

Premier Bennett's government, he said, has instilled a "pay-as-you-go" attitude in municipal government.

"We must lead change and not shy away from it if we are to lead the province," he said in explaining the need for restructuring provincial and municipal relationships facing "the problems coming in the 1980s and 1990s.

"We will solve these problems of pollution, of rapid transit and of housing that are the result of a rapidly developing province.

"But we will solve these problems through co-operation on a decentralized basis because we believe local government is real government."

25 Rescued Off Tanker; 5 Missing

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Rescue vessels are reported to have saved 2 crew members of the Liberian-registered Greek tanker Spyros Lsmos, which broke in two in the Atlantic off Spain's Cape Finisterre on Sunday.

"Five men are still missing," the master of the Dutch motor vessel Eemland, Capt. F. W. J. Koorn, said in a radio message today. "They probably drowned during breaking of the ship."

The Eemland was en route to Amsterdam with 14 survivors of the 13,019-ton tanker, taken from the stern half 16 miles west of the cape.

The Finnish freighter Ragni Paulin plucked one man from the bow, found afloat in a vertical position, and the British submarine Odin rescued 10 from a lifeboat.

Drop-ins Start Program

A drop-in centre at Centennial United Church is attracting between 80 and 90 young people who do not belong to any church group, says John Durkin, worker for the YMCA.

"The idea is to get young people dropping in at the centre and then have them make up their own program of things they like to do."

Mr. Durkin said the drop-in centre at Centennial United was started four months ago. Today it has an art program, a cheer-leading section and a band.

Plans are now being made for a hockey team, a home-work clinic and a camping program. Membership in the centre is $1 a year for a family.

"My role at the centre is to win the confidence of young people and keep them interested," Mr. Durkin said.

The centre is held in the gymnasium under Centennial Church every Wednesday and Friday at 7 p.m.

Labor Bracing For B.C. Vote

VANCOUVER—The president of the B.C. Federation of Labor predicted a provincial election in the spring today and called on labor to start work now on ousting the Bennett government.

E. T. Staley of Victoria was delivering the opening address at the federation's 13th annual convention, held this year at the Hotel Vancouver.

"We must take a strong position at this convention and when it is over go back to our local unions and ridings and work, as we have never worked before, to defeat the present government and replace it with one that believes in the welfare of the people, including fair treatment to the trade union movement," he said.

The federation is the provincial arm of the Canadian Labor Congress and represents about 280 local unions with membership over 136,000. The conventions ends Friday.

Mr. Staley hit hard at the provincial government's new labor legislation providing for compulsory arbitration.

"When (Labor Minister Leslie Peterson) appeals to labor for their co-operation in regard to this legislation with its compulsory features, he is asking too much.

NO CO-OPERATION

"I suggest to you we should give (him) the same co-operation he gave to labor when he had the legislation drafted and pushed through the House—none whatsoever."

He suggested delegates "inform the minister of labor to peddle his wares elsewhere when the product he is selling is compulsory arbitration."

Housing was among other subjects drawing criticism of government.

"It is difficult to understand how a country can afford to spend one and one-half billion dollars on an obsolete defence system while at the same time showing a callous disregard for the housing needs of the nation."

Mr. Staley also said Royal Commission reports have become for the most part "a tool of government to establish legislation to suit the monied interests."

Railways to Face More Wage Hikes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) today presented to Canada's railways wage demands calling for a 20-per-cent across-the-board increase for road service employees and a $1-an-hour increase for yard service employees.

The increases would become effective Jan. 1, 1969.

The brotherhood is the largest of the running trades unions and represents 20,000 conductors, brakemen, yardmen and yardmasters engaged in the actual operation of trains.

The union also seeks a reduction in the work day to six from eight hours, improved fringe benefits and a number of changes in work rules.

Last Friday, eight non-operating railway unions, representing 75,000 workers not directly involved in running trains, served notice they are asking for a 32-per-cent wage increase over two years. The major railways said the wage demands of the non-ops would cost $145,000,000.

Loffmark to Propose Health Cost Control

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Ralph Loffmark of British Columbia said today B.C. will propose a means of "cost controls and incentives to keep down costs" at the federal-provincial conference of health ministers opening today.

Mr. Loffmark, who heads a four-man B.C. delegation at the talks, said he also will "work for maintaining our present system of $1-a-day co-insurance" in the B.C. Hospital Insurance Plan.

The co-insurance is in effect a deterrent fee applied to all patients in B.C. hospitals.

The health minister said B.C. will also attempt to maintain the present federal-provincial cost-sharing agreement on medical care as it is applied in his province.

He said the conference would be told hospital costs could be cut by transferring patients "into more inexpensive beds" and imroving existing "procedures."

Mr. Loffmark promised a fuller statement on B.C.'s stand following today's talks.

The other three members of the B.C. delegation are Dr. J. A. Taylor, deputy health minister, Dr. F. G. Tucker, deputy minister of mental health services, and D. M. Cox, deputy minister of hospital insurance.

Mr. Loffmark said the B.C. government "is opposed to the principle of increasing deterrent fees for the reason that these usually bear most heavily on the lowest income groups and people least able to bear the increased costs."

'Black Nationalist' Hijacks Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A National Air Lines jetliner was hijacked today by a man described as a "black nationalist freedom fighter," and landed in Cuba with 58 passengers and seven crew members aboard.

Thirteen minutes after the plane with 50 passengers and a crew of seven tok off from New Orleans, La., for Miami, Capt. Antone Hunter radioed the Houston, Tex., control tower that he was being hijacked.

Later, the Federal Aviation Administration said, Hunter made a second call to the FAA control centre at Jacksonville, Fla., to report that the hijacker was a black nationalist.

The incident marked the 13th time this year that a commercial airliner had been forced to fly to Cuba. And it was the third time a National plane had been hijacked to the Caribbean island this year.

closed meeting they should not expect any part of the new levy which Ottawa calls a social development tax.

He told the provinces bluntly that they have power, if they wish to exercise it, to raise their own personal income and corporation profits taxes.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan now impose such a provincial tax in addition to the federal levy under an agreement through which Ottawa collects the tax. Newfoundland, Quebec and Ontario now impose extra corporation taxes.

It is wrong, Mr. Benson said, for one government to levy taxes for programs operated by another level of government.

"Each government should be accountable to its own electors for its taxing and spending decisions."

Bertrand, Bennett at Sessions

Mr. Benson met premiers Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec and W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia and the finance ministers of the other provinces, while Health Minister John Munro was convening a similar meeting of provincial health ministers in another part of Ottawa.

A joint meeting will be held Tuesday.

Mr. Bertrand restated Quebec's constitutional position in don't-step-on-our toes terms.

He said the social development tax is clearly designed to pay for a program within provincial constitutional jurisdiction and it should not be imposed in Quebec.

Ontario Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said the federal government should turn the new two-per-cent tax over to the provinces "unequivocally" when it starts Jan. 1.

The tax is expected to produce $440,000,000 in a full year.

Mr. MacNaughton said Ontario would use the money either to support its own medical care insurance plan, support public medical insurance now in effect, or divert it to other things Ontario thinks have higher priority.

Mr. Benson said the provinces should have known they would not get any part of additional federal taxation.

Plans Set If Provinces Pay

But Ottawa was willing, if the provinces would take responsibility, to make room in tax collections for the provinces to pay for hospital insurance, old age pension supplements, and general health grants. The federal government first made this suggestion in 1966.

Mr. Benson said that while he wasn't urging the provinces to levy new provincial taxes, he was reminding them they have the right and power to do so And he offered to renew existing agreements that make Ottawa the collecting agency for some provincial taxes.

"The fact that all governments constitutionally responsible for expenditures must be prepared to exercise their constitutional powers to tax, does not mean in any sense that we need to go off in conflicting directions," he said.

Mr. Bennett, in a comment to reporters as he entered the conferences, called the new social development tax "just a fancy name for another sales tax."

He said the highest priority on tax revenue from all levels must be for health services and education.

"And I'm opposed to the present heavy penalties and deterrent fees that bear heavily on the poor."

Punch in Mouth 'Wins' the Debate

VANCOUVER (CP) — Anti-flouridation forces won a debate over the fluoridation fanciers here Sunday night—by punching an opposition spokesman in the mouth and booing down his companion.

The meeting, which drew 45 persons to hear debate on the flouridation plebiscite that goes to Vancouver voters Dec. 11, ended in an uproar.

Meeting organizer Edward Moxey, an anti-flouridationist and president of the Citizens' Democratic Rights Association, set ground rules for the debate when the meeting opened.

The main rule, he said, was that a speaker must have a written gurantee that flouridation is harmless before he could speak in favor of fluoridation.

Then he declared the anti-fluoridation forces had won the debate by default since no one on the other side had such a gurantee.

Allan Patterson, who was speaking in support of fluoridation, questioned the reasoning of Mr. Moxey.

Mr. Moxey, former health food store operator who has campaigned against fluoridiation since 1951, replied:

"You people in favor of fluoridation are spouting the opinions of the godless parasites who are trying to take over this country.

"We must defeat this evil project and force the government to remove all the other poisonous additives from our food. We did not come here to listen to you others."

H. M. Engineer shouted above catcalls to list a score of authorities that support fluoridation and was soon forced to sit down by the shouting audience.

On one occasion, he was punched in the head by a man who shouted: "Sit down, we have had enough of your lies." Mr. Engineer punched him back.

Bellowed Mr. Moxey: "You are a liar. You are a liar and a fool."

The catcalls and screams of the audience continued to drown out the words of Mr. Patterson, who stood by his chair, repeating: "Why can't I speak?"

That ended the debate.

Gaglardi Wants B.C. Hydro Job

VANCOUVER — Minister Without Portfolio P. A. Gaglardi indicated Saturday that "if he can't have the highways portfolio back he'd settle happily for B.C. Hydro.

"If you want to help me, put this in big headlines," he told reporters. "I would like to head the commission that runs the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority."

It wasn't clear whether he was speaking of a portfolio assignment or a civil service appointment.

Mr. Gaglardi's comments came after a row with Highways Minister Wesley Black outside the Social Credit League convention hall—witnessed by several cabinet ministers, delegates and reporters.

Premier Bennett declined to make any comment on Mr. Gaglardi's indication he would like to head B.C. Hydro.

Previously, he stopped cold an attempt to get a resolution on the floor asking return of the highways portfolio to Mr. Gaglardi. Mr. Bennett said Mr. Black would remain highways minister. Later, Mr. Gaglardi said he appreciated the efforts by his Kamloops constituency delegates' to bring the resolution before the convention but he disassociated himself from it.

NOT SNAP DECISION

Mr. Gaglardi also said reports that he might not return from the coming legislative session were wrong because he has made no snap decision.

"Any move I do make will be talked over with the premier first, you can be sure of that," he said. "I live a day at a time.

"The only statement I had made is that an active individual such as I am . . . you have to have something to do.

"I'm never more happy than when I'm going full bore and if anybody wants to put me to work I will go."

Mr. Gaglardi skipped the wind-up banquet speech by Premier Bennett because, he said, he had to get to Kamloops where he was to conduct Sunday morning services in his church.

Premier Bennett was triumphant at the closing banquet, recalling his prediction that next February's provincial budget will break the $1 billion mark for the first time.

He said it will include "great new programs for the people, including some poor people abroad" through establishment of perpetual funds worth millions, such as the $25 million fund for helping B.C. native Indians he announced Aug. 1.

"These funds will be a lasting monument to Social Credit, not just 16 years hence—not just for my period—but 100 years hence and 1,000 years hence," he declared.

PERMANENT RECORD

"If the public is ever so fickle as to turn out this Social Credit government in many, many years to come, the permanent record will be there and the expenditures to show the people that there was one day a Social Credit government that showed Canada and the world how to finance properly."

Mr. Bennett told the delegates to be missionaries in telling the public of the great achievements of their provincial government since 1952.

"Social Credit has been too busy doing things to tell the story," he said.

"In future, we are going to do more, not less. But we are going to tell the story."

He said the government will intensify its efforts to tell the story by publishing newspaper advertisements next week to outline the sources of revenue for paying the province's $297.7 million public schools bill.

Of the amount, he said, only $25.7 million "less than 9 per cent" comes from property taxes on farmers and home-owners.

He said the rest is made up of $116.6 million from B.C. income taxes, $11.7 million from provincial sales tax, $41 million from natural resources, $4.5 million from federal grants and $98.2 million from industrial development.

Political Geography Success Secret

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told the British Columbia Social Credit League Saturday that it's "100 per cent nonsense" to think of the province in terms of urban and rural areas.

Mr. Campbell told the league's annual two-day convention the news media is "largely responsible for propagating the myth that B.C. is divided into farms and cities."

"This is a myth that should be knocked," Mr. Campbell said. "For instance, it's nonsense to say that Prince George is a rural area—it will one day be the Edmonton of B.C."

The municipal affairs minister said the reason Social Credit is in power and other parties are not is because "they don't understand the geography of the province."

He said municipal governments in B.C. are much healthier than their counterparts in other provinces.

Premier Bennett's government, he said, has instilled a "pay-as-you-go" attitude in municipal government.

"We must lead change and not shy away from it if we are to lead the province," he said in explaining the need for restructuring provincial and municipal relationships facing "the problems coming in the 1980s and 1990s.

"We will solve these problems of pollution, of rapid transit and of housing that are the result of a rapidly developing province.

"But we will solve these problems through co-operation on a decentralized basis because we believe local government is real government."

Death Toll Rises

BIELLA, Italy (UPI) — The death toll rose to 91 today in a flood and landslide disaster that collapsed bridges and swept away homes and factories in the industrial heartland of northern Italy. U.S. air force helicopters rushed relief supplies to the stricken area.

Young Socreds Would Suspend Student Rioters

VANCOUVER — The provincial government should require suspension of university students who urge rioting "or flagrant disregard of the laws of the land," the Young Social Credit organization proposed here Saturday.

Delegates at the main Social Credit League convention gave a standing ovation to University of B.C. student Michael Martinoff when he announced Young Socreds had passed "a very important resolution asking for law and order at UBC."

Besides suspension for student activists, the resolution asked the government to ensure no student should be required to join any organization at university.

(All students must belong to the Alma Mater Society.)

Robert Bennett, another UBC student, told the convention he was opposed to radicals at the university but the resolution "attacks the only form of student government we have.

VOICE DISAPPROVAL

"It is through this same Alma Mater Society that students as a whole voiced disapproval of the occupaton of the UBC faculty club."

However, Mr. Martinoff later said individual students should be able to decide whether they would join AMS which, on the UBC campus, is affiliated with the activist Canadian Union of Students.

Another highlight of the Saturday session was a two-page Delta constituency resolution calling for comprehensive streamlingging of the party's organization to emphasize the value of individual members in winning elections.

The resolution, referred to the incoming executive board for study, said there is "a need for development of a sophisticated organizatin capable of winning elections against the highly modern and efficient political machines of the opposition parties."

THREE TASK FORCES

The Delta constituency proposed that members in each association be split into three task forces — 50 per cent for campaigning, 30 per cent for membership and 20 per cent for administration.

Each task force would be headed by an association vice-president, and the three vice-presidents would form a constituency campaign committee in an electivn.

It urges closer co-operation between riding associations and the provincial executive in such matters as preparation of campaign literature and other election materials.

In other resolutions approved Saturday, delegates urged:

- A change in provincial laws to allow Sunday sport in areas outside Vancouver, which already has it.
- Government legislation to prohibit the sale of disposable soft drink bottles as a method of alleviating the litter problem.
- More action to keep parks and highways clear of inflammable underbrush, litter and other wastes.
- Creation of a new provincial park "in memory of the Cariboo gold miners" in the Snowshoe Plateau area between Likely and Barkerville in the B.C. interior.
- Reinstatement of the B.C. old age supplementary allowance for payment to pensioners over and above existing federal pensions.
- A provincial government study of methods of increasing housing and rental accommodation that would also find out how to go about reducing high interest rates.

25 Rescued Off Tanker; 5 Missing

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Rescue vessels are reported to have saved 2 crew members of the Liberian-registered Greek tanker Spyros Lsmos, which broke in two in the Atlantic off Spain's Cape Finisterre on Sunday.

"Five men are still missing," the master of the Dutch motor vessel Eemland, Capt. F. W. J. Koorn, said in a radio message today. "They probably drowned during breaking of the ship."

The Eemland was en route to Amsterdam with 14 survivors of the 13,019-ton tanker, taken from the stern half 16 miles west of the cape.

The Finnish freighter Ragni Paulin plucked one man from the bow, found afloat in a vertical position, and the British submarine Odin rescued 10 from a lifeboat.

Drop-ins Start Program

A drop-in centre at Centennial United Church is attracting between 80 and 90 young people who do not belong to any church group, says John Durkin, worker for the YMCA.

"The idea is to get young people dropping in at the centre and then have them make up their own program of things they like to do."

Mr. Durkin said the drop-in centre at Centennial United was started four months ago. Today it has an art program, a cheer-leading section and a band.

Plans are now being made for a hockey team, a homework clinic and a camping program. Membership in the centre is $1 a year for a family.

"My role at the centre is to win the confidence of young people and keep them interested," Mr. Durkin said.

The centre is held in the gymnasium under Centennial Church every Wednesday and Friday at 7 p.m.

Pearson Visits Boyhood Scenes On Anniversary

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — Former prime minister Pearson recalled fond memories Sunday on a visit to this community where he lived for several years when he was a small boy. Mr. Pearson and his wife attended services marking the 150th anniversary of the Aurora United Church where his father served as minister from 1900 to 1903. "I remember my first Chirstmas here, my first day of school and my first glimpse of the former King George and Queen Mary who were then Duke and Duchess of York," Mr. Pearson said.

JEST A MINUTE BY BOB cumberbirch

Hear about the man who was getting bad gas mileage? He saved 30 percent by switching to Super Go-Go Gas; 40 percent by putting Zoom additive in the tank; 35 percent by installing a new timer, carburetor and plugs. What happened? After he'd driven 20 miles the gas tank overflowed.

The demonstrator for the electric company was instructing the group of young women in the cooking class on how to get the best results from an electric skillet.

"Now," she said, "to this roast in the skillet you add just three teaspoonsful of water; is that clear?"

Timidly, Mrs. Newlywed spoke up: "Is that level or heaping?"

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was moderately active throughout most of the session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with oilseeds taking the bulk of the action.

Flax was under pressure because of heavy hedge offerings although price support was offered by good commercial interests. Hedges in rapeseed attracted export interest on the declines.

Oat and barley action was limited to buying for eastern feeders.

Friday's trading volume included 1,096,000 bushels of flax, 529,000 of rapeseed and 118,000 of rye.

CHICAGO (AP) — Corn futures advanced three cents on the Chicago Board of Trade but came under selling pressure at the close as profit-taking trimmed the rise by more than one cent.

Several factors influenced higher prices for corn. Weekend receipts at Chicago totalled 1,773,000 bushels but shipments to Canada and Europe totalled 2,470,000 bushels. Consequently, the nearby December futures contract enjoyed the greatest trade interest.

Wheat prices opened on a weak tone but turned sharply higher under active buying attributed to the strength in corn.

Oats and rye trade was dull and prices closed virtually unchanged.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto Follows N.Y.

The Toronto Stock Market lost ground in response to weakness in New York where investors have become increasingly uncertain about the outcome of the presidential election.

Industrials and western oils led a small decline.

Leigh Instruments fell 1⅝ to 43⅛, FPE-Pioneer 1½ to 24, BA Oil ¾ to 46¼, CPR ½ to 71 and Alcan ¼ to 28⅛.

Peel Elder rose ¾ to 50¼, Revenue Properties ⅛ to 18½ and Consolidated Building 5 cents to $3.40.

Bramalea, the most active stock was up ¾ to 13½. Trading was halted Friday afternoon pending the release of the company's plans for the fourth phase of its housing development at Bramalea, Ont.

Oshawa A dropped 2¼ to 42½ and Shop and Save ½ to 23 after Oshawa wholesale announced a takeover bid. Rumors of a possible bid circulated in the market last week after Oshawa made offers for Rockower of Canada Ltd. and Bolands Ltd. of Dartmouth, N.S.

AT NEW YORK market losses deepened in sluggish pre-U.S. election trading.

Chrysler, down about 1½, paced the list on volume, thanks mainly to a block of 99,900 shares.

Youngstown Sheet dropped about a point and Lykes Corp. a fraction following word that they are talking merger.

Jim Walter was off 1½ and U.S. Pipe about a point after Jim Walter was reported to have approved a proposal to acquire U.S. Pipe.

Among Canadian stocks, Distillers Seagrams was up ⅝, Walker Gooderham ¼. McIntyre Porcupine was down 2, Canadian Pacific 1¼, Granby Mining and Hudson Bay Mining ⅞, International Nickel ⅜, Alcan and Dome Mines ¼.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to retreat in moderately active early afternoon trading. Only banks and papers moved up.

In industrials, Velcro fell 3¾ to 43, Famous Players 2 to 63, MLW-Worthington 1 to 15½ and Rothmans 1 to 24½.

MacMillan added ½ to 26½, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ⅜ to 18¾ and Consolidated Bathurst ¼ to 17¼.

In senior mines, Falconbridge dropped ¾ to 97, Cominco ⅝ to 31¼ and Rio Algom ½ to 33½. Noranda edged up ¼ to 9.

James Bay lost 21 cents to $1.35 on 65,600 shares and Dumond 6 cents to 44 cents on 389,300 in speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange.

AT LONDON most leading industrials were lower.

Among Canadians, Hollinger dropped 2½, while losses in the 1-to-1½ range were made by Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas, Trans Canada Pipe and Tri-Continental.

Dome recovered 9 points to 219. Triad, Canadian Husky and Algom also rose.

Royal Bank of Canada led banks higher, while gains of about 2 shillings were recorded by Toronto Dominion and Nova Scotia.

AT VANCOUVER Arctic was weak in pre-noon trading and lost 3 cents to $1.80.

The company has called an extraordinary meeting of shareholders for Nov. 18 to vote on a special resolution to increase its authorized capitalization from 3,000,000 to 10,000,000 shares. Arctic commenced production at its silver property near Carcross, Y.T., earlier this year.

Elsewhere, there was an even mixture of gains and losses in active trading. Copper Ridge lost .18 to $2.02, but Canusa was up .10 at .35.

In the oils Bata was .20 stronger at $3.80 and Stampede rose .25 to $7.

Status Quo Situation Expected

SEATTLE (AP) — The International North Pacific Fisheries Commission—often embroiled in strong controversies between Japan, Canada and the United States—opened its annual meeting here today with a "status quo situation" expected as the most likely result.

The commission, organized through a controversial fishing treaty between the three countries in 1953, was to begin the meeting with speeches through the day outlining various national positions. Most, if not all, of the sessions through the remainder of the week are expected to be behind closed doors.

Salmon, as usual, will be one of the chief topics this year. The U.S. long has been pressing for an agreement to move the treaty line west of 175 degrees west longitude to protect migrating runs of Bristol Bay red salmon from Japan's fishing fleets.

This proposal is certain to be made again, observers say. But Western delegates expect Japan, restricted to fishing west of the 175-degree line, to again veto the proposal. A unanimous vote would be required to change the treaty line.

Warranty Faults Blamed on Firms

By MORTON MINTZ
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A secret report on new-car warranties by staff members of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission blames Detroit for much of the trouble buyers of defective cars have when they seek satisfaction from dealers.

According to the report, one main root of the problem is the reimbursement given by the auto makers for warranty work.

The report says the compensation is so low as to be "an inducement" for some dealers to shun the work, devise excuses for rejecting it, avoid working on cars they do take in, or perform the repairs with "poorer mechanics."

FIRMS GOT REPORT

By undisclosed means, a copy of the 194-page report was obtained by Ralph Nader. The auto industry critic said that the report was completed last spring, was released privately by the FTC to the car makers and an auto dealer group, and has been withheld even from concerned government agencies.

Nader charged that the FTC thus gave the industry "preferential treatment" and, in an atmosphere of "byzantine secrecy," permitted it to apply pressure to change the staff's findings and conclusions. He also said that chairman Paul Band Dixon "has never even conceded the possibility that this report will ever be released."

According to the version of the report obtained by Nader, who said it was the final one, the average warranty expense for the 1965 models—through Dec. 20, 1966—was $41 to Ford Motor Co., $43 to General Motors, $44 to American Motors and $50 to Chrysler Corp.

Each company gives its dealers an allowance for inspection of new cars before delivery to customers. This allowance "averages from $20 to $40 below actual cost when work is done properly by good mechanics," the report says.

One finding involved "lemons"—cars with "serious malfunctions" that exceed dealers' repair capability.

"It is not the practice of American Motors and Ford to replace" such cars, the report says. Chrysler has not replaced any, either, but has helped dealers dispose of 19 which were taken back from "preferred customers." In the 1964-66 period, the report noted, GM replaced 76 defective cars with new ones.

The FTC staff said that with all its faults, the long-term warranty—initiated by Chrysler on the 1963 models—"has unquestioned value in providing greater protection to the new-car owner" and "builds a value into the car which can be transferred to subsequent owners . . ."

SIDEWALK SUPERINTENDENTS come in bunches alongside Victoria West Elementary School these days to watch construction of long-delayed and badly-needed addition. New building is first of three phases to replace ancient school and will include an open teaching area for about 200 pupils when it is finished around Easter. Numerous public meetings protesting government school construction freeze last year finally got it under way at a cost of about $200,00. Second phase, which will see balance of old scholo's classrooms replaced has no starting date yet. Third phase, construction of a gymnasium, is still farther in the future.

January 23 Set For Opening Of Legislature

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black today announced the legislative session will open at 3 p.m. Thursday, January 23.

The announcement ends speculation that tradition might be broken with a February opening for the third session of the 28th Parliament of British Columbia.

The speculation was touched off by Premier Bennett a few weeks ago when he said the heavy schedule of federal-provincial meetings this winter might force a delay in opening the session.

Mr. Bennett, at a federal-provincial meeting in Ottawa today with Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, will also attend a constitutional conference there next month.

The coming session will open with a vacant seat again.

The Burnaby-Willingdon seat held for the NDP by the late Frederick Vulliamy is not expected to be filled with a byelection call by Premier Bennett until after the session.

The Vancouver South vacancy caused by the death of Social Credit MLA Tom Bate last fall will be filled this time by Norman Levy, who took the seat for the NDP in an upset victory in the byelection Mr. Bennett called immediately after the last session prorogued.

Three Rookies Ready to Take Seats

Three other newcomers will take seats as a result of the trio of byelections during the summer: William King (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan); David Brousson (L—North Vancouver-Capilano), and Allan Cox (L—Oak Bay).

In addition, the session will see introduction of veteran MLA Pat McGeer as the new Liberal leader.

There is a slight possibility that two MLAs won't show up for the session, both Socreds.

Minister Without Portfolio P. A. Gaglardi at the party convention Saturday said he has not made any "commitment" to attend the session although he subsequently denied that meant he was leaving his post — and subsequent to that expressed a hope he could get a government job running B.C. Hydro.

Some doubt also revolves around former attorney-general Robert Bonner who has said he will continue sitting as MLA for Cariboo although his new job as vice-president of MacMillan-Bloedel Ltd. forced his resignation from the cabinet.

Mr. Bonner also had said he would attend the Social Credit convention as part of his MLA duties—in fact he was reported to have been assigned the job of introducing Premier Bennett for his keynote speech.

But he never showed up at any of the morning, afternoon and night convention sittings on either Friday or Saturday and delegates were told that company business had forced his unexpected absence.

But, if everyone turns up, there should be 32 Socreds, 16 NDP and six Liberal politicians answering the summons to Victoria to provide the government with funds for the next fiscal year and add more laws to the books.

First Billion-Plus Budget Coming

Premier Bennett already has revealed that the sessional highlights will include the first budget breaking $1 billion but some of the other developments expected are:

Reform of the liquor laws to permit at least Sunday drinking with dining room meals and possibly sale of beer and wine in grocery stores;

Funds allocated to help municipalities install sophisticated treatment plants at the secondary and tertiary levels with a possibility that primary treatment for sewage also would receive financial assistance.

Possible revamping of social welfare laws to provide more flexibility and discretion to field workers in allowing recipients to draw full payments even when earning some wages until properly established on the road to self-support;

At least a debate and probably some government legislation on the compulsory driver insurance recommended by the Wootton Royal Commission with some doubt surrounding the further recommendation that statutory prohibition against law suits be undertaken to introduce a "no-fault" system of self-insurance compensatis;

Possible creation of a new portfolio of "Youth Affairs" and elevation of one of the backbenchers to fill the post;

As well as the $1 per capita increase in municipal grants to help provide public ambulance services, a $25 million fund for special assistance to native Indians, replenishment and possible expansion of the $50,000 world relief fund which was reactivated this year after criticism in the legislature and establishment of further funds to help British Columbians obtain housing.

MIS-TRIAL DECLARED BY JUDGE

New Venue Coming For Murder Trial

The trial of two men charged with non-capital murder was declared a mistrial at the Assizes here today.

The jury of one woman and 11 men was dismissed and it is expected a new trial will be held in the New Year — possibly in Penticton or Vancouver.

Mr. Justice Wootton dismissed the jury after five days of evidence and argument because he said the best interests of justice would not be served by continuing the trial.

He ruled it a mistrial because of a statement made by a woman witness last Friday afternoon which, he said, could be prejudicial "to one or both of the accused."

The statement referred to the past record of Gary Hugh McWhirter, 24, who with Frederick James Morry, 28, was charged with killing hotel clerk William Bruce van Munster at Prospect Lake last March 15.

A partially mummified and decomposed body, found in the brush at Prospect Lake four months later, was alleged by the crown to be that of van Munster.

PACKED COURT

The trial ended abruptly at 11:30 a.m. in a courtroom packed with spectators.

Mr. Justice Wootton thanked the jury on its "close and careful attention" to the trial, which opened last Monday.

He upheld a motion by Dermod Owen-Flood, defence counsel for McWhirter, that the trial be declared a mis-trial and discontinued.

"Something was said before you which I have concluded might be prejudicial to one or both of the accused," Mr. Justice Wootton told the jury. "You are therefore discharged from further attendance in this case."

All last week the jury heard evidence called by crown counsel Louis Lindholm to the effect that the decomposed body found at Prospect Lake was that of van Munster.

There were several interruptions by defence counsel Owen-Flood and Cecil Branson, appearing for Morry, that certain evidence was inadmissible.

The jury was excluded from the courtroom when these objections were heard.

Burglars Get $2,014 From Veterans' Club

Two Safes Hacked Open

BURGLARS WORKED HARD, wielding an axe and sledgehammer, to get at money in safes at Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club. President Stan Bell inspects empty safe in lounge which is heavily covered in fingerprint powder. Smaller safe in canteen also was raided. (Times photo.)

A local veterans' club lost $2,014 to burglars who were seen making their get-away early Sunday.

The money was taken from two safes at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club at 1001 Wharf Street.

Janitor Charles Pool, reporting for work at 2:50 a.m., heard noises in the club canteen and opened the door just in time to see four men dash out the fire escape.

They fled through an alley to Fort Street.

The burglars had smashed open the canteen safe and removed the money.

They already had emptied the safe in the lower lounge.

AXE HAMMER

The thieves attacked the safes with an axe, sledgehammer and crowbar, literally beating their way into the money.

City police said entry was gained by climbing a fire escape on the north side of the building and removing the cover from a skylight.

OFFER CONSIDERED BY ELECTRICIANS

Electricians on Vancouver Island held simultaneous meetings in Victoria and Parksville Sunday to consider a contract offer after seven months of negotiations.

But whether members of Local 230 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers voted for settlement will not be announced until members of the Electrical Contractors' Association have been advised.

Assistant business manager Daryl Gorrill said the union will make an announcement sometime this week.

Many electricians on the Island walked off the job last Wednesday in a one-day protest over the length of negotiations. The contract offer considered at Sunday's meetings followed two days of negotiation ending Friday.

The basic issue in the dispute is wages. Island electricians want parity with Vancouver union members who now get $5.20 an hour. The Island rate is currently $4.52 an hour.

The Island local is the only one of six in B.C. which has not signed a contract. Their agreement expired last March.

3 HOURS OF CRITICISM

Uvic Go-Round Gets Off Track

By ALAN WHITE

A forum discussion on university change Sunday brought out three hours of general criticism of institutions and the people in them.

Somewhere along the line of discussion, specific proposals for changing the University of Victoria got waylaid.

A fluctuating audience of up to 120 persons sat in a circle in the Student Union Building and asked each other questions, arguing over the answers.

Several expressed dissatisfaction with the way the topic was shunted aside for generalities about political systems and changing them.

The forum began with a talk by Uvic philosophy instructor J. P. Graff on proposals made in a brief by Frank Frketich, president of the students' council.

The ideal university facutly should teach only what the students wanted to learn at any one time, Mr. Graff said.

FREE FACULTY

Uvic could set a North American precedent by setting up a free school on campus for instruction in what the students requested. The university could also "break new ground" by setting up a free faculty so students could set up their own courses and pick their own professors.

In answer to a question by Ronald Jeffels, dean of college and student affairs, a student suggested such a free learning system could supply vocational instruction for those who wanted training for a job.

The discussion then diverted to criticism of the ideal of going to university for a better job and higher pay.

John Conway, vice-president of the students' council during the strikes and sit-ins at Simon Fraser University, arrived from Vancouver during the discussion and gave a breakdown of the Uvic brief.

The set of proposals asks for parity with faculty for students and a changed structure at Uvic. But it should make demands that cannot be met by the system and therby force it to change.

That is "revolutionary reformism," said Mr. Conway, a Ph. D. student in sociology at SFU.

The brief was asking for power for students but was not dealing with what would be done with that power, he told the audience.

EQUALITY DRIVE

Later he told the group the student revolution was trying to gain equality in running the universities.

They are public institutions and the students are part of the public, he said, therefore they should share in running them.

"I have as much right as the president to run it."

A student challenged Mr. Conway, saying to gain these "freedoms" he would have to buy himself in a mas movement to fight for power, losing what freedoms he had.

But Mr. Conway told him individualism was a myth and he was already part of the mass. The mass must organize to struggle for power, he said.

Later he told a questioner that the student sit-in at SFU last summer was not an act of force because they had a right to sit in a "public building." The only force was when the university called in the police to have them moved, he said.

LIFE-LONG MUSIC-LOVER

Ex-Governor's Widow Succumbs Here at 93

Mrs. Quita Josephine March Nichol, widow of a former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, died at her home at 914 St. Charles Street Sunday at the age of 93.

Her husband, Walter Cameron Nichol, was lieutenant-governor from 1920 to 1926 and a former editor and publisher of The Province of Vancouver. He died in Victoria on Dec. 19, 1928.

Born at London, Ont., Mrs. Nichol was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Greenwood Moore of that city. After their marriage in London, Mr. and Mrs. Nichol came to live in Victoria in 1897.

VICTORIA PROVINCE

From 1897 to 1898, Mr. Nichol edited what was then the weekly Victoria Province. In 1898 he moved the paper to Vancouver and converted it into a daily publication.

They returned to Victoria in 1920, when Mr. Nichol was appointed lieutenant-governor, and lived at Government House until 1926.

During their term of office, Mrs. Nichol was actively interested in the IODE and the Girl Guides and this interest continued long after they left Government House.

A life-long music lover, Mrs. Nichol was closely associated with Victoria Symphony Orchestra and all musical arts in the city. She was herself a singer and pianist of talent.

Mr. Nichol was born at Goderich, Upper Canada, on Nov. 15, 1866 and educated at Hamilton, Ont. He joined the staff of The Hamilton Spectator in 1881 and the Toronto Star in 1883.

In 1887 he helped found Saturday Night in Toronto and served for a time as assistant editor. He edited the Hamilton Herald and the London News successively before moving to Victoria in 1897.

SOLD TO SOUTHAMS

Soon after his appointment as lieutenant-governor in 1920, he sold the Vancouver Province to the Southam Newspapers of Canada.

Mrs. Nichol is survived by their daughter, Mrs. T. A. Walters of Victoria, and four grandchildren. They are Senator John L. Nichol, Vancouver; Cdr. D. N. Mainguy, RCN, now serving overseas with NATO forces; C. D. Mainguy, Montreal; and Mrs. R. A. Longmore, Brampton, Ont.

Funeral services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral Tuesday at 3 p.m. and will be attended by B.C. representatives of the IODE.

Taxes! They're Wonderful

There's one happy taxpayer in Victoria today.

His name is E. Fred Greenshields and the tax he's happy about paying is to Montreal.

At the weekend Mr. Greenshields, 1466 Dallas, received a telegram from Montreal's Mayor Jean Drapeau saying the Victorian is one of 151 Canadians eligible to win up to $100,000 in silver ingots.

It is Montreal's sixth voluntary tax draw and the second time the 68-year-old Mr. Greenshields has sent in his contribution.

"I think it's a good thing—it's only two bucks and it's tax deducti[illegible]

He also thinks it's a good thing because he spent the first 65 years of his life there and "I'm tickled pink" at the chance to get back.

At Montreal's expense, Mr. Greenshields and the other winners will be flown down to meet the mayor and see the draw Sunday.

He will win at least $100 in silver ingots of the total $150,000 up for grabs. There are also prizes of $500 and $1,000.

"You've got to give that Drapeau credit. He's the outstanding mayor in Canada," said Mr. Greenshields, who retired from a printing ink business in Montreal three years ago and moved here with his wife.

A fisherman "without much success," he said the first thing he would do with one of the big prizes is "get a decent boat."

He said he intends to keep paying the $2 monthly tax.

"I can afford that," he said, adding "it's closer to home than the Irish Sweepstakes.

"I'm on cloud nine."

Mr. Greenshields and Agnes Magousky of Ladysmith are among nine British Columbians who had tickets drawn.

Four City Groups Honing For 'Education Openhouse'

Four groups interested in education will have a chance to air their views Tuesday when the Greater Victoria school board holds an "Education Openhouse."

Trustees have invited the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, the Education Action committee, a committee formed after the Education '68 conference earlier this year and a co-operative committee of school board members and teachers.

The public meeting will be in the board room of the Paul Building and starts at 8 p.m.

Doctor Remanded To Wednesday On Drug Count

An American doctor charged with possession of goods unlawfully imported into the country was remanded again today to Wednesday when he appeared before Magistrate J. A. Byers in central court.

James Sutherland Watt of California, was represented by lawyer Lloyd McKenzie. No plea was entered and the Wednesday appearance is to elect a form of trial.

Watt was remanded on his own recognizance.

The charge against him stated the goods were 300 miligrams of LSD and 50 grams of mescaline. Today Crown prosecutor Cecil Branson asked that "miligrams" be changed to "ampoules" and "50 grams" be changed to "25."

Civil Servants Honor War Dead

The annual war memorial ceremony held in the rotunda of the legislative building by civil servants has been scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Veterans, relatives and the public may attend the ceremony in honor of civil servants who lost their lives in the two world wars.

New Tug Air-Conditioned

Island Tug and Barge has taken delivery of the first air-conditioned tug ever to sail in B.C. waters.

Called Island King, the vessel is an imposing 132 feet long, with a 32-foot beam.

The vessel was built by Star Shipyards in New Westminster at a cost of about $1.25 million and features just about every electronic device available.

Completely automated, the Island King will crew seven men normally, peaking to about 14 for major jobs.

It has a cruising capacity of about 50 days and can be used either locally or in trans-ocean jobs.

Among innovations is a water converter, allowing the vessel to make its own fresh water from the ocean.

For comfort, the Island King must be called the Buckingham Palace of tug boats.

Normally every member of the crew, from captain down will have his own cabin. The vessel has been designed to provide maximum space both for crew and for working.

The dining area is complete with a built-in stereo that will play music of your choice from a wide selection of tapes.

The Island King is powered by a 3,600 h.p. GM engine.

It has a speed of about 14 knots and will be used for barge towing.

The addition of the vessel is part of an expansion program currently under way at Island Tug.

Cool-Aid Gives Hippie Service

By JOHN SLINGER

The handy-dandy local service known as Cool-Aid, dedicated to keeping footloose kids "from getting busted for vagrancy," is on a bit of a "bum trip" itself, says its co-ordinator.

Initiated early last summer to help young people passing through town find temporary accommodation, food and medical and legal assistance if needed, Cool-Aid was essentially an emergency telephone manned 24 hours a day.

But somebody racked up more than $50 in long-distance calls.

Since Cool-Aid could not pay, the telephone company cut out,

That's one thing the co-ordinator describes as a "bum trip."

Despite the phone hang-up, Cool-Aid has provided 117 billets in the last 60 days.

Another problem facing the co-ordinator is one she shares with a number of young people "just trying in some way to make the community a little better" through work with the Victoria Youth Council.

HAS HIPPLE TONE

The council has a decidedly hippie tone; its image has been fostered both by its leaders who fill most of the popular qualifications of hippiedom and by its work among the sadily aimless youngsters hanging out in Centennial Square and The Bay's basement cafeteria.

As a result, the co-ordinator's parents think the outfit is "sleazy," and would prefer their daughter stay away from its musty Quadra Street headquarters.

"Our parents can't see that we're trying to do something good," she said in an interview.

A 17-year-old Oak Bay senior secondary student, she sat in the growing autumn dusk, carefully rolled a cigarette from a plastic tobacco pouch, lit it and began to talk about the kids she tries to help.

They're mostly transients from up-Island, Vancouver and "points east."

They come because "Victoria is a very quiet, peaceful, kind of beautiful city."

Most of them are nothing more than travellers "without much bread." Bread is spelled dollars.

They're usually between 16 and 22 years old and when they arrive on Cool-Aid's doorstep they are permitted to stay no more than three days.

She estimated that no more than 10 of the 117 were local runaways and these, she said, have quickly been returned to their parents.

Problems can be more serious than merely bed and board, though. One of the Cool-Aid volunteers told of a 19-year-old Uvic student co-ed who found a combination of heroin plus the hallucinogenics LSD and "speed"—an amphetamine—more than she could handle.

GIRL FREAKS OUT

She freaked out. She spent the first two hours "screeching away, writing on the walls."

Cool-Aid was called. They checked with a doctor and for the next three hours three youngsters worked with the girl, talking to her, cooling her out until 'eventually she went to sleep."

Perhaps parents frown on Cool-Aid because they are suspicious this sort of thing is going on.

But the co-ordinator knows she is part of a teen-age generation that has decided each must choose a private wilderness in which to search for themselves. For some this search might be through the horrors of drugs. For others it might be by trying to help.

She puts it this way: "I'm a person with my own individual rights. I'm doing my own thing the best way I can do it."

She mentioned that her parents were particularly opposed to Cool-Aid because it made it easier for youngsters to run away. This was a fear expressed at the beginning of the summer by Victoria Police Chief John Gregory who worried the service might turn the city into a sort of hippie-haven.

"I think that's sort of silly," she said, "because if you want to leave, you'll leave."

Engineer Has Half Century Of Memories

A half-century of good memories lie behind Alfred T. Thompsett, who on Saturday stepped down from the controls of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway car for the last time.

Mr. Thompsett, who lives at 1161 Burdett, joined the E and N in 1918 as an engine wiper in the Esquimalt roundhouse. In 1923 he became a locomotive fireman and took over the controls of a steam engine in 1940.

Since then he has operated trains between Victoria and Courtenay, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Duncan.

He says he will miss the people along his run with whom he has had a waving acquaintanceship for years and that he will now spend most of his time gardening and golfing.

True to his word, this morning before 10 the retired engineer was out creating more good memories at the Colwood golf course.

"Wild horses and high water couldn't stop him from playing golf," said his wife, Audrey. "He loves the game."

CONTROVERSY BLEW UP on the weekend over which version of the Canadian poem "In Flanders Fields" is authentic. New Canadian postage stamp honoring the author, Lt.-Col. John McCrae, reads "In Flanders fields the poppies blow" but manuscript in Montreal library shows Mr. McCrae ended first line with word "grow". Punch magazine in London agreed to publish Mr. McCrae's poem in 1915 but insisted upon changing "grow" to "blow". Some early letters by Mr. McCrae show he early incorporated the "blow" version in the poem.

Judge Clears Two Ministers

EDMONTON (CP) — Mr. Justice W. J. Kirby has found that neither Lands and Forests Minister A. J. Hooke nor E. W. Hinman, former provincial treasurer, used or attempted to use his public office for personal gain.

The Alberta Supreme Court justice was reporting on a judicial inquiry into allegations against Mr. Hooke and Mr. Hinman by Garth Turcott, former New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Pincher Creek-Crowsnest. The report was made public today.

Mr. Turcott made the allegations in the legislature April 3, 1967, and the inquiry was set up by Premier E. C. Manning May 12 of the same year.

The 362-page report covers 55 days of testimony from 66 witnesses in hearings that extended from June 1, 1967, to June 4, 1968.

Formula Proposed To Determine Death

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — Surgeons at Groote Schuur Hospital, where the world's first human heart transplant operation took place 11 months ago, have proposed a formula to define death which would give them the right to withhold or discontinue treatment of a dying patient.

The proposal defines death as occurring at the moment the brain breaks down completely.

Their document says doctors should be able to stop treating a patient if they feel it would no longer be of use or if they find progressive and irreversible breakdown of the brain's function.

The document, submitted to hospital authorities for ratification last week, deals with the procedure for transplanting organs, a controversial subject since Dr. Christiaan Barnard first transplanted a human heart last December.

The decision to stop treatment and declare the patient dead, the document says, should be made by two doctors, one of them a specialist.

The surgeons suggested that a patient cold be declared dead when a multi-channel electro-encephalographic recording showed no brain activity and when other tests showed that the patient was unable to breathe independently and spontaneously for five minutes, that there was a total absence of motor activity or reflex response which could be attributed to brain failure, that both eye pupils were dilated and unresponsive to light and that certain eye reflexes were absent.

These conditions should be observed for 24 hours if the patients' blood circulation was sustained and adequate, they said.

Once death was determined, the document says, the patient would become "a potential donor candidate."

Noted Canadian Scientist Dies

TORONTO (CP) — William B. Baker, 49, internationally-known social scientist, died here Saturday after a brief illness.

Dr. Baker founded the centre for community studies in Saskatchewan 10 years ago and at one time was chairman of the United Nations committee studying community development.

He has been working since last summer on a study on urban social redevelopment projects in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver. Dr. Baker was born in Veregin, Sask.

Restrictions Go

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Indonesian shipping sources said today their government has lifted its two-week restrictions on shipping to and from Singapore. The department imposed the restrictions after Singapore executed two Indonesian marines for terrorism. The marines were proclaimed national heroes here. But the sources say the government has ordered that shipping to and from Singapore should be brought back to normal.

Four Years Later, A Different Picture

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Four years ago, Americans gave President Johnson an unprecedented electoral mandate a few days after Nikita Khrushchev was deposed as Soviet premier and China had exploded its first nuclear device.

Vietnam was a distant, minor but persistent war involving 23,000 American "advisers" and President Johnson in a celebrated campaign statement said he did not intend to dispatch masses of troops there to a combat Asians themselves should conduct.

France was restive but still within NATO's military circle. Indonesia appeared firmly under the thumb of then President Sukarno and drifting steadily farther left.

The Middle East was tense as usual but under control. India and Pakistan were eight months away from a war and the Dominican Republic was six months away from the use of 22,000 U.S. troops to wipe out a left-leaning revolt.

There had re-emerged a few faint indicatios of dissent within some of the Soviet satellites.

AIDE WAS ARRESTED

The chief impact of Khrushchev's forced abdication and the Chinese nuclear blast appeared to be the muffling of publicity about President Johnson's closest aide being arrested on a morals charge.

This year? The shape of world affairs is dominated by Vietnam, particularly with President Johnson's long-awaited decision to halt all the bombing of the North.

What it will mean to voters Tuesday may or may not become clear in the results.

But the year's foreign events of note have played some role in pushing the political centre farther right.

There was the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet military expansion keyed on growing naval power and a solid toehold in the Mediterranean, North Korea's seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its 83-man crew and the lingering Arab-Israeli hostility.

Bridge-building to the Soviet Union has slowed, although Russia was kept fully informed of—and perhaps helped in—arriving at the decision to stop bombing of North Vietnam.

City Symphony Heard by 500 At Campbell R.

CAMPBELL RIVER — More than 500 persons attended a Sunday afternoon concert here by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra conducted by Lazlo Gati.

Seventeen-year-old pianist Camille Inkman was guest soloist.

The Campbell River Concert Society, organized last May with 25 members, has increased its membership to 536. Three more concerts are scheduled for the season.

Local school board trustees are considering buying a grand piano to accommodate visiting musicians. The piano for Sunday's concert was trucked from Victoria.

Street Stall Picture Buy May Be Goya

LONDON (CP) — Britain is in a flurry over art bargains and now a Creshire hairdresser says a Canadian expert has helped him identify a five-shilling (65-cents) purchase as a painting by the Spanish master Goya.

Wilhelm Winer of Frodsham, 150 miles northwest of here, bought the picture of a woman and a child from a street stall. The seller told him it was a paper print glued to a canvas.

Winer told The Daily Sketch he found the picture actually was a painting. He said he couldn't afford a valuation so he sent photographs of it to Dr. Rolf Medgessy in Montreal who he knew "would look at it for nothing."

The hairdresser was quoted as saying he got in touch with Medgessy described as a registered expert on antique paintings, through a box number at Victoria Station, Montreal. It was not known how he selected the Montrealer.

He said Medgessy had advised him in a letter that he found signatures of Francisco de Goya in the brush work and that the picture "has the style of the young Goya." The painter lived from 1746 to 1828.

Winer said he has not been able to find out how much the painting is worth, though he said he let two galleries look at it. He added they "did not say it was a Goya."

Stories of unsuspected art treasures have been popping up in British papers since the recent disclosure that a painting by the 13th century Italian artist Duccio was bought for £2,700 (about $6,920) at a country auction and sold to the National Gallery for £150,000 ($390,000).

Gas Blast Rocks Midland Rd. Area

A gasoline explosion in a sewer manhole rocked the Midland Road area in Oak Bay late Sunday evening.

Oak Bay fire department said there was no damage.

Police suspected it was a prank by young people.

Workers Seize Quebec Plant

WINDSOR, Que. (CP) — Striking Domtar Pulp and Paper Ltd. employees today continued an occupation begun Sunday at the company's plant here. Police reported acts of vandalism.

Police said about 150 drivers occupied company buildings "in orderly fashion" and ordered security guards off the premises. There were no clashes with security officers.

But police later reported that the strikers were "apparently breaking company equipment."

"We're told that the strikers have damaged a number of water pipes used in the production of pulp and paper as well as a supply of paper which was in the plant at the time of the takeover."

HELP NOT SOUGHT

The police spokesman said, however, that the town's 10-man police force had received no orders to intervene.

The strike by 750 workers here and 450 in Domtar's East Angus plant started July 18 following unsuccessful conciliation proceedings.

Domtar said negotiations broke down last Friday after it was learned that foremen and security personnel were being subjected to acts of intimidation by members of the National Union of Pulp and Paper Workers, an affiliate of the Confederation of National Trade Unions which bargains for the workers.

Violence erupted both here and at the East Angus plant in mid-September when strikers clashed with security guards. Windows were smashed and company equipment was damaged.

Strikers rejected a 30 cent-an-hour pay increase over three years. The union is seeking 35 cents over two years.

Domtar says the average hourly wage at Windsor is $2.96.

... JORDAN

hind the trouble was concentrating all its efforts against his government on the east bank of the Jordan River and not against Israel.

The interior ministry communique identified the commando group as the Victory Phalanges and said its leader was Taher Dablan.

The Victory Phalanges was one of three organizations which claimed to have been responsible for the giant fire at Israel's Lod Airport near Tel Aviv on Oct. 24.

BOTH DENY CLAIMS

Israel and Egypt, meanwhile, each denied the other's claims after their planes duelled over the Suez Canal Sunday for the second time in two weeks. An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said Israeli fighters chased two Egyptian MiG-21 jets that flew into Sinai. He said one Egyptian plane gave off smoke as it fled across the canal, while no Israeli planes were hit.

A military communique from Cairo said "one enemy plane was hit and exploded in the air" when patrolling Egyptian fighters engaged four Israeli planes that attempted to violate Egyptian air space over the canal. The communique said Egyptian anti-aircraft guns "possibly hit another enemy plane."

Jerusalem was again gripped by tension following the burning of an Arab store whose owner refused to participate in an Arab shopkeepers' strike.

GROWDS GATHER

All Arab stores were closed in sympathy with the owners of 15 shops seized by the police. Thousands of Arab civilians and schoolboys, milled about in the narrow, cobbled streets inside the Old City and in the modern quarter outside the walls. Border troops and police were on the alert.

The Israeli army accused Arab gunners inside Jordan of firing bazooka shells at an Israeli civilian car and an army patrol in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria Sunday night. Israeli troops returned the fire, a spokesman said, and no Israeli casualties were reported.

In New York, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and United Nations envoy Gunnar V. Jarring planned a private conference today which could make or break Jarring's 11-month effort to bring peace to the Middle East.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad has threatened to quit Jarring's go-between talks unless Eban announces Israel's willingness to withdraw from all Arab territories occupied after the June 6 war.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The Examiner prepared to publish today despite a strike by 20 members of the Peterborough unit of the Toronto Newspaper Guild, which started Saturday as the result of a contract dispute.

The newspaper published its regular two editions Saturday although only nine members of the editorial staff who are not guild members were at work.

Berlin Quells Demonstration At Disbarment

From AP-Reuters

BERLIN (CP) — Several thousand police and young leftists flailed into each other with clubs and cobblestones in West Berlin today as demonstrators tried to stop disbarment proceedings against Horst Mahler, a lawyer who has supported students.

Some 1,500 demonstrators with an arsenal of chemicals and their own ambulance service battled with 1,000 riot police, trying to hold them back from the Charlottenburg district courthouse where Mahler was on trial before a court of lawyers.

First estimates after the battle had raged through adjoining streets for two hours put the number of casualties at about 20 police and up to twice as many demonstrators.

About 50 students were marched off by police in one area.

PREPARE FOR CONVENTION

The demonstration came amidst preparations for a convention today of West Germany's Christian Democratic party here, a meeting which the Soviet Union and East Germany have bitterly attacked.

The Communists maintain that West Berlin is a special political entity on East German territory in which West German authorities have no business. They say the Christian Democrat congress is an illegal and intolerable provocation.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger is scheduled to make the keynote speech to his party's convention later today.

During today's demonstration, several lawyers and bystanders were hit by cobblestones ripped from the sidewalks and hurled by the youths, most of them wearing crash helmets, as they moved forward in waves directed by leaders with megaphones.

Police casualties were loaded into city ambulances.

The city's chief prosecutor had accused Mahler of acting during the demonstration last April against the Springer publishing house following the attempt to assassinate leftist student leader Rudi Dutschke.

Status Quo Situation Expected

SEATTLE (AP) — The International North Pacific Fisheries Commission—often embroiled in strong controversies between Japan, Canada and the United States—opened its annual meeting here today with a "status quo situation" expected as the most likely result.

The commission, organized through a controversial fishing treaty between the three countries in 1953, was to begin the meeting with speeches through the day outlining various national positions. Most, if not all, of the sessions through the remainder of the week are expected to be behind closed doors.

Salmon, as usual, will be one of the chief topics this year. The U.S. long has been pressing for an agreement to move the treaty line west of 175 degrees west longitude to protect migrating runs of Bristol Bay red salmon from Japan's fishing fleets.

This proposal is certain to be made again, observers say. But Western delegates expect Japan, restricted to fishing west of the 175-degree line, to again veto the proposal. A unanimous vote would be required to change the treaty line.

Gold, Dollar Holdings Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars were down slightly at the end of Octover compared to the end of September, the federal department of finance announced today.

Holdings Oct. 31 were $2,525,300 against $2,534,100 at Sept. 30.

Canada's net credit in the International Monetary Fund—equivalent to exchange reserves—was up to $3,700,000 on Oct. 31 from $900,000 on Sept. 30.

Warranty Faults Blamed on Firms

By MORTON MINTZ
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A secret report on new-car warranties by staff members of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission blames Detroit for much of the trouble buyers of defective cars have when they seek satisfaction from dealers.

According to the report, one main root of the problem is the reimbursement given by the auto makers for warranty work.

The report says the compensation is so low as to be "an inducement" for some dealers to shun the work, devise excuses for rejecting it, avoid working on cars they do take in, or perform the repairs with "poorer mechanics."

FIRMS GOT REPORT

By undisclosed means, a copy of the 194-page report was obtained by Ralph Nader. The auto industry critic said that the report was completed last spring, was released privately by the FTC to the car makers and an auto dealer group, and has been withheld even from concerned government agencies.

Nader charged that the FTC thus gave the industry "preferential treatment" and, in an atmosphere of "byzantine secrecy," permitted it to apply pressure to change the staff's findings and conclusions. He also said that chairman Paul Band Dixon "has never even conceded the possibility that this report will ever be released."

According to the version of the report obtained by Nader, who said it was the final one, the average warranty expense for the 1965 models—through Dec. 20, 1966—was $41 to Ford Motor Co., $43 to General Motors, $44 to American Motors and $50 to Chrysler Corp.

Each company gives its dealers an allowance for inspection of new cars before delivery to customers. This allowance "averages from $20 to $40 below actual cost when work is done properly by good mechanics," the report says.

One finding involved "lemons"—cars with "serious malfunctions" that exceed dealers' repair capability.

"It is not the practice of American Motors and Ford to replace" such cars, the report says. Chrysler has not replaced any, either, but has helped dealers dispose of 19 which were taken back from "preferred customers." In the 1964-66 period, the report noted, GM replaced 76 defective cars with new ones.

The FTC staff said that with all its faults, the long-term warranty—initiated by Chrysler on the 1963 models—"has unquestioned value in providing greater protection to the new-car owner" and "builds a value into the car which can be transferred to subsequent owners . . ."

SIDEWALK SUPERINTENDENTS come in bunches alongside Victoria West Elementary School these days to watch construction of long-delayed and badly-needed addition. New building is first of three phases to replace ancient school and will include an open teaching area for about 200 pupils when it is finished around Easter. Numerous public meetings protesting government school construction freeze last year finally got it under way at a cost of about $200,00. Second phase, which will see balance of old school's classrooms replaced has no starting date yet. Third phase, construction of a gymnasium, is still farther in the future.

January 23 Set For Opening Of Legislature

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black today announced the legislative session will open at 3 p.m. Thursday, January 23.

The announcement ends speculation that tradition might be broken with a February opening for the third session of the 28th Parliament of British Columbia.

The speculation was touched off by Premier Bennett a few weeks ago when he said the heavy schedule of federal-provincial meetings this winter might force a delay in opening the session.

Mr. Bennett, at a federal-provincial meeting in Ottawa today with Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, will also attend a constitutional conference there next month.

The coming session will open with a vacant seat again.

The Burnaby-Willingdon seat held for the NDP by the late Frederick Vulliamy is not expected to be filled with a byelection call by Premier Bennett until after the session.

The Vancouver South vacancy caused by the death of Social Credit MLA Tom Bate last fall will be filled this time by Norman Levy, who took the seat for the NDP in an upset victory in the byelection Mr. Bennett called immediately after the last session prorogued.

Three Rookies Ready to Take Seats

Three other newcomers will take seats as a result of the trio of byelections during the summer: William King (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan); David Brousson (L—North Vancouver-Capilano), and Allan Cox (L—Oak Bay).

In addition, the session will see introduction of veteran MLA Pat McGeer as the new Liberal leader.

There is a slight possibility that two MLAs won't show up for the session, both Socreds.

Minister Without Portfolio P. A. Gaglardi at the party convention Saturday said he has not made any "commitment" to attend the session although he subsequently denied that meant he was leaving his post — and subsequent to that expressed a hope he could get a government job running B.C. Hydro.

Some doubt also revolves around former attorney-general Robert Bonner who has said he will continue sitting as MLA for Cariboo although his new job as vice-president of MacMillan-Bloedel Ltd. forced his resignation from the cabinet.

Mr. Bonner also had said he would attend the Social Credit convention as part of his MLA duties—in fact he was reported to have been assigned the job of introducing Premier Bennett for his keynote speech.

But he never showed up at any of the morning, afternoon and night convention sittings on either Friday or Saturday and delegates were told that company business had forced his unexpected absence.

But, if everyone turns up, there should be 32 Socreds, 16 NDP and six Liberal politicians answering the summons to Victoria to provide the government with funds for the next fiscal year and add more laws to the books.

First Billion-Plus Budget Coming

Premier Bennett already has revealed that the sessional highlights will include the first budget breaking $1 billion but some of the other developments expected are:

Reform of the liquor laws to permit at least Sunday drinking with dining room meals and possibly sale of beer and wine in grocery stores;

Funds allocated to help municipalities install sophisticated treatment plants at the secondary and tertiary levels with a possibility that primary treatment for sewage also would receive financial assistance.

Possible revamping of social welfare laws to provide more flexibility and discretion to field workers in allowing recipients to draw full payments even when earning some wages until properly established on the road to self-support;

At least a debate and probably some government legislation on the compulsory driver insurance recommended by the Wootton Royal Commission with some doubt surrounding the further recommendation that statutory prohibition against law suits be undertaken to introduce a "no-fault" system of self-insurance compensatis;

Possible creation of a new portfolio of "Youth Affairs" and elevation of one of the backbenchers to fill the post;

As well as the $1 per capita increase in municipal grants to help provide public ambulance services, a $25 million fund for special assistance to native Indians, replenishment and possible expansion of the $50,000 world relief fund which was reactivated this year after criticism in the legislature and establishment of further funds to help British Columbians obtain housing.

MISTRIAL DECLARED BY JUDGE

New Venue Coming For Murder Trial

The trial of two men charged with non-capital murder was declared a mistrial at the Assizes here today.

The jury of one woman and 11 men was dismissed and it is expected a new trial will be held in the New Year — possibly in Penticton or Vancouver.

Mr. Justice Wootton dismissed the jury after five days of evidence and argument because he said the best interests of justice would not be served by continuing the trial.

He ruled it a mistrial because of a statement made by a woman witness last Friday afternoon which, he said, could be prejudicial "to one or both of the accused."

The statement referred to the past record of Gary Hugh McWhirter, 24, who with Frederick James Morry, 28, was charged with killing hotel clerk William Bruce van Munster at Prospect Lake last March 15.

A partially mummified and decomposed body, found in the brush at Prospect Lake four months later, was alleged by the crown to be that of van Munster.

PACKED COURT

The trial ended abruptly at 11:30 a.m. in a courtroom packed with spectators.

Mr. Justice Wootton thanked the jury on its "close and careful attention" to the trial, which opened last Monday.

He upheld a motion by Dermod Owen-Flood, defence counsel for McWhirter, that the trial be declared a mistrial and discontinued.

"Something was said before you which I have concluded might be prejudicial to one or both of the accused," Mr. Justice Wootton told the jury. "You are therefore discharged from further attendance in this case."

All last week the jury heard evidence called by crown counsel Louis Lindholm to the effect that the decomposed body found at Prospect Lake was that of van Munster.

There were several interruptions by defence counsel Owen-Flood and Cecil Branson, appearing for Morry, that certain evidence was inadmissible.

The jury was excluded from the courtroom when these objections were heard.

Burglars Get $2,014 From Veterans' Club

Two Safes Hacked Open

A local veterans' club lost $2,014 to burglars who were seen making their get-away early Sunday.

The money was taken from two safes at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club at 1001 Wharf Street.

Janitor Charles Pool, reporting for work at 2:50 a.m., heard noises in the club canteen and opened the door just in time to see four men dash out the fire escape.

They fled through an alley to Fort Street.

The burglars had smashed open the canteen safe and removed the money.

They already had emptied the safe in the lower lounge.

AXE HAMMER

The thieves attacked the safes with an axe, sledgehammer and crowbar, literally beating their way into the money.

City police said entry was gained by climbing a fire escape on the north side of the building and removing the cover from a skylight.

Police later recovered a sledge-hammer, crow bar and some stockings from the side of Tyee Road.

BURGLARS WORKED HARD, wielding an axe and sledgehammer, to get at money in safes at Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club. President Stan Bell inspects empty safe in lounge which is heavily covered in fingerprint powder. Smaller safe in canteen also was raided. (Times photo.)

OFFER CONSIDERED BY ELECTRICIANS

Electricians on Vancouver Island held simultaneous meetings in Victoria and Parksville Sunday to consider a contract offer after seven months of negotiations.

But whether members of Local 230 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers voted for settlement will not be announced until members of the Electrical Contractors' Association have been advised.

Assistant business manager Daryl Gorrill said the union will make an announcement sometime this week.

Many electricians on the Island walked off the job last Wednesday in a one-day protest over the length of negotiations. The contract offer considered at Sunday's meetings followed two days of negotiation ending Friday.

The basic issue in the dispute is wages. Island electricians want parity with Vancouver union members who now get $5.20 an hour. The Island rate is currently $4.52 an hour.

The Island local is the only one of six in B.C. which has not signed a contract. Their agreement expired last March.

3 HOURS OF CRITICISM

Uvic Go-Round Gets Off Track

By ALAN WHITE

A forum discussion on university change Sunday brought out three hours of general criticism of institutions and the people in them.

Somewhere along the line of discussion, specific proposals for changing the University of Victoria got waylaid.

A fluctuating audience of up to 120 persons sat in a circle in the Student Union Building and asked each other questions, arguing over the answers.

Several expressed dissatisfaction with the way the topic was shunted aside for generalities about political systems and changing them.

The forum began with a talk by Uvic philosophy instructor J. P. Graff on proposals made in a brief by Frank Frketich, president of the students' council.

The ideal university facutly should teach only what the students wanted to learn at any one time, Mr. Graff said.

FREE FACULTY

Uvic could set a North American precedent by setting up a free school on campus for instruction in what the students requested. The university could also "break new ground" by setting up a free faculty so students could set up their own courses and pick their own professors.

In answer to a question by Ronald Jeffels, dean of college and student affairs, a student suggested such a free learning system could supply vocational instruction for those who wanted training for a job.

The discussion then diverted to criticism of the ideal of going to university for a better job and higher pay.

John Conway, vice-president of the students' council during the strikes and sit-ins at Simon Fraser University, arrived from Vancouver during the discussion and gave a breakdown of the Uvic brief.

The set of proposals asks for parity with faculty for students and a changed structure at Uvic. But it should make demands that cannot be met by the system and therby force it to change.

That is "revolutionary reformism," said Mr. Conway, a Ph. D. student in sociology at SFU.

The brief was asking for power for students but was not dealing with what would be done with that power, he told the audience.

Students now need a "manifesto on intellectual freedom" to protect them from the "arbitrary" power of faculty and university administrators.

EQUALITY DRIVE

Later he told the group the student revolution was trying to gain equality in running the universities.

They are public institutions and the students are part of the public, he said, therefore they should share in running them.

"I have as much right as the president to run it."

A student challenged Mr. Conway, saying to gain these "freedoms" he would have to buy himself in a mass movement to fight for power, losing what freedoms he had.

But Mr. Conway told him individualism was a myth and he was already part of the mass. The mass must organize to struggle for power, he said.

Later he told a questioner that the student sit-in at SFU last summer was not an act of force because they had a right to sit in a "public building." The only force was when the university called in the police to have them moved, he said.

LIFE-LONG MUSIC-LOVER

Ex-Governor's Widow Succumbs Here at 93

Mrs. Quita Josephine March Nichol, widow of a former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, died at her home at 914 St. Charles Street Sunday at the age of 93.

Her husband, Walter Cameron Nichol, was lieutenant-governor from 1920 to 1926 and a former editor and publisher of The Province of Vancouver. He died in Victoria on Dec. 19, 1928.

Born at London, Ont., Mrs. Nichol was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Greenwood Moore of that city. After their marriage in London, Mr. and Mrs. Nichol came to live in Victoria in 1897.

VICTORIA PROVINCE

From 1897 to 1898, Mr. Nichol edited what was then the weekly Victoria Province. In 1898 he moved the paper to Vancouver and converted it into a daily publication.

They returned to Victoria in 1920, when Mr. Nichol was appointed lieutenant-governor, and lived at Government House until 1926.

During their term of office, Mrs. Nichol was actively interested in the IODE and the Girl Guides and this interest continued long after they left Government House.

A life-long music lover, Mrs. Nichol was closely associated with Victoria Symphony Orchestra and all musical arts in the city. She was herself a singer and pianist of talent.

Mr. Nichol was born at Goderich, Upper Canada, on Nov. 15, 1866 and educated at Hamilton, Ont. He joined the staff of The Hamilton Spectator in 1881 and the Toronto Star in 1883.

In 1887 he helped found Saturday Night in Toronto and served for a time as assistant editor. He edited the Hamilton Herald and the London News successively before moving to Victoria in 1897.

SOLD TO SOUTHAMS

Soon after his appointment as lieutenant-governor in 1920, he sold the Vancouver Province to the Southam Newspapers of Canada.

Mrs. Nichol is survived by their daughter, Mrs. T. A. Walters of Victoria, and four grandchildren. They are Senator John L. Nichol, Vancouver; Cdr. D. N. Mainguy, RCN, now serving overseas with NATO forces; C. D. Mainguy, Montreal; and Mrs. R. A. Longmore, Brampton, Ont.

Funeral services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral Tuesday at 3 p.m. and will be attended by B.C. representatives of the IODE.

Taxes! They're Wonderful

There's one happy taxpayer in Victoria today.

His name is E. Fred Greenshields and the tax he's happy about paying is to Montreal.

At the weekend Mr. Greenshields, 1466 Dallas, received a telegram from Montreal's Mayor Jean Drapeau saying the Victorian is one of 151 Canadians eligible to win up to $100,000 in silver ingots.

It is Montreal's sixth voluntary tax draw and the second time the 68-year-old Mr. Greenshields has sent in his contribution.

"I think it's a good thing—it's only two bucks and it's tax deductible."

He also thinks it's a good thing because he spent the first 65 years of his life there and "I'm tickled pink" at the chance to get back.

At Montreal's expense, Mr. Greenshields and the other winners will be flown down to meet the mayor and see the draw Sunday.

He will win at least $100 in silver ingots of the total $150,000 up for grabs. There are also prizes of $500 and $1,000.

"You've got to give that Drapeau credit. He's the outstanding mayor in Canada," said Mr. Greenshields, who retired from a printing ink business in Montreal three years ago and moved here with his wife.

A fisherman "without much success," he said the first thing he would do with one of the big prizes is "get a decent boat."

He said he intends to keep paying the $2 monthly tax.

"I can afford that," he said, adding "it's closer to home than the Irish Sweepstakes.

"I'm on cloud nine."

Mr. Greenshields and Agnes Magousky of Ladysmith are among nine British Columbians who had tickets drawn.

Doctor Remanded To Wednesday On Drug Count

An American doctor charged with possession of goods unlawfully imported into the country was remanded again today to Wednesday when he appeared before Magistrate J. A. Byers in central court.

James Sutherland Watt of California, was represented by lawyer Lloyd McKenzie. No plea was entered and the Wednesday appearance is to elect a form of trial.

Watt was remanded on his own recognizance.

The charge against him stated the goods were 300 miligrams of LSD and 50 grams of mescaline. Today Crown prosecutor Cecil Branson asked that "milligrams" be changed to "ampoules" and "50 grams" be changed to "25."

Civil Servants Honor War Dead

The annual war memorial ceremony held in the rotunda of the legislative building by civil servants has been scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Veterans, relatives and the public may attend the ceremony in honor of civil servants who lost their lives in the two world wars.

Four City Groups Honing For 'Education Openhouse'

Four groups interested in education will have a chance to air their views Tuesday when the Greater Victoria school board holds an "Education Openhouse."

Trustees have invited the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, the Education Action committee, a committee formed after the Education '68 conference earlier this year and a co-operative committee of school board members and teachers.

The public meeting will be in the board room of the Paul Building and starts at 8 p.m.

New Tug Air-Conditioned

Island Tug and Barge has taken delivery of the first air-conditioned tug ever to sail in B.C. waters.

Called Island King, the vessel is an imposing 132 feet long, with a 32-foot beam.

The vessel was built by Star Shipyards in New Westminster at a cost of about $1.25 million and features just about every electronic device available.

Completely automated, the Island King will crew seven men normally, peaking to about 14 for major jobs.

It has a cruising capacity of about 50 days and can be used either locally or in trans-ocean jobs.

Among innovations is a water converter, allowing the vessel to make its own fresh water from the ocean.

For comfort, the Island King must be called the Buckingham Palace of tug boats.

Normally every member of the crew, from captain down will have his own cabin. The vessel has been designed to provide maximum space both for crew and for working.

The dining area is complete with a built-in stereo that will play music of your choice from a wide selection of tapes.

The Island King is powered by a 3,600 h.p. GM engine.

It has a speed of about 14 knots and will be used for barge towing.

The addition of the vessel is part of an expansion program currently under way at Island Tug.
